Fading Winter Revives In Russia, Reds Press Offensive in Blizzard

Three Nazi Bases For Spring Attack Hit in 'Heaviest Fighting of Year'

White Hope

By the Associated Press

London, March 16.—In the heaviest fighting of the year on the Russian front, the Red army was delivering mighty blows amid the swirl of blizzards today against three of Hitler's encircled "spring offensive" bases and striving hard to draw the strings on two others caught in deep pockets.

After two days without substantial change in the fighting lines, tonight's communique said the Red army offensive again was surging forward and that during the day several additional points were liberated. It reported three German planes downed near Moscow during the day and that between March 8 and 14 Nazi losses totalled 215 aircraft, against 57 Soviet losses.

The Germans themselves admitted a temporary breach in their lines somewhere in the center and strong Soviet attacks in the Crimea.

General Winter Returns

The Germans, bewailing that winter had set in again after an early March thaw on some southern sectors, told of 13 below zero temperatures in the Crimea, 22 below in the central sector and 31 below in the north, with strong northeastern winds piling up snow so deep that even sledges were stopped in the center and north.

Most of the reports on progress of the Red army came in Stockholm dispatches which said Russian parachutists had seized strong fortified points behind the German lines in the central sector.

This unofficial information was summed up thus:

The great industrial city of Kursk, one of Hitler's winter forts 280 miles south of Mosow, has been isolated by the Russians, who have penetrated both to the north and south and cut the vital railway back to the supply base at Kontop, 150 miles to the west and half way to Kiev.

The Russians were said to be threatening Dyakanovo, 20 miles west of Kursk.

Hard Fighting Around Orel

Fierce fighting the past few days around Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow, has resulted in the Russian capture of Khotynets, 30 miles to the northwest, and Olsianki, 15 miles to the south on the Orel-Kursk Railway. Further, a heavy battle was reported in progress around Kromi, 25 miles southwest of Orel.

(Some reports said only that the Russians were attacking Khotynets and Olsianki.)

Timor Airfield Is Pounded Hard; Japs Raid Darwin

By the Associated Press

Melbourne March 16.—The Japanese returned today to heavy aerial assaults upon Darwin, the northern mainland port being developed as an Allied naval base, and the Allied air arm struck back at the enemy bases north of Australia in the fateful struggle developing for the mastery of these skies.

[The raiders came over Darwin in two waves of seven bombers each, International News Service reported, and dropped what Prime Minister Curtin called "antipersonnel" missiles, designed primarily to inflict casualties, a purpose they failed to fulfill. Some demolition bombs also fell on "definite tragets," but the damage was described as negligible. It was not yet known whether any raider had been shot down. There had been three other Jap raids on Darwin.]

United States and Australian pilots were in almost continuous action over the periphery of the enemy's island bases from Timor on the west to New Guinea and New

Air and Ground Forces Have Landed, War Department Says

The War Department announced officially last night that "considerable numbers" of United States troops are now in Australia.

It was clear that the Americans, both air and ground forces, had been sent to the United Nations' last stronghold in the Southwest Pacific area to join in defense of that continent and, presumably to use it as a base for eventual counteraction against the Japanese invaders.

The announcement, made in War Department communique No. 148, issued as of 11 o'clock last night, said:

"1. The Secretary of War announced that units of the United States Army, including both air and ground troops in considerable numbers, are now in Australia. No information as to strength, designation of units, nor location is at present available for publication.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

While it had been assumed for some days, in many quarters, that

Draft Lottery Today to List 9 Millions

Stimson to Draw Out 1st Green-Tinted Capsule Setting Order For Call to the Colors

The red, white and blue will be tinged with green for the third giant draft lottery starting at 6 p. m. today—St. Patrick's Day—in the interdepartmental auditorium here.

The first lottery since America entered the war—it will start the classifying of a new pool of nine million men for possible service in the armed forces.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson will draw the first number from the historic goldfish bowl, the same one used in the last World War and in the 1940 and 1941 peacetime lotteries. The capsules containing the fateful numbers will all be green—naturally.

Irish to Be on Hand

A group of green-clad Irish war veterans will be on hand to assist in the drawings. The shamrock had already left its mark on the millions of registrants because the cards they signed last month were green-tinted.

Officially, all this green was just a coincidence. The date was chosen by an Irish-American named Maj. E. W. Culligan, chief of press relations at Selective Service headquarters. He worked it out with an assistant whose name just happens to be Joseph Flynn.

There are 7000 capsules, each containing a number from 1 to 7000. The drawing is expected to consume a total of 12 hours. In addition to Stimson, high Army and Navy officers and Congressional leaders and other dignitaries will help with the drawing.

The bowl which will contain the capsules was brought to Washington yesterday from Independence Hall in Philadelphia by an honor guard of World War veterans and Selective Service officials.

June Induction for Some

Affected are about 1,650,000 youngsters 20 to 21 years old, and about 7,350,000 older men who were between 35 and 44 on February 16. Some 17 million others between 21 and 35 registered in the first two drafts.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said those who will receive their order numbers today will not receive questionnaires until mid-May. Induction for some of them may start in June.

They will make up part of the 3,000,000-man army which the United States wants to create before the end of the year. Although the ultimate size of the army is a military secret, officials have declared that victory would require an army of between seven and ten million men.

Yesterday, Selective Service announced a new system for inducting

After the Deluge

A 6 per cent limitation on profits, coupled with suspension of the 40-hour week and the closed shop on war contracts yesterday was proposed in a House suddenly loud in demands for action to end bottlenecks in production.

Jointly drawn by Representative Smith, of Virginia, and Vinson, of Georgia (Democrats), the omnibus legislative restrictions on profits and labor were introduced at the end of a stormy House session.

Labor Committee Detoured

Flourishing letters and telegrams demanding suspension of the 40-hour week, which hit the Capitol in tens of thousands last weekend, members took the floor in a vain effort to get them in the Record.

Coincident with the demonstration, the Smith-Vinson bill was dropped into the House hopper and routed around the inactive House Labor Committee to waiting committees on Naval and Military Affairs.

Chairman Vinson, of the House Naval Committee, said hearings would open before his group on Thursday. The Georgian who managed to guide through the original Smith bill approved by the House last December, predicted the bill would be ready for House action next week.

"If the vote came today, it would pass overwhelmingly," one leader told reporters. "If these letters keep piling in, I don't think there is anything the Administration could do to stop it, even if it wished to."

Actually, the legislation was proposed in two bills, one applying the profits-labor curbs to Naval contracts and the other to work for the Army. After Naval Affairs Committee hearings, a substitute bill will be framed by Vinson covering all types of defense contracts, and the issues joined in the House in a single measure.

Mail Barrage Lasts Week

For a week the Capitol has been bombarded by mailed and wired communications criticizing Administration and Congressional failure to act forthrightly to meet Production Director Donald Nelson's call for a 25 per cent increase in production.

The mail reached peak proportions over Saturday and Sunday. At yesterday's legislative conference at the White House, leaders advised the President that legislation dealing with the general question may be forced to the floor. Proposals for wage ceilings as a check on inflation were mentioned briefly at the conference, but this was still under Administration study, with

Storms Kill 100, Hurt 650 In 6 States

Mississippi Dead Is 73; Illinois, 19; Kentucky, Tennessee And Indiana Hit

Bulletin

Jackson, Miss. (Tuesday), March 17 (AP).—Unconfirmed reports reaching here early today placed at about 100 the dead in a disastrous tornado which struck Grenada and vicinity late Monday. Hundreds reportedly were hurt. Wires were down in all directions and confirmation was unobtainable at an early hour.

By the Associated Press

More than 100 persons were reported killed and more than 650 injured by a disastrous series of tornadic storms that ripped through six Southern and Midwestern States yesterday, destroying thousands of buildings.

Reports in Mississippi listed 73 dead and more than 500 injured. Illinois' dead was counted at 19 and injured at 170. Kentucky reported 11 killed and 11 injured, and Tennessee listed 12 killed. At least two persons were killed in Indiana. Missouri reported no casualties.

The Mississippi storms swept diagonally across the central to northeast parts of the State. First reports, confirmed in some cases, said the death list included 19 at Greenwood, 13 at Belden, 10 at Grenada and vicinity, 5 at Oxford and Tula, 6 at Michigan City, 7 at Baldwin, 5 at Avalon and 5 at Water Valley.

Calls Go Out for Help

The disaster zone in Mississippi, first reports showed, was at least 150 miles wide and about 100 miles deep. Calls went out for all available persons with first aid training. Most of the area is rural.

Witnesses pictured hundreds of buildings completely crushed, roofs ripped off homes and makeshift hospitals crowded with the injured.

'Too Late' to Do Otherwise

President May Get Economy Bloc's Protest on OGR Center

By Charles Mercer
Post Staff Writer

A growing opinion that a nonpartisan Congressional delegation should call on President Roosevelt to register disapproval of unnecessary Federal expenditures in the war program was expressed on Capitol Hill last night.

The opinion stemmed from a feeling that Congress may be "too late" in stopping construction on the $600,000 information center for the Office of Government Reports at Fourteenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest, but not too late to check other extravagances prompting criticism throughout the country.

Leaders of the delegation plan declined to be quoted pending action expected today by the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee on a resolution by Representative Satterfield (Democrat), of Virginia, withholding $600,000 in Public Buildings Administration funds from the OGR information center.

Senator Byrd (Democrat), of Virginia, chairman of the Joint Committee on Nondefense Expenditures, said last night he hoped the House committee would approve the Satterfield resolution.

Representative Lanham (Democrat) of Texas, the committee chairman, stated after a hearing at which Lowell Mellett, OGR director, testified again yesterday, that the Satterfield resolution probably will be acted upon today.

Representative McGregor (Republican), of Ohio charged at the hearing that the OGR's program of furnishing information for businessmen coming to Washington in search of war contracts is "just another duplication" of the task of 163 regional offices of the War Production Board throughout the country.

Citing the list of offices published in The Post last Saturday, he asked Mellett, "Isn't that group doing a pretty good job? Will they be discontinued?"

"I couldn't say," replied Mellett. "I hope they are doing a good job.

After the House has voted this afternoon on establishment of a Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, feminine volunteers to serve with the armed forces may find themselves with more "recognition" than had been hoped for by sponsors of the bill.

Representative Nichols (Democrat), of Oklahoma, drew applause and favorable comment yesterday when he declared he will seek an amendment to give the WAAC's full benefits of all compensation and allotment privileges allowed regular soldiers.

150,000 Limit Sought

"The War Department says the women will not be subject to court-martial procedure and wants them treated as civilian employes of the Government, but I believe the bill shows they are subject to all discipline implied in the Articles of War.

"Their work will be just as dangerous. They will be serving abroad, as well as at home. I certainly could not face my own daughters if I voted to make women part of the Army and openly failed to provide them with the same compensation we provide the men," he declared.

Representative Michner (Republican), of Michigan, declared: "They

WPB Begins Own Probe of Guthrie Case

Nelson Says Resigned Aide Didn't Take Him Into Confidence

By Alfred Friendly
Post Staff Writer

As two Congressional committees announced impending hearings on the case of Robert R. Guthrie, resigned War Production Board textile branch chief, the board itself yesterday began its own investigation of Guthrie's charges that special industry interests within the WPB have impeded the war effort.

Guthrie, with two of his principal assistants, resigned from the WPB Saturday night, after having being stripped of major responsibility in his branch.

The two Congressional groups planning hearings are the Senate Defense Investigation Committee, headed by Senator Truman (Democrat,) of Missouri, and a Special House Military Affairs Subcommittee under Representative Faddis (Democrat), of Pennsylvania.

Nelson Requests Inquiry

Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, requested the Truman committee yesterday to look into the facts "in view of the public importance of this matter."

In a letter to Truman, the War Production boss reported that personal conflicts" had arisen between Guthrie and members of his staff until they were "impeding that part of the defense effort."

After "reviewing the situation," Nelson said, it was decided to divide the branch, giving Guthrie charge of leather and clothing, and putting textiles under the supervision of a new man who would be "wholly impartial and free from any involvement in the conflicts which had been impeding the work."

Implicitly, the WPB chief criticized Guthrie for failing to bring his problems to Nelson for action.

U. S. Subs Sink Jap Freighter And a Tanker

One Ship Is Torpedoed In Japanese Waters; 5 Planes Destroyed

By John G. Norris
Post Staff Writer

American submarines and air forces have sunk two more Japanese ships and bagged at least five additional planes in four attacks ranging from Japanese home waters nearly to Australia.

This was announced by the War and Navy Departments yesterday in communiques which disclosed the loss of one American fighter plane.

The Navy said that an enemy freighter was sunk by a United States submarine "during the course of extended operations in Japanese waters." It was the fourth time American subs have successfully pushed deep into enemy home territory, sending a total of nine Jap ships to the bottom.

Jap Gas Tanker Sunk

At the same time the Navy disclosed that a 3000-ton Japanese gasoline tanker had been sunk "in the Philippine area." Presumably it was the victim of an American submarine, although the communique did not indicate how the vessel was attacked.

Three of the enemy planes destroyed were accounted for during an air battle between nine American P-40 fighters and a large formation of Jap bombers and fighters north of Australia.

The United States Army craft were on patrol and, although greatly outnumbered, jumped the enemy. Two of the Japs were shot down—a bomber and a fighter—and an

Plan to Extend Life of Tires Begins Today

Service Station Men To Attend School; Gasless Sundays Urged

A program to make present tires last three more years, when, authorities hope, "American ingenuity will overcome our rubber problem," will be inaugurated today with a school for service station operators and employes.

This was announced last night by the advisory board of the Gasoline Retailers of Washington, Inc. At the same time it was stated that the board had unanimously recommended the closing of gas stations every week night and all day Sunday, beginning Thursday.

Uniform Closing Favored

At a luncheon meeting yesterday the group asked that affiliated gas stations in the city close by 7 p. m. on week nights and those in the suburban districts by 8 p. m. This action will be voluntary, Harry Wainwright, research director, said. Other stations are expected to cooperate.

The War Production Board has ordered a 20 per cent reduction in gasoline deliveries and a six-day-a-week operation of gas stations. If all stations are closed uniformly it will aid in the conservation program, Wainwright said.

Advertising Campaign

The gasoline curtailment program becomes effective Thursday in 17 East Coast States, the District, and Washington and Orgeon.

In a statement regarding the tire situation Wainwright told service station operators: "On your shoulders rests the job of teaching and

Not 'Emancipated'

Senate Page, 13, Tries to Pay Income Tax; Law Balks Him

READY AND WILLING—Harold Clayton, 13, Senate page, who wanted to pay an income tax, shown with his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Clayton

Self-assured little Harold Clayton, 13, trooped downtown to the Bureau of Internal Revenue last night to pay a $26 income tax on the $1080 he earned as a Senate page for nine months during 1941.

Rapidly he became the center of attention. A veteran assistant approached him to handle his return and asked, "Are you emancipated?"

"Am I what?" he queried.

The assistant explained that income earned by minors is normally listed on returns filed by their parents unless the minors have been "emancipated"—a term to indicate that they have been given independent control over their money by legal processes. Youngsters under 18 are seldom "emancipated."

Because Harold is still legally dependent upon his mother, Mrs. Marguerite M. Clayton, he called her at home, 2320 Fortieth Street Northwest, and she came downtown to fill out a fresh return.

Since Mrs. Clayton had no taxable income herself, this procedure enabled Harold to put the $26 back in his pocket. Exemptions allowed her for Harold and his 12-year-old sister, Barbara, made it unnecessary for her to pay any tax on Harold's

Undecided About His Fitness

McNary Opposes View Mere Majority Can Oust Langer

By Robert De Vore
Post Staff Writer

In his first public utterance on the Langer case, Senate Republican Leader McNary, of Oregon, last night said he would oppose—both by his vote and a speech in the Senate—the stand of the Elections Committee that Senator Langer (Republican), of North Dakota, may constitutionally be denied a seat on a simple majority vote.

McNary said he would support Langer to the extent of backing the committee minority which holds that the former two-term North Dakota Governor may be denied Senate membership only on a two-thirds vote.

The minority leader added that he would reserve decision on the question of Langer's senatorial fitness—a question apart from the technical one of whether a majority or two-thirds vote shall prevail—until he has heard Langer speak in his own defense.

McNary's stand may be of utmost importance to Langer. Observers are of the opinion that unless there is a shift in recent sentiment, it is doubtful that Langer could be denied his seat on a simple majority, let alone on a two-thirds vote.

In disclosing his stand in response to reporters' questions, McNary placed himself in opposition to Senator Austin, of Vermont, the assist-

Axis Sub Sinks First Chilean Ship With Heavy Loss of Life

By the Associated Press

New York, March 16.—Neutral Chile's first ship loss was revealed by the Third Naval District today with announcement that a freighter had been sunk by an Axis submarine with a heavy loss of life—possibly 27 men.

(Dispatches from Santiago, Chile, identified the vessel as the Tolten, of 1856 gross tons.)

The freighter was torpedoed Friday afternoon, less than 30 miles from New York, and one exhausted, unconscious survivor—Julio Faust, 30—was rescued by a Coast Guard boat which found him on a liferaft.

[The sinking indicates that the Axis nations have no intention to respect the much fought-for neutrality of Chile and Argentina, the Ambassador of Chile, Rodolfe Michels, told the Chicago Sun last night.

[Latin-American representatives here have given considerable importance to certain news items filtering from Germany through Berne, Switzerland, especially one quoting Adolf Hitler as implying that Germany cannot and will not respect the neutrality of Argentina and Chile while these nations continue shipping to the United States and through this country to Great Britain. Chile and Argentina are the only American nations that have not broken off relations with the Axis.—Editor's note.]

Government sources at Santiago said two of the 29 crewmen had been saved, but the Third Naval District listed only one. The Chilean Line in New York said Santiago apparently listed as a survivor a

Fleet of Unidentified Warplanes Bombs and Machineguns Turkish City

10 Reported Dead, 20 Hurt In Attack

By International News Service

London, March 16.—Eleven warplanes "of unknown nationality" bombed and machine-gunned Milas, in western Turkey, last night, killing 10 persons and injuring 20, it was stated tonight in a Reuters dispatch from Vichy, quoting a message from Ankara, the Turkey capital.

A Bern dispatch quoted the Turkish radio as stating that three unidentified foreign planes were involved in the attack, which was staged 55 minutes after midnight Sunday, and that two persons were killed and one wounded. Bern also reported a Bulgarian radio broadcast saying the Russians were building defenses northwest from Tabriz, Iran, "closely guarding the Turkish border."

The dispatch did not state whether this attack on neutral Turkey, believed to be the first damaging raid to hit that country since the war began, appeared to have been accidental. Turkish authorities however, were said to be investigating.

The Monday communique broadcast from Rome said that "enemy naval and air forces carried out bombing attacks" on the town of Rhodes, situated on the island of the same name, in the Italian-owned Dodecanese Archipelago in the eastern Aegean.

Milas lies 65 airline miles north of the northern shore of Rhodes Island and about 10 miles inland from the Western Turkish Coast fringing the Aegean.

West of Moscow a double encirclement of the Germans was threatened, with Rzhev already inclosed, and the pincers of Gen. Gregory K. Zhukov, central-front commander, tightening on Vyazma, 70 miles to the south.

To the north of the Smolensk-Vyazma Road, it was reported the Russians had captured Kogdanova, 35 miles from the highway, and were rushing south along a spur railway from Nikitinka, 3 miles north of the highway.

To the south of the road, the Russians were said to have captured Serebusje, midway between Dorogobuzh and Vyazma.

One report said German positions on the road itself had been penetrated.

Apparently there was only a 30-mile gap between the north and south Soviet pincers about half way between Vyazma and Smolensk, 130 and 220 miles west of Moscow respectively.

Chutists Reported in Area

It was in this general area that Russian parachutists were reported to have landed.

Here, too, was the apparent breach admitted by the Germans, who said however, that the Russians, attacking out of a blinding snowstorm, were repulsed after a 15-hour battle.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was said to be throwing in the largest forces so far in action on the southern front in a desperate effort to oust the invaders from the Donets basin before Hitler can spring his offensive.

Reports today told of the recapture of several villages on that front after Russian dispatches yesterday had spoken of the approaching hour of liberation for Kharkov, the Ukraine's biggest industrial city.

The Russians still battled to squeeze the encircled Germans at Staraya Russa, southeast of Leningrad, into surrender.

The Russians told of heavy fighting on the Leningrad front with 1800 Germans killed in two days and 10 blockhouses captured.

The Moscow radio broadcast a report saying the Soviet 8000-ton cruiser Krasni Kavkas carried out a surprise bombardment of German fortifications on an unidentified island in the Black Sea. Later, a landing party raided there.

The cruiser's crew has been decorated.

Cross Given Ensign Who Saved Shells in Fire on Battleship

NAVY SECRETARY GIVES HIM MEDAL—Ensign Thomas H. Taylor, of Lima, Ohio, yesterday received the Navy Cross for distinguished service from Secretary Knox. The Navy Secretary cited Taylor for his heroic action on "the day of infamy" at Pearl Harbor. Ensign Taylor, although wounded and suffering from burns and broken ear drums, took command of an antiaircraft battery and directed its fire accurately during the Jap raid

The Navy added five more names to its growing list of heroes yesterday.

Secretary Knox presented the Navy Cross to Ensign Thomas H. Taylor here at the Navy Department, and announced that three submarine commanders and a naval medical officer will be similarly honored.

Taylor was awarded for his extraordinary heroism" in taking control of the port antiaircraft battery of the battleship Nevada during the attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, and although wounded, burned and deafened by broken eardrums, directed its fire efficiently."

One of the submarine commanders, Lieut. Comdr. Chester C. Smith, a native of Bisbee, Ariz., and a Naval Academy graduate in 1925 had already won the Navy Cross, February 27, for sinking eight Japanese vessels. Yesterday's award was a Gold Star to be worn with his Navy Cross and the equivalent to a second such medal. It was for "outstanding and continued successful action against the enemy."

The other two submarine captains honored were Lieut. Comdr. Lucius H. Chappell, of Columbus, Ga., and Lieut. Comdr. Theodore C. Aylward, of Cincinnati. The citation for their Navy Crosses declared they were for "especially meritorious conduct during actions with the enemy."

Lieut. Comdr. Corydon McAlmont Wassell, Navy Medical Corps Reserve, was honored for his courage during the fighting in the East Indies. A native of Little Rock, Ark., and a former professor at the Yale-Hunan Medical College, Changsha, China, Wassell was cited for "courageous action and devotion to duty in the successful evacuation of wounded under his charge from Java under extremely hazardous and trying conditions."

Taylor's Quick Action Praised

The citation of the medal awarded to Ensign Taylor praised his "presence of mind" during the Pearl Harbor attack "in playing a hose on the ready ammunition boxes that were becoming very hot, due to the proximity of fires." This "prevented casualties and heavy damage to the battery," it was said.

Taylor, whose home is in Lima, Ohio, is now on duty at the Navy Yard here.

Indian Princes Again Pledge Britain Fealty

By the United Press

New Delhi, March 16.—Rulers of the principal Indian states, assembled here in the annual session of the Chamber of Princes, today renewed their pledge to help Britain win the war.

They adopted a resolution reiterating firm determination that their part of India—comprising two-fifths of its area and a fifth of its population—would continue assistance to "His Majesty (King George VI, who also is Emperor of India) and the British government for successful prosecution of the war for defense of the motherland until the final vitcory has been achieved and the high principles of justice vindicated."

The princes expressed desire to meet Sir Stafford Cripps, Lord Privy Seal, who is on his way from London with an undiscolsed decision of the British governmet on the demand of the political parties in British India for self-government as the condition for joining in the war effort.

These loyal allies of the British government in India are not among the political groups whose agreement Cripps must obtain for the proposed settlement, but they wished to talk with him to ascertain what place they would have under India's new status.

Lord Linlithgow, Viceroy of India, discussing the defense of India, said a constant stream of reinforcements must be provided to meet the imperative need for augmenting the existing forces.

ern part of the State. A house to house checkup was in progress to determine the complete number of casualties.

Strikes Near Champaign

In Illinois two tornadoes slashed across six counties. Damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

Six hours after the first twister struck in three eastern counties, heavy winds ripped through a district 90 miles north and west.

Lacon, a town of 1600 population, was hardest hit. Its communication lines were disrupted and officials called for doctors and nurses from Peoria, 25 miles to the south.

The storm started near Bement, in Piatt County, and for 60 miles followed a straight line, going south of Champaign and north of Danville.

In Kentucky a tornado struck at Browder, a coal mining community, killing 11 and injuring 11.

A violent windstorm last night added to the chaos, ripping through Shelbyville in central Indiana and injuring at least three persons.

At Goshen, Ind., at least two persons were killed and more than 30 injured as the full force of the windstorm struck in a new residential district.

Fire broke out in the area and at least two homes burned.

U. S. Aid Will Become 'River,' Australia Told

By the United Press

Canberra, March 16.—W. S. Wasserman, head of the United States lend-lease mission, said today that flow of American equipment to Australia would become a "mighty river" and revealed that plans are being made for reciprocal Australian aid to the United States.

Wasserman was appointed a member of the Australian supply council, a move regarded by Government officials as a highly significant advance in the active cooperation of Australia and the United States.

In revealing that the reciprocal-aid plan is being worked out, Wasserman withheld its details. Describing the movement of lend-lease goods to Australia as only in its initial stages, he added that if the present plans were carried through it would increase to a mighty stream.

Wasserman said the purpose of the mission was to see what the Australians needed and to do its best to see that they get what they want.

May Return to Report

He said he would report to Washington immediately after his conferences with Government members, and if necessary would return to America to make a first-hand report to President Roosevelt.

Though he has been in the Commonwealth only a short time, Wasserman said, he has been most impressed with the evidence of the Australian war effort, the extent of which he believed would surprise Americans.

"We have just scratched the surface, and the American people will be called on for many more sacrifices," Wasserman said of the United States war effort.

"I feel that the democratic world will receive a pleasant surprise one of these days in the figures on output of planes, tanks and shipping. We are going to have a miracle of shipping surpassing that of 1917 when, starting from scratch, we built a merchant marine able to transport our soldiers and keep them supplied."

Will "Stagger World"

He predicted that within six months the American people would "wake up rubbing their eyes" at their accomplishments. He said the United States had a productive capacity of about five million cars, trucks and tractors a year and the plants were being turned over to war production. Once rolling, their accumulated horsepower will "stagger the world," he said.

Referring to Prime Minister Curtin's assertions regarding Australian dependence on America, Wasserman said:

"You don't have to worry about America wanting to do the right thing. We feel more strongly about helping you than any other country, with the possible exception of Canada.

"We feel we are fighting for our own out here."

Envoys of 4 United Nations Call for Unity

By the United Press

New York, March 16.—Envoys of four of the United Nations—Britain, Russia, China and the Netherlands—joined President Roosevelt in calling for unity in warfare against the Axis nations and pledging their peoples to destruction of aggressive powers arrayed against them.

Viscount Halifax, British Ambassador; Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Ambassador; Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese Ambassador, and Dr. Alexander Loudon, Netherlands Minister, spoke at a meeting of the Economic Club of New York, attended by 2000 members and guests, including many members of the Diplomatic Corps at Washington.

They were greeted by President Roosevelt through a message to David Sarnoff, club president, in which Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the "supreme strategy of victory must be for the United Nations to remain united—united in purpose, united in sympathy and united in determination."

A Supreme Achievement

"The supreme achievement of enemy propaganda would be to create disunity," the President's message said. "Those who cry for divided efforts in an indivisible war, those who are blind to the fact that security at home may be menaced by disaster abroad, those who manage divided counsels in this crisis, those who viciously or stupidly lend themselves to the repetition of distortion and untruth, are serving as obliging messengers of Axis propaganda."

"We are united," the President, said, "against those who wilfully and deliberately and with every weapon of force, propaganda and terror are aiming to destroy man's right 'to think as he will and to say what he thinks.'" Never in history, the President said, "have so many people been united in a more exalted purpose."

Litvinoff called for the Allies to seek defeat of the Axis as speedily as possible, and warned that "time is but a treacherous ally, ready to fight on either side."

"Every extra year of war will mean hundreds of thousands, if not millions more killed and wounded, billions more in material outlay," he said.

"Would not the shortening of the war in itself be worth some risk?"

Delays Would Aid Foe

It would be advantageous for the United Nations to "play a waiting game, if the foe would pledge herself during that time to inactivity," he said, but he warned that the enemy would "take advantages of his present successes for still further advance" during any periods of delay.

"There may be much greater and more actual risk in waiting, in doing nothing, in letting slip one opportunity after another," Litvinoff said, "and action involving risk has at any rate some chance of success, whereas inaction also involving risk is practically never crowned with success."

The Russian armies, he asserted, have destroyed the legend of German invincibility all over the world, and have driven them back in Russia, but not far—"at the most, 200 miles, here and there."

He said it was "obvious" that if Russian strength is increased, or if the German forces can be split or weakened on the Eastern Front" by diversion elsewhere," it will be possible to drive them "to the German frontier, to Berlin and beyond."

Russian successes, Litvinoff said, have been such that the "former Hitler army, which entered Soviet territory drunk with victory and success, no longer exists." He asserted that defeats in Russia had weakened the German morale in the field and at home.

Halifax Sees Supreme Test Near

Lord Halifax warned that the spring and summer of 1942 "are surely going to put free men everywhere to such a test of courage and endurance as will match the darkest days of 1918."

"We have lost much and we may well lose more," he asserted. The combined naval resources of the United States and Britain are "severely stretched," he said, and the United Nations are "still obliged to limit their plans by their available resources."

The United Nations have "great military and industrial reserves which are just coming into play," however, and an all-out effort will assure them to victory. The United States and Britain are building up a "formidable mass of naval and air power," Halifax said, while the enemy has "pretty well reached the peak of his military and industrial strength."

The United Nations will not be content to remain on the defensive, he said, and he warned the Axis nations "that the last thing which we have in mind is to leave them with a monopoly of initiative."

Dr. Hu Shih said the entry of Britain and the United States into the war against Japan meant to China a "great dream come true, a great faith tardily but at last fully vindicated."

He joined Halifax in warning that "victory is not yet in sight" for the United Nations, but said that China does not doubt the "ultimate and not too distant victory of our common fight against our common foes."

London pledged that the Dutch would continue their fight against "ruthless aggression," and said that "no peace, no armistice is the slogan of every true Dutchman wherever he lives on this earth."

The Netherlands envoy defended the colonial policy of his government in the East Indies, asserting that a "local New York newspaper and its Washington counterpart" had misrepresented the history of Dutch stewardship in Java in recent articles accusing the Dutch of cruelty in administration.

Rule of the Netherlands East Indies, he said, was based upon "full respect for the native culture" and upon the "evolution of the native population toward a gradually increasing participation."

Hitler Knows His Fall Nears, Welles Says

Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, asserted yesterday that Adolf Hitler now knows that his downfall is inevitable.

Welles made the assertion in a statement commenting on Hitler's speech in Berlin Sunday. The German leader predicted the "complete destruction" of Russia's armies next summer, and went on to say that President Roosevelt not only would fail to create a new Europe but would "bring about the collapse of his own world."

Welles promptly replied that the new importance of Hitler's speeches lies in the fact that "there is implicit in every word and every phrase Hitler's own recognition of his impending downfall."

His full statement on the Reichsfuehrer's unheralded address follows:

"The technique of the 'monstrous lie,' which Hitler has made his own, unfortunately deluded many peoples during the earlier years of Hitlerism. Today, however, throughout the world Hitler's declarations and promises are recognized everywhere as being but a tissue of lies offered solely for purposes of deceit.

"There is increasing evidence at hand that the German people themselves, like the people of Italy, fully recognize this fact.

"For this reason it is doubtful whether any useful purpose would be served by making any extended comment on Hitler's latest speech. There is no man or woman among the united peoples who cannot clearly estimate its true significance.

"For it is not in its boasts and promises that the significance of the speech lies but, on the contrary, in the fact that there is implicit in every word and every phrase Hitler's own recognition of his impending downfall and of the inevitable conquest of the German armies.

"The magnificent resistance of the Russian armies and the defeats which they have inflicted upon the forces of Hitlerism have in great part been responsible for bringing this to pass. These are the very armies whose anihiliation Hitler announced many months ago.

"It is only natural that the kind of world in which President Roosevelt and the American people wish to live should be termed 'a new, detestable, alien world' by Hitler. The kind of world for which the American people and their Government stand is a world of international decency and of justice in which men and women will be free to worship, free to think and speak, and in which they will be free from fear. That is the only kind of world in which permanent peace can be established, and the Germans and the Italian people, like the peoples of the United Nations, know that no such world can rise into being until Hitlerism and the gangsters who compose it are finally crushed and defeated."

British Stab Across Sittang

With the Red Army Somewhere in Russia, March 15 (Delayed).—The Red army finds a way to hand out hospitality even from a hole in the ground.

"Come into our quarters," said Senior Lieut. Anatoly Pavlovich Bayarinov above the scream of a blizzard, "and see how we live out here."

Our party followed him downward into a hole. He led the way through a narrow boarded tunnel under tons of snow.

We entered a small pine-boarded room to shake off the snow and then were led down a dormitory flanked on either side by neat beds.

The room was warm and clean. Soldiers were playing pool and checkers, and in one corner a radio played soft music.

"The soldiers have made everything in their spare time," said the lieutenant.

The regimental commander marched in as the soldiers spread a table with fish, bread and vodka to welcome us.

"Good morning," the commander said slowly in English, smiling broadly. "I once worked in an English factory. I speak some English."

Toasts followed—first to Premier Josef Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, then others were drunk to the United Nations forces, to the Red army, to the regimental commander, the junior officer and to the visitors.

The Russians toast with vodka. It is bad form not to toss a whole glass off at once.

The soldiers put themselves out to be entertaining. Two muscular privates, garbed in sailor suits which they had made themselves, danced to the music of an accordion. Three others put on a dramatic skit showing a guerilla dealing with a German officer and a traitor.

A big gunner danced in a home-made gypsy costume, and then eight singers joined in the rousing chorus of a Red army song.

Soldiers who were not busy with duties came down for the performance, and when it was over departed in a howling gale.

The party ended in a hearty round of goodbys. As we walked slowly away in the last rays of daylight we turned back for a farewell look, but the shelter was so well camouflaged that it seemed to have disappeared.

Daring British Attack Permits Rangoon Garrison to Escape

Allies Cross Sittang to Take 3 Towns At Bayonet Point in Diversion Tactics

By the Associated Press

Mandalay, Burma, March 16.—British Indian and Burmese forces, stabbing across to the east bank of the Sittang River, has slaughtered more than 400 Japanese and traitorous Burmese in three villages which they recaptured then abandoned.

[A United Press dispatch said the maneuver probably saved the garrison from Rangoon from extinction.

[The situation, as described in a communique issued at Mandalay, was as follows:

[Ten days ago the British garrison at Rangoon faced encirclement. A Japanese column had cut the Rangoon-Mandalay railway and was driving west toward the Rangoon-Prome spur railway line, the last road of retreat for the Rangoon garrison.

[Suddenly a British force at Toungo drove southeast into the Japanese right flank. The British advanced 70 miles down from Toungoo in this drive, capturing the towns of Pyuntaza, Shwegyin and Madauk. While the Japanese paused to fight off this flank attack, the imperial troops from Rangoon escaped up the Prome Road to safety. And with their comrades out of the Rangoon danger zone, the British force from Toungoo withdrew back 70 miles to its original position, where it now is being strengthened by Chinese reinforcements.]

The towns had been held by the Japanese for three weeks prior to the daring raids.

Shwegyin, the principal settlement, is 890 miles northeast of Rangoon. Apparently the British imperials did not withdraw until yesterday.

The drives were thrust home in hand-to-hand and house-to-house fighting with bayonets and native knives after perfectly timed crossings of the river on bamboo rafts.

Major credit for the success was given to an Indian havildar (sergeant) who disguised himself as a coolie and helped the Japanese dig trenches for two days while he obtained information of Japanese strength and a list of Burmese fifth columnists.

When an attempt at surprise failed, the native Karen tribesmen in the British ranks proved of great value, since they know all the terrain by heart and led the way for the charging Indians.

The Karens, composing about one-sixth of Burma's population, number among their tribal branches the brass-collared "giraffe-necked" women familiar to American circusgoers.

The commander for India and Burma, Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, is instilling an offensive spirit in all his troops, and the men would welcome a chance to attack, as along the Sittang, rather than holding a static defense line in which the enemy can choose weak spots for infiltration.

Two months of dry weather remain before the monsoon season begins flooding the broad riselands and sandy wastes of Burma, making overland military transport almost impossible until early October.

Observers in Mandalay believe that if the decision is not won by mid-May, the war in Burma will be literally washed up for five months, with the invaders and defenders immobilized.

If Japan is intent on advancing up the coast to India in the next two months rather than throwing her full strength against the British-Chinese front, then the Japanese right flank will be exposed indefinitely.

500 U. S. Troops Captured in Java, Japanese Report

Tokyo (From Japanese Broadcast), March 16 (AP).—Four hundred American troops were captured by the Japanese at Bandoeng, Central Java, and 100 more in Eastern Java, a Domei News Agency Dispatch said today.

War material seized from the Americans included 93 automobiles, 8 field guns, 19 machine guns, 390 automatic and regular rifles and 80,000 rounds of ammunition, the dispatch said.

Wine Industry May Replace Sugar Alcohol

By Edward A. Jamieson
Copyright by Chicago Sun

Wine-making facilities of California may soon be moved to the Midwest to provide additional production of industrial alcohol from corn and wheat, a War Production Board official disclosed yesterday.

At the same time, officials said if present plans for boosting production of alcohol from grain can be carried out, use of sugar for making alcohol will not be necessary after this year.

However, this does not mean that there will be ample supplies of sugar for all normal needs during the balance of the war, Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard told the Patman Small Business Commitee of the House of Representatives.

Wickard said it is not possible to determine the exact sugar supply situation at this time because of the uncertainties of future shipping and needs of other United Nations.

Joshua Bearnhardt, chief of the sugar division of the Agriculture Department, expressed the opinion that there will be adequate supplies of sugar to meet essential needs if industry and householders are limited to amounts to "meet fairly normal requirements."

Program Succeeds

Plans for increasing alcohol production by grain distilling and other methods not requiring sugar were discussed for the committee by Frasier H. Moffat, chief of the WPB alcohol section. Later, WPB Director of Materials William L. Batt announced that the program for substituting grain for sugar is "going forward successfully."

Moffat said that the revised program, which should be in operation by the end of this year, contemplates production of 190 million gallons of alcohol annually from grain, 100 million gallons from blackstrap molasses, and 65 million gallons through synthetic processes.

Of the amount to be produced from grain, he said, 100 million gallons will be produced by whisky distillers and 90 million gallons from lower-proof distilling facilities of the wine industry.

To Move Equipment

Because use of California plants for this purpose involves transporting the grains to the West Coast and the alcohol back to the East, "it is likely that some of this equipment, at least, will be moved to the Midwest in the near future," he said.

Moffat testified that before Pearl Harbor, it had been planned to use 1,200,000 tons of Cuban sugar for the production of industrial alcohol this year.

"If our plans succeed," he declared, "we will not have to use any sugar for alcohol production after 1942."

Batt said that the added conversion of the low-proof distilleries to alcohol production is ready to go ahead at full speed as soon as a bill now pending in Congress removing legal restrictions becomes law. The measure has been approved by both the House and Senate and is now in conference.

WPB Orders Halt In Manufacture Of Juke Boxes

The War Production Board last night ordered the shutdown of all manufacture of juke boxes, weighing machines, pinball games and other amusement machines on May 1.

The order affects an industry of about 30 companies, mostly in the Chicago area, employing about 10,000 persons.

The board said the shutdown would make available for war uses substantial quantities of copper, aluminum, nickel and other critical metals, and predicted that it would hasten the conversion of the 75-million-dollar industry into war production.

Two Former District Students, Hyattsville Boy on Houston

LEON W. ROGERS

ROBERT B. FULTON

Two former Washington high school students and a Hyattsville youth are believed to have been lost on the cruiser Houston, which the Navy Department reported last Saturday was sunk in the Battle of Java.

The Washington youths are sons of Interstate Commerce Commission officials. Their names are Lieut. (j. g.) Leon W. Rogers, son of ICC Commissioner John L. Rogers, and Lieut. Robert Burwell Fulton 2d, son of William L. Fulton, ICC examiner.

The Navy Department has notified both families that the officers are missing.

Lieut. Fulton was born in Burlington, Vt., coming to this city at the age of 4. He attended Central High School, where he was commissioned a cadet captain before graduation. In 1932 he was graduated from the Naval Academy. The yearbook said of him, "Wherever he goes, we'll wish that luck may follow him, and whatever he does, you can bet it will be something to be proud of."

Born in Knoxville

Lieut. Rogers was born in Knoxville. He graduated from McKinley High School and later from the Naval Academy in 1938. He was transferred to the Asiatic Fleet last summer. He married Virginia Bonzer, of Long Beach, Calif. His father, Commissioner Rogers, lives here at 45 T Street Northeast.

Lieut. Fulton also was transferred to the Asiatic Fleet last summer. Earlier in the year he completed post-graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He married Miss Laura F. McCarley, of Charleston, S. C., now living in Washington with their son, William L. Fulton 2d. His parents live at 5510 Thirty-second Street Northwest.

Hyattsville Youth Lost

The parents of Filmore Ernest Burton, 22, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Burton, 5508 Forty-third Place, Hyattsville, also received a telegram saying he was missing.

Burton, a graduate of Hyattsville High School in 1938, served in Company F of the Maryland National Guard before joining the Navy. Burton served on the U. S. S. Lexington before his transfer to the Houston, his father said. The youth's last visit home was at Christmas, 1940.

In a recent letter their son had jokingly said that he expected all his girl friends would be married by the time he got home, the parents said.

War Sidelights

Jap Bullet in Sailor's Heart Makes Him and Doctors Dizzy

Honolulu, March 16 (INS).—In one of the most unusual medical cases on record, Dean Grant Darrow, 25, of Milwaukee, Wis., third-class fire-control man in the United States Navy, was found tonight to have a Japanese bullet embedded in muscles of his heart.

Darrow was blown off his ship during the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7. Surgeons found a wound in his back but ascribed it to a bomb splinter. Anyhow, the wound quickly healed.

Darrow began to complain of dizziness in mid-February. Surgeons examined him and found him to be suffering from a chronic appendix. The appendix was removed.

Darrow recovered quickly from the operation but the dizziness grew worse. Surgeons examined him again, this time carefully X-raying every section of his body.

They found a bullet embedded in his heart muscles, wriggling with every heart beat. Otherwise, the sailor is in perfect health.

Late tonight the doctors were undecided whether to risk the delicate operation for removal of the bullet, or to leave it where it is.

Raid Alarm in London

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

London, March 16.—London had its 573d air-raid warning today, the capital's first daylight alert since last June 6, as three German planes on reconnaissance crossed the south coast and one of them appeared headed for London.

Coastal batteries opened fire and when British fighters went up the enemy planes escaped in clouds. No bombs were dropped.

Anthem Streamlined

State College, Pa., March 16 (AP).—A streamlined version of "The Star-Spangled Banner" easier on the tonsils of the man on the street, in the camps and on the high seas—was suggested today by Army and college experts.

Try A-flat and you won't be flat on those high notes, say Capt. Howard Bronson, in charge of music for the Army's morale division, and Dr. George Sallade Howard, associate professor of music in extension at the Pennsylvania State College.

They have collaborated on a new arrangement of the national anthem, putting it in the lower key. Copies will be distributed to every Army camp band. The new arrangement will be given a formal premiere in Milwaukee March 26.

Tricycles of Wood

Elyria, Ohio, March 16 (AP).—The Colson Corporation, a large bicycle manufacturer, soon will go into production on children's tricycles made of wood. President Neely Powers said the wooden tricycles were designed to use metal in only the working parts, such as bearings and axles. Frames and even the spokes of the wheels are to be made of wood.

Ship Bulletin Suspends

New York, March 16 (AP).—The American Bureau of Shipping announced today it had suspended publication of its monthly magazine, the Bulletin, because of "censorship requirements."

The magazine, one of the most authoritative of its kind, listed shipbuilding activities throughout the Nation as well as other vital marine data.

The bureau said it would continue to keep the records privately for use after the war. Britain recently banned the public sale of Lloyd's Register of Shipping—a book listing information on the world's merchant ships.

Gives 'Freedom' Gate

New York, March 16 (AP).—The iron gate which for 22 years has been in front of Samuel Nathan's house in Brooklyn is gone—Nathan gave it to the Government, the first of what he hopes will be countless "gates of freedom."

Nathan, 63, a retired insurance broker, said his son had the idea that the country must be full of useless iron gates and so he wrote to somebody in Washington. They liked the idea and the son, Jacob, was named a committee of one in his neighborhood to collect iron gates. The metal, of course, will be salvaged and used in the war program.

First Lady Would Compel Registration of Woman Power

To prevent any more waste of war-effort time, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt would compel immediate registration of all American women between the ages of 16 and 60.

"What have we to lose by registering ourselves and our capabilities?" she asked yesterday at her press conference. "It would not be a draft. I have never suggested a draft for women in this country. There might never be the need for it, but certainly many more women are going to be used in the war effort."

If registration comes she will classify herself as a housewife with some experience in writing a column and making speeches, she said, adding that she also is "an excellent nurse" of the home bedside variety, but a very poor cook.

"I could translate French and German, if that would help and suppose I could do Italian with some brushing up. Also, I could drive," she asserted.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that in her travels about the country she has found some defeatist sentiment about the war and usually it is in areas where the people were isolationist. Some young people even have suggested to her, she said, that a peace conference should be called. They seemed to have no understanding, she asserted, of the fact that enemies might refuse to come or that there might be some nations with signatures that mean nothing.

All White House parties of any size have been eliminated by Secret Service for the duration, the First Lady said, pointing out that this includes the Monday Easter egg rolling for children and the annual garden party for veterans. Daughters of the American Revolution were told by the Secret Service, she said, that their annual reception at the Executive Mansion would have to be canceled. Since that time the D. A. R.'s have voted to take their annual meeting to Chicago.

Drive for Levy Is Given New Support

By Cecil B. Dickson
Copyright by Chicago Sun

New support was thrown behind the drive in Congress for a general sales tax yesterday as the Treasury submitted a study showing that a 10 per cent levy would produce $9,702,000,000 a year in war revenue.

This compares with the $7,610,000,000 war revenue program the Treasury based on increases in income taxes on individuals and corporations and by levying excise taxes on liquor, tobacco and similar articles.

A 5 per cent tax would produce $5,018,000,000, the Treasury said. Exempting sales to Government and their agencies, a 10 per cent impost would produce $5,982,000,000, and a 5 per cent levy, $3,113,000,000. In both cases, personal services and rents would be excluded. Even excluding Government contracts, a yield of $4,632,000,000 would be produced by a 10 per cent levy.

The Treasury's figures were submitted upon instruction of the House Ways and Means Committee as it began its third week of hearings on the record breaking proposal.

A study by the committee's own experts showed that a 10 per cent levy on retail sales would produce 5240 million dollars, exclusive of purchases by governments, Federal, State and local.

Associations Favor Sales Tax

Two powerful business associations meantime joined the National Association of Manufacturers, the New York State Chamber of Commerce and other business associations in support of a general sales levy as an alternative for the high income rates and withholding tax proposed by Secretary Morgenthau.

Kenneth C. Richmond, of Brooklyn, announced that the National Retail Dry Goods Association, representing thousands of retail merchants throughout the country, had reversed its former position and now favored a sales levy.

The Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, represented by John W. Hopper, went on record for a general sales levy. Hopper told the committee that his organization felt that Congress should begin to levy taxes on the "ability to spend" instead of the "ability to pay" policy. He suggested a sales tax to raise $4,500,000,000, and the remainder be raised through levies on individual and corporate income.

James F. Stiles, jr., of North Chicago, Ill., vice president and treasurer of the Abbott Laboratories, medical manufacturers, urged the committee to rewrite the excess profits tax law to permit the payment of normal and surtaxes before applying excess profits.

Nondefense Spending Cut Urged

Contending that under existing law and the Treasury's proposal that normal income should pay normal and surtaxes first, Stiles argued that normal profits were made subject to excess profits levies.

"Until you know how much is left, how can you tell how much is excess?" Stiles asked.

All the witnesses urged that Congress sharply trim if not eliminate nonessential defense spending.

Richmond said the National Retail Dry Goods Association welcomed a retail sales tax "because the Nation is at war." The retailers are willing to "be saddled with the responsibility, the cost and general burden of collecting a large portion of the Government's revenue," he said, as their contribution to the successful conclusion of the war.

Richmond warned that Secretary Morgenthau's proposal for a withholding tax was "more inflationary" than a retail sales levy. He contended that labor would demand an increase in pay when it found 10 per cent of each pay envelope was withheld by his employer for the Government. Contrary to the Treasury's contention that the Government would not collect a retail sales levy, Richmond said experience of States and cities show they collect around 100 per cent.

President Philip Murray of the C. I. O., meantime, issued a statement declaring that proposals for a sales tax are "shocking." He said the 8 per cent proposal of the National Association of Manufacturers would mean a "wage cut" for every worker.

Dr. J. H. Cockburn Sees President

The White House yesterday had the most impressive caller, seen there in many a month chockful of impressive visitations. He was Dr. J. Hutchinson Cockburn, 6-foot 4-inch moderator of the Scottish Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Cockburn thanked the President for the lend-lease food that has helped to vary the drab monotony of the Scotch wartime rations. His good wife, said Dr. Cockburn, had but four oranges in the last three months, and one egg.

To a shining-eyed Mr. Roosevelt, the head of the Scotch Presbyterian Church said that there was a dourr. firrm rrresolution in Scotland and all Britain to see the thing through.

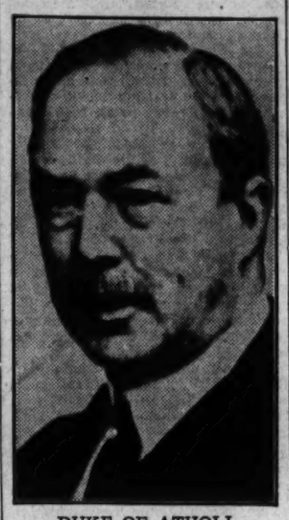
Aged Duke Dies at 70 In Scotland



DUKE OF ATHOLL

By the Associated Press

London, March 16.—John George Stewart-Murray, the Duke of Atholl, 70, veteran of campaigns in Egypt and South Africa and of the ill-starred Gallipoli expedition of the World War, died today at East Wood, his Perthshire home.

The duke had been in ill health for some time.

His brother, Lord James Stewart-Murray, succeeds to the dukedom.

The duke was present at the battles of Atbara and Khartoun while serving with the Nile expedition in 1898 and shortly afterwards served in South Africa during the Boer War. He was commandant of the Scottish Horse during the first World War.

The duke formerly served as Lord Chamberlain and as member of the Civil Aerial Transport committee.

He visited the United States in 1928.

The duke was the husband of the "Red" Duchess of Atholl, who left the Conservative Party in 1938 and ran for Parliament in protest against the appeasement policies of the late Neville Chamberlain. She was defeated. She became known as the "Red" Duchess for her support of the republican forces in the Spanish Civil War.

The duke was the only person in Great Britain who was permitted to maintain a private army, a privilege granted to his father by Queen Victoria.

A veteran of three wars and holding 18 other titles, he raised, equipped and commanded his own Atholl Highlanders, Nucleus of the Scottish Horse Yeomanry in the Boer War.

Because of his age, he had been serving in this war as a home guard private, taking turns on sentry duty at Whitehall until last week.

Missing Soldier Accused by FBI In Camp Slaying

Camp Lee, Va., March 16 (AP).—Private Charles E. Haas, 23, of Maidsville, W. Va., was bludgeoned to death last Thursday night and a missing soldier, John W. Statchen, 26, has been charged by the FBI with murder, H. I. Bobbitt, agent in charge of the Richmond FBI office, announced today.

Haas' body was found Friday morning in a thicket in the Petersburg National Park, adjacent to the camp, by a soldier participating in an air-raid drill.

Bobbitt said that a blunt instrument apparently had been used in beating Haas to death. The FBI agent said that Haas had been seen last with Statchen on Thursday night and that a charge of murder had been brought against Statchen before U. S. Commissioner Melvin Flegenheimer at Richmond.

Statchen, also a private, volunteered for the Army at New Bedford, Mass., after serving seven years in the merchant marine.

Group Votes 130-Billion Debt Limit

The Senate Finance Committee unanimously approved legislation yesterday which would boost the legal limit on the Federal debt from 65 billion to 130 billion dollars.

The measure has passed the House with a limitation of 125 billion dollars, but the Senate Committee added 5 billion dollars and voted to make the limitation apply to indirect obligations, such as the bonds of Government corporations guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This amendment was proposed by Senator Byrd (Democrat), Virginia, and Undersecretary Daniel Bell told the committee the Treasury had no objection.

Byrd had also asked that the Treasury be required to show in any statement of the public debt the total indebtedness of Government corporations guaranteed by the Treasury as well as the direct debt, but he withdrew the proposal when Bell said this would be done without legislation.

Army Extends Alien Control Into Four States

San Francisco, March 16 (U.P.).—The Army tonight extended its control of enemy aliens to Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and Utah by designating the four States as military areas. It also set aside 924 new prohibited zones from which German and Italian aliens and all persons of Japanese blood eventually may be excluded.

The 924 prohibited zones are scattered among the eight Western States. They are chiefly around airports, radio stations, highway and railway bridges, power plants and dams, flying schools, air bases, industrial plants, communications centers and city areas of military significance.

Service Men May Sell Their New Automobiles

Men in the armed forces or those about to be called for service may sell their new automobiles without regard to restrictions now in force governing such sales, John E. Hamm, acting administrator of the Office of Price Administration, announced yesterday.

A previous OPA order gave men taken into military service the right to sell their new cars to anyone between February 21 and March 9. The order covers only 1942 model passenger cars having a seating capacity of not more than ten persons, or any passenger car which has not been driven 1000 miles.

registrants, eliminating the delay previously attendant upon preliminary physical examinations. Under the new plan, registrants called for service will be examined after they are in the Army.

Other Army officials in addition to Stimson who will be present include Maj. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff representing Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall; Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces; Maj. Gen. James A. Ulio, adjutant general; and Brig. Gen. John H. Hilldring, assistant chief of staff.

The Navy will be represented by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Artemus L. Gates, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air; Assistant Secretary of Navy Ralph A. Bard; Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and his aide, Lieut. Arthur Lamar. The Marine Corps will be represented by Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the Marine Corps, and Col. Frank Halford, division of recruiting.

For the first time since the World War draft lotteries, Lieut. Col. Charles R. Morris, etired Army officer, of Elizabeth, N. J., will be unable to attend and blindfold the dignitaries who draw the first capsules because of illness. The blindfolding of the dignitaries who draw the first capsules Tuesday evening will be done by Col. John D. Langston, of Goldsboro, N. C., chairman of the Planning Council of the Selective Service System.

After officials have drawn the first numbers, regular teams of workers from Selective Service headquarters will take over the routine task of drawing the remainder of the 7000 capsules.

Open to Public

As in the two previous lotteries, the auditorium will be opened to the public about an hour prior to the start of the ceremonies, or about 5 p. m.

The capsules drawn from the goldfish bowl will contain the serial numbers T-1, T-2, and so on up to T-7000, to include and somewhat exceeded the highest serial number assigned to any February 16 registrant by a local board. The extra numbers will be included to take care of men who were unable to register February 16 because of absence from the country or other reasons and who still must register.

The order numbers assigned to the registrants in the sequence in which their serial numbers are drawn in the lottery will begin with 10,001 so that they will follow after the approximately 9000 order numbers drawn in the October 1940 lottery and the 800 drawn in the July 1941 lottery. This means that the first serial number drawn at the lottery tonight will be given order No. 10,001, the second serial number will be order No. 10,002, and so on.

President May Get Protest on OGR

We frequently refer people to those offices."

"You mean businessmen came here and then you refer them back to their home towns to these offices?"

"No," said Mellett, "but many write us and we can refer them to the regional offices."

To McGregor's inquiry if this was not "duplication," Mellett declared, "I hope not. A great many persons will still come to Washington. There will be a great many inquiries by mail. We hope to help with these."

Philip Hamblet, OGR official, told the committee that the amount of space to be devoted to the information service will be increased from its present figure of 10,000 square feet to between 20,000 and 25,000 square feet. The central information hall will be approximately 4500 square feet in size, he said.

Representative Manasco (Democrat), of Alabama, declared that in his opinion to criticize the President at this time for his choice of an expanded OGR information service is "giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

With the permision of the chairman, Representative Satterfield replied, "May I remind Representative Manasco that the failure of Congress to cut expenditures is rapidly undermining the confidence of the people in the legislative branch of the Government."

"This looks to me like purely an attack on the President," declared Manasco. "I believe that unless we follow him we are giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

"But you and I are here to act as stewards of the taxpayers' money and not of the Chief Executive," countered Representative Satterfield.

"No Intent of Criticism"

"Gentlemen," said Chairman Lanham, soothingly, "we have no desire to attack or interfere with the Commander in Chief. We are here merely trying to get information for him. That is our function. There is no intent of criticism."

Stating he agreed with Representative Satterfield, Representative Hill (Republican), of Colorado, told the committee:

"On my desk this morning are half a dozen letters from people at home who have heard this testimony of the wasteful use of the taxpayers' money. I'm talking about the feeling in the hearts of the people. It has nothing to do with the President, but it does have to do with the feeling of people who have given sons to the service and who want their money to go toward giving them a chance of living."

Representative Wright (Democrat), of Pennsylvania, affirmed that he believes erection of the proposed information center is "necessary to help the war effort in Washington."

Congress has "fumbled the ball on the way to carrying it to the Axis goal line," said Representative Wilson (Republican), of Indiana, speaking in favor of the Satterfield resolution.

"The people of the country know this," he continued, pointing to expenditures for "unnecessary things" which are now being made. "They want us to pick up the ball and continue on toward victory."

Commissioner of Public Buildings William E. Reynolds said under questioning by Representative Hebert (Democrat), of Louisiana, that space probably would have to be provided for the OGR elsewhere if it does not receive use of the building now under construction.

He said the site was the "best in the city" for a place of central information.

In a statement read into the record Mellett declared that if the OGR moves into the new building it will relinquish 30,382 square feet of office space to the Public Building Administration. The new building contains approximately 60,000 feet of office space.

The annual cost of rent for the present OGR quarters at 1405 G Street Northwest and 1510 H Street Northwest is $66,756.99, he said.

Army Benefits Sought for WAAC

are going to be in uniform. If the same ship carries both men and women to Iceland to work in the same Army, why treat the women who may suffer injuries any different from the men?"

Another amendment which will be offered will be by the House Military Affairs Committee, which will ask an enrollment limit of 150,000.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (Republican), of Massachusetts, author of the measure, has stated she believed the size of the corps should not be limited in this legislation but left to the needs as determined by the Secretary of War and the President.

Passage of the bill by an almost unanimous vote is forecast by leaders—unless there is a mixup over Nichols' amendment. When Mrs. Rogers introduced the measure early last year inclusion of the Oklahoman's proposal would have jeopardized its future—but the country has changed its mind considerably about the war costs since that time.

Representative Fish (Republican), of New York, and Representative Sabath (Democrat), of Illinois—both favoring the measure—took occasion to air their views on criticism of the war effort while speaking in its behalf.

"I'm for it as part of the all-out war effort needed in this country," Fish declared. "I'm for the war 100 per cent and all America is."

Sabath had criticized "this constant sniping at the President and at people working in behalf of the war." He said he regretted the WAAC legislation is necessary or that any war legislation is, and expressed belief that "if we had listened to the President we might not have been in this."

Fish declared in ringing sentences that he is tired of the implications that former non-interventionists are now sniping at the war effort. "I know of no single non-interventionist who is not 100 per cent united with all the interventionists on this war," he said.

"I do not question our Navy's strength nor doubt that this war—being one of production—is right down our alley. I belive in it and know we can build the tanks, the ships, and the planes. I'm for this bill to permit women to serve in non-combatant Army jobs, because I think we all should serve.

"But I do not favor secrecy about so much of our effort. I'm in favor of publishing the casualty lists, because I know the people can take them. We do not need to be afraid. We have lost the first quarter of the game, but the people are not discouraged. Let's take them into our confidence about plans for the last three quarters."

House Accepts Second War Powers Bill Report

The House yesterday accepted a conference report on the second war powers bill but declined to accede to a Senate amendment providing compensation for air raid and fire wardens injured during raids. If the Senate, in its consideration of the report, fails to recede from its original position, the bill again will be sent to conference. The measure delegates broad wartime powers to President Roosevelt and grants free postage to soldiers.

New Bill to Shelve Labor Laws Offers Profits Limit

no definite conclusions reached.

Chairman Mary Norton, of the House Labor Committee, later went to the White House for "a general talk about labor conditions" with the President. Mrs. Norton is opposed to suspension of the 40-hour week and abolition of overtime pay and said the general labor picture looked "pretty good." She indicated these views were shared by the Administration.

The flood of mail that hit the House after it voted down a recent war powers bill amendment suspending the 40-hour week meanwhile boiled over in an hour's explosive debate.

Oklahoma members apparently caught the bulk of the mail.

"The prairies are afire in Oklahoma and John Q. Public is aroused as never before," Representative Cartwright (Democrat), of Oklahoma, told the House.

Representative Disney (Democrat), of Oklahoma, exhibiting a stack of letters a foot high, said he had "4000 communications on the subject of racketeering, strikes and our failure to suspend the operation of the 40-hour week."

"They are enraged and inflamed," Disney said. "Some of my boys say, 'Why, the people have gone crazy.' The people have not gone crazy. We are crazy up here for our performance. Here is where the foolishness is."

Disney moved to print the letters in the record but was blocked by an objection. Later Representative Jed Johnson (Democrat), of Oklahoma, asked that excerpts of some of his letters be printed. Speaker Rayburn advised members that it was not possible to print all the telegrams and letters. He said there was not a member of the House who had not reecived hundreds.

Representative Cox (Democrat), of Georgia, told the House that "this governmental boondoggling, coddling of extremists and particularly racketeering in the ranks of labor must come to an end."

Cox said he wanted the public "to turn on the heat, more and more heat, and compel the suspension, if not the complete abdication, certainly for the duration of the war of the 40-hour week, and force the outlawing of strikes against the Government."

Representative Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, said he wanted the country to know that the fault lay with the Senate. He said the House-approved Smith labor bill "is sound asleep in the Senate while that august body debates moral turpitude in the State of North Dakota."

Representative William T. Pheiffer (Republican), of New York, asked "how in the name of heaven can we win this war on a 40-hour week?" Representative Rich (Republican), of Pennsylvania, said, "there seems to be a change of heart here," and Representative Hoffman (Republican), of Michigan, veteran advocate of labor restrictions, said, 'it seems to me somebody is in trouble over this thing."

Among Oklahomans deluged with mail was Representative Wickersham (Democrat), who said he hired 13 girls over Sunday to answer 13,000 letters. Representative Rizley (Republican) of Oklahoma, lugged in a brief case full of letters, and presented a petition from Enid, Okla., signed by 4842 persons, calling for an end of strikes, suspension of the 40-hour week, and 'round the clock produtcion.

Smith briefly took the floor. He said he was "glad to see the House was now ready to vote on this question." Then he outlined provisions of the new Smith-Vinson measure and its four-point declaration of policy in opposition to excessive war profits, the 40-hour week, overtime pay or the closed shop on war work.

The policy declaration holds that excessive profits, or negotiation or maintenance of war contracts limiting hours an employe may voluntarily work requiring overtime pay or stipulating membership in a union as a condition of work "is inconsistent with the expeditious and successful prosecution of the war effort and prejudicial to those serving in the naval (or military) forces of the United States."

War contractors would be required to pay back to the Secretary of the Navy or the Secretary of War all profits in excess of 6 per cent of costs, to be covered into the general funds of the Treasury. This would not apply to general contracts under $10,000. For the duration of the emergency, contracts having rigid hours limitations, overtime pay or closed shop requirements would be outlawed, and all laws having similar requirements would be suspended.

Vinson, who collaborated in the drafting said:

"We can't win the war by knocking off work after eight hours and we can't win by permitting profiteers to flourish. The people are demanding this legislation and we are going to pass it as quickly as possible."

In the Senate, where legislation is piling up in committees, there were echoing calls for both labor and profits curbs.

Senator Lee (Democrat), of Oklahome, said most labor organizations were willing to forego certain privileges during the war and "it is better to give up some of the privileges we hold dear now than to give them all up later." He said legislation barring war profiteering was long overdue.

Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, whose War Department Appropriations Subcommittee has called on all defense officials and labor chiefs for statements on the war labor issue, told reporters:

"The people are not going to be satisfied until this matter is taken up and something done with it."

Senator La Follette (Progressive), of Wisconsin, and Senate Majority Whip Lister Hill, of Alabama, urged that any action to place a ceiling on wages be accompanied by legislation taking away most, if not all, of the profits on war contracts.

Representative Woodrum (Democrat), of Virginia, meantime in a radio speech advanced a five-point program for cuts in nonessential spending, curbs on war profits, general price ceilings, suspension of the 40-hour week and overtime pay, and legislative prohibitions on work stoppages.

Replacement Cost Factor In Fixing Charges Rejected

By William R. Spear
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Supreme Court cleared the way yesterday for Federal agencies which regulate utility rates to limit them to a "fair return" on only so much of a company's capital as has been "prudently invested." The high tribunal brushed aside a long-standing theory that the cost of reproducing the plant was an essential factor.

The court's opinion, by Chief Justice Stone, declared that rate-making bodies were not bound "to the service of any single formula or combination of formulas" and that the only restriction upon their determination of a "lowest reasonable rate" was that the rate be "not confiscatory in the constitutional sense."

Three Go Even Farther

In a separate concurring opinion, Justices Black, Douglas and Murphy went even farther and indicated that even a confiscatory rate could be legal. They argued that "rate making is a species of price-fixing" and that "legislative price-fixing is not prohibited by the due process clause" of the Constitution.

The decision, which held constitutional the 1938 Natural Gas Act, upheld an order of the Federal Power Commission requiring the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America and the Texoma Co. of America and of Chicago, to reduce their rates $3,750,000 a year.

The commission based its order on a total rate base of $74,420,424 and the company claimed that an additional $8,500,000 should have been included in the rate base for "going concern value." The court found that "the total value of the companies' plant, including equipment in excess of immediate needs when beginning business, has been included in the rate base adopted."

Court Draws a Line

If the rate regulation had been imposed upon the companies in 1931 when they started in business, instead of seven years later when the law was passed, they would have been entitled to earn a fair return upon the value of the whole plant, including equipment in excess of immediate needs, but installed for the future, the court said.

"But it does not follow," the opinion continued, "that the companies' property would be confiscated by denying to them the privilege of capitalizing the maintenance cost of excess plant capacity, which would allow them to earn a return and amortization allowance upon such costs during the entire life of the business. . . . Regulation does not insure that the business shall produce net revenues. . . ."

And Black, Douglas and Murphy, viewing rate-making as price-fixing, observed that "price-fixing, like other forms of social legislation, may well diminish the value of the property which is regulated. But that is no obstacle to its validity."

The court granted permission to the New York Publishers Association to file a brief contending that a libel decision by the Federal Circuit Court at New York, if upheld, "will limit and shackle the force of the press as an instrument of public welfare."

Permission was sought to present the brief in connection with forthcoming arguments on a libel suit brought by Representative Sweeney (Democrat), of Ohio, against the Schenectady (New York) Union Publishing Co.

Was Libeled, He Claims

Sweeney claimed to have been libeled by statements published in the Schenectady Union Star in 1938 that he was opposing the appointment of Emerich Burt Freed as Federal district judge at Cleveland on the ground that Freed was a Jew.

The court also agreed to review a decision by a three-judge Federal court at New York which dismissed suits brought by the National Broadcasting Co., Inc., and the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., to enjoin the Communications Commission from enforcing restrictions on chain broadcasting.

The companies challenged a FCC order barring exclusive network affiliate station contracts and prohibiting any company from owning two networks.

The Supreme Court in another action held that selling commissions paid to brokers by a dealer in stocks and bonds are not deductible from income taxes as ordinary and necessary expenses of business.

The opinion, by Justice Black, affirmed the decision of the Ninth Federal Circuit Court, which held that Adolph B. Spreckle of San Francisco, buyer and seller of securities, must treat the commissions as offsets against the selling price only for purpose of determining capital losses or gains.

To Review Chrysler Suit

The Supreme Court agreed today to review the action of the Federal District Court at South Bend, Ind., in continuing until January 1, 1943, a consent decree restraining the Chrysler Corporation from acquiring an interest in any automobile finance company.

In previous litigation, involving an extension of the consent decree the Supreme Court ordered dismissal of the suit "for want of a quorum."

The Supreme Court refused to review a decision denying a writ of habeas corpus to Norman Williams, Elbert County, Ga., under sentence to die in the electric chair for the murder of Lon Fortson.

Madeline Carroll Drops Movies for War Work

Fort George G. Meade, Md., March 16 (AP).—Medeline Carroll has decided to "give the movies a rest for a year" and devote her time to war work.

On a visit last weekend to the 116th Infantry, which "adopted" her as its "sweetheart," the blond actress said her physicians had told her to "do the movies or do the war," and she chose the latter.

ICC Quickly Denies OPA Plea To Halt Freight-Rate Increase

By the Associated Press

The Interstate Commerce Commission, acting almost immediately after the railroads filed an objection, denied without comment yesterday a request from the Office of Price Administration for postponement of freight rate increases on 10 groups of commodities.

The action permits higher rates on these commodities to go into effect Wednesday as part of general increases of 6 per cent on most industrial products and 3 per cent on farm commodities and some ores.

The OPA's petition was filed last Friday. Citing price ceilings it had established, it asked that no increase be permitted before April 15 in rates on cement, copper ores, iron and steel scrap, lead ores, lumber, pig iron, rubber scrap, crude sulphur, petroleum products and nonferrous scrap.

Meantime, OPA said, it would negotiate with the railroads for exemption of these commodities from the general increase. In addition, an OPA spokesman made known that the agency might ask later for revocation of the general increase.

Quickly Rejected

Yesterday, the railroads and the American Association of Truckers filed replies opposing any postponement. The ICC met briefly and announced simply that the OPA's petition had been rejected.

The railroads made clear that they believed the OPA had gone beyond the field of its responsibility when entering the case. Their reply to OPA's petition cited the Price Control Act under which the agency functions and added.

"Certainly, increases in rates found by this commission after due hearing and investigation to be just and reasonable and to be no greater than are necessary to insure the ability of the railroads to continue to furnish adequate and efficient transportation service should require no independent investigation by the OPA to determine whether or not they are speculative, unwarranted and abnormal or involve profiteering.

Not Business of OPA

"Clearly, Congress has charged the OPA with no duty to maintain an adequate transportation system or efficient service to the country in this time of imperative war emergency. The enactment of the statute under which the Office of Price Administration is functioning was not intended to repeal the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, under which it remains the duty of the ICC to see to it that the railroads of the country earn sufficient revenue to enable them to provide the adequate and efficient transportation service so essential to our national welfare."

Dexter M. Keezer, of the OPA, told railroad traffic officials last week that the rate increases would disrupt maximum prices fixed for some commodities. He said that if railroad earnings indicated that the carriers could absorb wage increases which the higher freight rates were designed to help offset, the OPA contemplated asking the ICC to revoke the rate increases entirely.

Social Work Held Essential

"The services of welfare organizations are more important in the field of civilian defense than those of the auxiliary police, air-raid wardens or their like," Eric H. Biddle, consultant to the American Public Welfare Association, told the Jewish Social Service Agency last night.

At the annual meeting of the trustees and directors, held at the Jewish Home for the Aged, 1125 Spring Road Northwest, Biddle declared that in order to strengthen the armed forces of the Nation the Government must provide for the simultaneous strengthening of welfare groups. Biddle, who has recently returned from a six-month inspection tour of England and France, observing the effect of war conditions on home fronts, said:

"The serious omission made by the British, which we must not make, is to realize that social service must be regarded as being as important as armed forces. The need is generated by shortages of food, scarcity of emergency homes, longer working hours and wholesale dislocations of homes," he added.

Earlier in the meeting, directors of the home were elected for the coming year. They are: Mrs. Fred Bashwitz, Rabbi Isadore Breslau, Bernard Danzansky, Morris Garfinkle, Aaron Goldman, Paul Himmelfarb, Milton Nathan, Isaac B. Nordlinger, Charles Pilzer, Robert Rothstein, Samuel Schlosky, Louis E. Speigler and Mrs. Bernard Wilner.

$1000 Ring Reported Stolen

Theft of a $1000 platinum ring from the office safe at the Carlton Hotel, 923 Sixteenth Street Northwest, was disclosed yesterday.

Assistant Manager George E. Michaels, who said the theft occurred between last December 23 and March 7, told police the ring was owned by Eric D. Neilson, Ambassador Hotel, New York. He said the ring, made in England, was set with a one-quarter-inch square-cut sapphire.

Hill Says Lawyer 'Prevailed' Upon Him Not to Tell Truth

By Dillard Stokes
Post Staff Writer

Pleading that he was a dupe, tangled in a Nazi web, 45-year-old George Hill yesterday asked Justice F. Dickinson Letts to reconsider the 2-to-6-year penitentiary term Hill is serving for perjury.

Hill was a secretary of Representative Hamilton Fish when he lied before the special grand jury on German agents. Fish introduced Hill to the German agent, George Sylvester Viereck—who is now in jail with Hill.

But Hill told the grand jury he did not know Viereck and denied, too, that he helped one of the German agent's operatives get rid of evidence, which Hill placed in a Capitol storeroom used by Fish.

Hill said in a sworn statement yesterday that after he was indicted he went to church and made up his mind to take back his lies and tell all about using Fish's office for the Nazi propaganda machine.

When Hill told his previous lawyer, former Representative John J. O'Connor, of this, the affidavit said, Hill "was prevailed upon by said counsel not to do so and such counsel used expressions such as, in effect, 'you would not rat on them, would you?'"

Hill's statement, filed with his plea for mercy, added:

"Deponent (Hill) further says that he is now of the opinion that he was ill advised in permitting prior counsel herein to represent him in that John J. O'Connor, one of said counsel, was at one time vice chairman of a committee whose mailing lists were involved in the matters on trial and on hearing and of which committee the Honorable Hamilton Fish was chairman, and says that he ill-advisedly elected to follow the advice of said counsel until he learned in effect that said counsel had, in effect, 'plucked him clean' of all funds and monies."

The "committee" was one called "Keep the United States Out of Foreign Wars Committee," which was set up in 1939 by Fish, shortly before the trip to Europe in which he talked to Von Ribbentrop and gave his approval to Adolf Hitler's demands on Poland.

Hill's present lawyer, Richard A. Harman, said in the motion for mercy that Hill "did not then appreciate nor understand the statement of said John J. O'Connor at the time Hill was arraigned, to wit, 'I am here to plead Congressman Fish not guilty.'"

Because Hill did eventually go before the grand jury and testify fully, later giving evidence for the Government when Viereck was tried, he asked Justice Letts to impose a shorter prison sentence for the perjuries.

Harman and Special Prosecutor William Power Maloney called on the justice yesterday and a hearing on Hill's plea was set for Friday.

Representative Fish told The Post last night: "I have no comment to make. That is a matter between Mr. Hill and Mr. O'Connor."

O'Connor could not be reached, his office saying he was in New York.

Prosecutor Maloney disclosed that Bessie Feagin, promotion manager of the magazine, Scribner's Commentator, has been called back by the special grand jury, and that she will probably testify this week.

Miss Feagin admitted several months ago that the isolationist master mailing list, closely guarded by Scribner's, was turned over to Ralph Townsend, one of its writers, who is now under indictment for criminal conspiracy and violating the Foreign Agents Act when acting as an agent of the Japanese government.

WPB Hastens To Probe Self

"During the period of this conflict," Nelson wrote, "Mr. Guthrie, as chief of the branch, had authority to deal with the situation but he failed to do so on his own account and did not bring the difficulties to my attention or request any action on my part until after his resignation."

Guthrie to Get Inning

Truman indicated that his committee will begin its investigation sometime next week as soon as some absentee members return to the city. He plans to hear both Guthrie and Nelson.

With respect to Guthrie's charges, which centered principally on the theme that representatives of industries likely to be affected by WPB determinations were employed as dollar-a-year men by the board and hampered independent decisions, Truman said:

"This is right in line with what our committee has always maintained—that dollar-a-year men are apt to look after their own interests. We'll just have to call them in and find out."

Nelson appeared before the Truman Committee on January 28 to discuss the problem of dollar-a-year officials and said that none would be assigned to duties "directly concerned" with their former industries.

Guthrie, however, charged that at least half a dozen WPB consultants drawn from the textile industries constituted a clique which fought for decisions not in the public interest.

Truman said his group had found the WPB "shot through" with officials "interested primarily in serving their own interests," and said his committee had opposed employment of dollar-a-year men in policy-making positions because "no man can serve two masters."

Faddis said his committee would begin hearings Thursday and would ask Guthrie for a full explanation.

"The committee wants him to get more specific and name some names," he said.

Meantime, Nelson received a plea from Russ Nixon, Washington representative of the C. I. O. electrical workers, to reinstate Guthrie and his two aides, George Doherty and Marshall Hale, jr., to their former positions. Nixon said his union had dealt with Guthrie on the problem of converting the radio and refrigerator industries and found Guthrie opposing "business as usual" and supporting, in the face of vigorous opposition from industry groups, the idea of all-out conversion to war work.

Ex-Rep. Townsend Dies; Reporter And Cartoonist

New York, March 16 (AP).—Edward W. Townsend, 87, former Representative, newspaperman, author and cartoonist, died yesterday.

Born in Cleveland where he began his newspaper career at 15, Townsend was the creator of "Chimmie Fadden," a composite character drawn from lower Manhattan's wise-cracking street gamin of the nineties.

After studying mining briefly in Virginia City, Nev., Townsend worked for the Virginia City Chronicle and later served with numerous mountain district newspapers.

At one time he was business manager of the San Francisco Examiner, but gave up that post to return to news work. He became Washington correspondent for the Examiner. He also worked on the Call in San Francisco.

McNary Gives View On Langer Case

ant Republican leader. All Elections Committee Republicans, except Senator Nye, of North Dakota, who disqualified himself, signed the majority report in the Langer case.

Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, on the other hand, told the Senate yesterday that if the two-thirds rule is applied, no Senator-elect whose qualifications are challenged could be admitted on a majority vote.

Meanwhile, Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, declared that in his opinion, any Senator can be expelled by a two-thirds vote "on a clear case," but that the case against Langer does not appear to be clear. Taft confirmed reports that he will take the floor to argue against a simple majority vote in deciding Langer's fate.

The Elections Committee took the position that Langer is not a member of the Senate and, therefore, may be "excluded" by a majority because he took his oath January 3, 1941, pending the outcome of the investigation of "moral turpitude" charges.

The committee presented a resolution which stated that "the case of William Langer does not fall within the constitutional provisions for expulsion or any punishment by a two-thirds vote, because Senator Langer is neither charged with nor proved to have committed disorderly behavior during his membership in the Senate."

Defeat of this portion of the resolution to deny Langer a seat will mean that the final vote in the case must be taken under the two-thirds rule, McNary stated. He said he believed the Senate would decide this question Thursday.

1 Dead, 4 Missing After Towboat Strikes Trestle

Bellaire, Ohio, March 16 (U.P.).—At least one person was drowned and four were reported missing tonight after the towboat Katie Lyons struck a railroad trestle and sank in the rain-swollen Ohio River during a heavy fog.

Fourteen persons were rescued by rivermen. The body of the one known dead was recovered eight miles downstream.

The 150-foot paddle wheel steamer was en route to Point Pleasant, Ohio, from Pittsburgh with a tow of eight barges.

Program to Prolong Life Of Tires Begins Here Today

helping the public to make their tires last until 1943 and to get the most possible use out of them during this time." The program is outlined to work in this fashion:

The gasoline retailers will sponsor an advertising campaign in the papers and over the radio urging the public to check the conditions of their tires with service stations. Reference charts will be furnished these stations. The tires will be measured with a gauge and computation made with aid of charts on the amount of monthly mileage to make the tires last three years.

Reason for the three-year period selected was said to be that the stock of new tires for Class A use is prorated on a three-year basis, and that the average tire can run three years at 5400 miles a year. This figures to slightly over 29 miles a day. Last year the national average for tires was 6200 miles, the report said.

Points to be stressed by service station men to double the life of tires include:

1. Cut driving speed. Tires will run twice as far at 30 miles per hour as they will at 60 miles per hour.

2. Keep tires properly inflated. The average tire runs 20 per cent underinflated.

3. Remember heat hurts tires. The faster they are run the hotter they get. Driving in the cool of evening or night is recommended when possible.

The organization meeting of the training class will be held today at 1:30 p. m. in the Hot Shoppe, 4110 Wisconsin Avenue Northwest. Another meeting will be held tomorrow at the same time and place. The school will run for some time, Wainwright said, and the complete course will be given in three class days.

The Public Roads Administration announced yesterday that motorists can increase their tire mileage by 20 per cent and also save 3 per cent on gasoline by reducing their driving speed to 40 miles an hour as recommended by President Roosevelt to State Governors last Saturday.

Studies of gasoline savings show that on the basis of normal automobile mileage, motorists would save abut 62 million dollars on their gasoline bills per year, it was stated, by reducing driving speed to 40 miles.

In addition, it was pointed out, that more moderate speeds also would prevent many accidents and lessen the severity of others. The Public Roads Administration said its investigations indicate that about 25 per cent of the passenger-car travel on rural highways is at speeds above 40 miles an hour and 60 per cent in excess of 35 miles per hour.

Be Patriotic, Save Gas, Tires

The Gasoline Retailers of Washington, Inc., is asking motorists to observe the following points to prolong the life of their tires:

1. Don't run your car more than 40 miles per hour; you will conserve gasoline as well as rubber.
2. Keep your tires inflated only 10 per cent above car manufacturer's specifications.
3. Remember speed heats tires and heat reduces tire miles.
4. Switch your tires now and every 5000 miles, including your spare.
5. Begin now to have regular inspection of your entire car.
6. The rubber on your "war car" is a great national resource—use it carefully to your Nation's advantage.

Johnson to Represent Roosevelt in India

Louis Johnson, former Assistant Secretary of War, the White House announced yesterday will be a "personal representative of the President with the personal rank of minister" in India.

There was no explanation of the meaning of "personal rank of minister" except that Johnson would have an unofficial rather than an official title.

It was announced last week that Johnson would head a United States mission to India.

Mrs. Garvey's Estate

Reno, Nev., March 16 (AP).—Mrs. Luella Rhodes Garvey, widow of a Cincinnati steel magnate, left an estate valued at approximately $3,500,000, witnesses testified at a district court hearing today. She died in Los Angeles February 18. Her husband, Clayton M. Garvey, died at Pasadena, Calif., in 1923, leaving his estate to her.

Mrs. Garvey's will, the largest ever filed in Reno, provided for cash bequests of $200,000 each to William E. Rhodes, of Los Angeles, a brother; to Edward F. Lunsford, Reno attorney, and Herbert L. Hahn, Pasadena attorney.

McKellar Opens Attack on TVA

A battle between Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, and directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority over the financial procedure of the public power agency opened yesterday before a congressional committee.

Charging the TVA organization with incurring "unreasonable, wasteful and extravagant expenses" in connection with the travel of its officials, the senior Tennessee Senator called for support of his bill to require payment of TVA's power revenues into the Treasury monthly, subject to expenditure only by Congressional appropriation.

McKellar was the only witness before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee headed by Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama.

Arbitrate, Railroad Told by President

Government May Be Forced to Take Over; Unions Agree to Plan

By the Associated Press

Government seizure and operation of the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad appeared imminent last night unless George P. McNear, president of the road, heeds a last-minute appeal of President Roosevelt for arbitration of a dispute with two railroad unions.

The White House disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt had written McNear on Saturday requesting him to comply immediately with an arbitration order of the War Labor Board.

"In these times of war," the President wrote McNear, "I must insist that the national agreement that there shall be no strikes or lockouts for the duration of the war and that the procedures for peaceful settlement of labor disputes . . . must be complied with by all American employes and labor groups."

"This Last Chance"

At the War Labor Board, an official said that unless McNear complied with "this last chance" the Government "undoubtedly would have a railroad on its hands." Should the road be commandeered, it would be the first such Government action since the United States entered the war.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

HAROLD E. KIPLING, chief special agent for the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad, inspects a window shattered by a shotgun attack on his home yesterday in Peoria, Ill.

The T., P. W., a 239-mile freight belt line by-passing Chicago, operates between Keokuk, Iowa, and Effner, Ind. At this point it connects with main lines of larger roads. Approximately 100 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers and the Brotherhood of Trainmen have been on strike since December 28. They contended a proposed new contract would ignore seniority rights and reduce wages. The company has asserted that the contract would raise wages an average of 26.7 per cent. The scale, it said, would be $9.56 for engineers, $8.36 for conductors, $7.40 for firemen and $7 for brakemen, on an eight-hour day, straight-time basis.

Union Agreed to Arbitrate

The unions have agreed to arbitrate, but McNear has rejected appeals for arbitration from the Railway Mediation Board and the War Labor Board. Considerable violence has accompanied operation of the road since the company recruited new crews to keep the trains moving.

In Peoria, McNear said today he would not make public his reply to the President until it had reached the White House.

Parleys Fail

115,000 Face Idleness in Truck Strike

By the Associated Press

New York, March 16.—Paralysis of the women's garment industry and enforced idleness for its 115,000 workers loomed today after a breakdown of negotiations between 1500 striking truck drivers and coat, suit and dress manufacturers.

Representatives of both sides looked to Mayor L. H. LaGuardia for intervention in the dispute they said threatened to tie up the city's largest industry at the height of the Eastern season if stoppage of deliveries continued.

No agreement was reached last night as manufacturers, trucking officials and representatives of the Cloak and Dress Drivers, an affiliate of the A. F. of L. International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, conferred for five house over a union demanded $5 weekly pay rise.

Present scales range from $42 to $44.50 for drivers, $29.50 to $31.50 for first helpers, and $26.50 for second helpers.

The manufacturers contend the controversy is solely between the trucking associations and the 1500 drivers who transport raw materials and finished products to and from the garment center on a jobbing basis.

The truckers maintain they cannot grant pay increases unless manufacturers first agree to absorb the higher expenses.

The drivers meanwhile say no goods will be moved until they get their wage boost.

Swedish Vessel Hired to Effect Envoy Exchange

Acting Secretary of State Welles disclosed yesterday that the Swedish liner Drottningholm had been chartered to take German and Italian diplomats to Lisbon and to bring home the American diplomats and consular officials there for passage to the United States.

The Drottningholm, Welles added, also will carry to Portuguese East Africa the Japanese diplomatic and consular officials who will be exchanged there for American officials brought from Japan and Japanese-occupied territories.

Welles told a press conference that the dates for the Drottningholm sailing have not yet been fixed, but indicated that all arrangements for the exchange of diplomats were proceeding smoothly and that the exchange might be completed soon.

Community Nursing Council Meets Today

A new council on community nursing with representatives from all local nursing schools and health agencies will meet in Providence Hospital at 3:30 p. m. today to discuss current problems in this field.

National Women's Relief Society Marks 100th Year

The centennial of the founding of the National Women's Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Nauvoo, Ill., will be observed here today by women of the Washington Stake.

The ceremonies will open at 1 p. m. in the Church of Jsus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Sixteenth Street and Columbia Road Northwest, with a memorial tree planting. Samuel R. Carpenter will preside. Later a pageant will be given showing the history of the organization which was founded to serve in a capacity similar to the Red Cross. It now has about 113,000 members. Mrs. Wallace M. Hales is president of the local group.

Laundry Figures Loss by Fire

It will take at least three days for a crew of men to sort laundry ruined in the fire early Sunday at the main plant of Howard's Cleaners, 1339 South Capitol Street, before the extent of the damage will be known, W. D. Howard, proprietor, said yesterday.

Some laundry was burned, he said, and other items were scorched or faded. Many bundles of laundry were soiled and water soaked. This will have to be rewashed. No estimate of damage to the building has been made, Howard stated.

Merrily We Roll Along In a New Sort of Revue

'Skating Vanities' Wheels Into Town Tonight; Florence Reed Guest Star at Catholic U.; Items of News and Gossip of the Theater

THE ASSUMPTION IS that as an arenic musical spectacle, highly tinctured with comedy, the innovation must follow the general pattern of the "Ice Follies," or the "Ice-Capades," more or less closely. Still, there is a vast difference between wide rollers and narrow blades. So, the "Skating Vanities of 1942," opening tonight in the Uline Arena for a six-day engagement, ought to hit the amusement-seeker's notion of novelty where it is most alive.

FLORENCE REED

While we have no intention of previewing the "Vanities" sight-unseen, it gives high promise on paper of being quite a show. In the top spots among the roller skaters are two who ought to know their way around on wheels. One is Gloria Nord, California State titleholder; the other, Dolly Durkin, who won the national dance title in 1940. To insure the prevalence of grotesque comedy, Buster West and Lucille Page, two of the stage's foremost acrobatic funsters, and A. Robins, long a fixture in vaudeville, will be on hand—or foot or some other portion of their resilient anatomies—to see to it that a laugh creeps into the rhythmic proceedings now and again.

As for the spectacular ensemble aspects of the ambulent entertainment, they ought to be such as to knock out one of any pair of eyes. Gae Foster has that department of the goings-on in hand. Miss Foster enjoys a deserved celebrity for the flashy dance routines she has devised for the Roxy Theater stage presentations in New York. Her services also were enlisted by Billy Rose, for the "dance" interludes in his World's Fair Aquacade, and by Olsen and Johnson, to inject a bit of grace into "Hellzapoppin'." Fanchon and Marco, who staged the "Vanities," are said to have gone overboard in the matter of colorful costumes.

Perhaps the "Vanities" will turn out to be one of the objects of that latterly popular slogan, "Keep 'em rolling!"

It's too late now. Those not already in possession of tickets for the current engagement of Katharine Hepburn and Elliott Nugent, in the Theater Guild's production of Philip Barry's new comedy, "Without Love," at the National, will be out of luck for the duration of the local run. The house was sold out for the week the day the box-office sale opened, which was by way of being last Thursday. No, don't ask me. There's nothing I can do about it, any more than there is about getting you that new tire!

Where Credit Is Due

And speaking of Miss Hepburn—as practically everybody has been since her life was Posted in that weekly magazine—"The Women of the Year," in which she costars on the screen with Spencer Tracy, has been awarded the Boxoffice Blue Ribbon Award as the best picture for general consumption released during the month of February. This award is given each month to the film receiving the highest number of votes by the members of the National Screen Council, an organization of authentically national scope. Its appraisals are made on a "whole-family entertainment" basis and mean what they say.

T. S. Elitot's verse play, "The Family Reunion," will be presented for the first time on a Washington stage by the production group of the King-Smith Theater, on Friday evening, March 20, for a week's run, with another extended engagement to follow, beginning April 16. The play is under the direction of Keinert Wolff, with Dr. Kurt Pinthus, consultant on International Theater at the Library of Congress and lecturer at the King-Smith School of Theater and Drama, as adviser.

One of the immediately important facts best not ignored is the one that concerns tonight's first appearance of Florence Reed, one of the theater's most distinguished actresses, as guest star of Catholic University's production of Racine's "Athaliah," in the University Theater at 8:30. She will be supported by a cast of veterans and several newcomers in Father Hartke's able acting group.

In New Comedy by Philip Barry

KATHARINE HEPBURN

who, with Elliott Nugent in the stellar male role, last night opened a week's engagement at the National Theater in Philip Barry's new play, "Without Love," prior to its Broadway premiere. This Theater Guild production marks Miss Hepburn's first stage appearance since the memorable "The Philadelphia Story," by the same author

Miss Hepburn and Mr. Nugent Score Rousing Hit at National

"WITHOUT LOVE." The Theater Guild presents a new comedy in three acts and seven scenes by Philip Barry. Staged by Robert B. Sinclair; settings and lighting by Robert Edmond Jones. At the National Theater.

—THE CAST—

Patrick Jamieson.....Elliott Nugent
Quentin Ladd.....Donald Briggs
Anna.....Emily Massey
Martha Ladd.....Ellen Morgan
Jamie Coe Rowan....Katharine Hepburn
Kitty Trimble.....Audrey Christie
Emmet.....J. M. Kerrigan
Paul Carrel.....Barry Thomson
Peter Baillie.....Robert Shayne
Richard Hood.....Robert Chisholm
Butler.....Henry Vincent
Grant Vincent.....Royal Beal

The Muses continue to smile. The happy coalition of deft authorship, acutely effective playing and great productional acumen that made "The Philadelphia Story" one of the theater's illustrious successes is perpetuated in "Without Love," presented before a richly entertained, standing-room audience in the National Theater last night, preliminary to its Broadway premiere.

Philip Barry, the author; the sagaciously chosen cast, buoyantly and at times brilliantly, led by Katharine Hepburn and Elliot Nugent, and the Theater Guild—not to mention those fortunate enough to have secured seats out front—find themselves in the gay presence of a scintillant comedy that already has written itself down as a substantial and presumably enduring hit.

Mr. Barry has based his new examination of the lighter human emotions upon the sly but sound premise that it is love, and not merely courage, understanding or honesty, that makes the marital wheels go 'round. His two chief protagonists, of course, embark upon the precarious experiment of proving that the title of the play supplies the perfect formula for a happy marriage. The one is a young bachelor economist just returned from years in the American foreign service, the victim of a crushing disillusionment; the other, the youthful widow of a gifted young man and daughter of a former Governor who ended his distinguished political career in the United States Senate. Love never having fulfilled itself for Patrick Jamieson, he will have none of it in any recognizable manifestation, but dedicates his talents to bringing about a Utopian harmony of thought and effort between the Irish and the English. Mrs. Jamie Coe Rowan, having gloried in its perfection, can not contemplate love again, but seeks release only from her overpowering loneliness.

As this businesslike alliance of convenience begins to function in diverse directions, looking to international as well as domestic harmony, a wide variety of characters, engrossed in their conventional political or social concerns, are attracted to the comfortable living room of the James Owen Coe mansion in Washington, where his daughter has led her solitary life shadowed by its bleak New England traditions.

Out of their personal problems, petty aspirations and occasionally deep-seated convictions, Mr. Barry has fashioned three acts and seven scenes in which airy persiflage, thoughtful discussion of vitally timely topics and the indulgence of most of the frailties to which mankind is heir are neatly woven into a colorful pattern of lively, literate and engrossing entertainment. Ingratiating humor, delicate and subtle romance, drama and sustained interest are inherent in both the lines and situations. In each of its many sparkling facets, the piece is played with intelligence, skill and a warm and glowing charm. We take anticipatory issue at once with those who will contend that occasionally, midway of its length, "Without Love" becomes momentarily "too talky." It becomes in these rare intervals a "conversation piece" only with a loquacity to which it is a delight to listen.

Katharine Hepburn and Elliott Nugent, as the beneficiaries of a "disastrous" experiment, contribute admirable performances to which they have brought variety and a warmly human quality at no sacrifice of naturalness or believability. Their already gracious portrayals will grow in rounded excellence as time goes on, but even at the moment are such as to disarm even the captious. In their support are many who add brightness and luster to one of the season's more orderly and enlivening evenings in the theater.

Audrey Christie is ebulliently engaging as the executive of Contacts, Inc., who becomes a priceless secretary to the young man bent on reforming the world; the veteran J. M. Kerrigan is flawless as the butler who becomes an oily Irish diplomatist, and Donald Briggs, Barry Thomson, Robert Shayne, Robert Chisholm, Royal Beal and Ellen Morgan all bear a full share of credit in the consummation of so satisfying a work.

Robert B. Sinclair's direction is understanding and unerring and Robert Edmond Jones shares no little in the general praise for his artistic handling of the evolution of the Coe living room from a dreary vault into a livable place of modernistic beauty. "Without Love" will not be in the eyes of those who see it.

FRED ASTAIRE

Jean Gabin was saying the other day that when he was a struggling young actor in Paris, it was an American director who gave him his first lead in the picture "La Belle Mariniere," so he went to the bat for the same director to do "Loves of Edgar Allan Poe." Which is why Harry Lachman will direct the Poe picture, with John Sheppard and Linda Darnell.

Fred Astaire's been elected elected to membership in ASCAP on the strength of ten published songs for which he's written the music. The latest, "If Swing Goes, I Go, Too" has both music and lyrics by Fred. Someone suggested that if his dancing feet ever gave out, he could switch to the piano. "Yeah," Fred cracked, "—sit there and gracefully starve to death!"

After "The Glass Key," Bonita Granville goes to New York for a George Abbott production. By the way, that new suit that Bonita looks so grown-up in is a gift from Jackie Cooper, who likes his gals tailored.

Ann Gillis, who's now 15, is delighted to be playing her own age in "Meet the Stewarts." When Ann was 13, she played grown-ups on the screen. In "Nice Girl?" she was a 12-year-old. Ann says it's been confusing.

When Director George Stevens wanted Glenda Farrell out here for "Three's a Crowd," he wanted her in a hurry. She got the call at 10:15 p. m. in New York, grabbed a plane 40 minutes later, after slinging a fur coat over her house dress, was met by a studio car at the airport at four the next afternoon, and half hour later was reading off-stage dialog to Cary Grant. She's wearing wardrobe clothes till her own duds catch up with her.

That on-again, off-again romance between Nancy Kelly and Irving Cummings, jr., was on again when the two showed at Bill Jordan's Bar of Music.

Mall Dormitory Plan Wins Support

$75,000 Is Goal
Navy Relief Drive Opens Here Today

Four soliciting units set out here yesterday to raise $75,000 toward the national goal of five million dollars to be used this year by the Navy Relief Society for aid of Navy families left without help.

The society is an old established one. President Roosevelt has been its honorary chairman since 1933 and has made a personal appeal for support of the campaign which began yesterday. The drive will continue for two weeks, with headquarters at 1721 I Street Northwest.

The local goal of $75,000 must be raised in metropolitan Washington and the adjoining counties of Maryland and Virginia. With start of the drive, the headquarters yesterday reminded of the society's activities, as follows:

"The organization keeps expenses very low," it was stated. "The campaign is not to include any personnel of the Navy, Coast Guard or Marines. It will be conducted by civilians who aim to raise 5 million dollars to be devoted to caring for families of those men who stand on the Naval firing line in all parts of the world."

Headquarters here yesterday received a letter from a Holyoke, Colo., Navy family, saying in part:

"I wish to extend to the Society my sincere appreciation and thanks for the letter and check for $50 I received today. The letter is certainly a godsend to my little son and me at this time.

Another from Waterloo, Ala., said: "I have just received your check for $25, for which I am very grateful. I am deeply grieved over the loss of my son who gave his life at Pearl Harbor, but thank God he died fighting for you, for me and his country."

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank, is treasurer for the drive. George A. Garrett is campaign chairman. Checks should be made to the Navy Relief Society and if not collected by one of the committee members be forwarded to the I Street headquarters, it was stated.

Admiral George A. Pettengill, U. S. N., is honorary chairman of the District committee. The vice chairmen are Charles B. Dulcan, jr., Mrs. Charles C. Glover, jr., Harvey L. Jones, John L. McCloy and Hofman Philip.

House Committee May Consider It; Praised by Reynolds

President Roosevelt's plan to convert the Mall into a dormitory area for single Federal war workers may be considered today by the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee as it continues hearings on the Senate-approved 70-million-dollar war housing bill for the District area.

Chairman Lanham (Democrat), of Texas, yesterday expressed approval of the plan as the committee heard testimony from Commissioner of Public Buildings William E. Reynolds during its consideration of a joint resolution to withdraw Federal funds from use of the Office of Government Reports for its downtown information center.

"That idea of the President's appeals to us as a very practical and sensible idea," Chairman Lanham declared. "The traffice situation would be relieved. The cost of construction of dormitories would be cheaper than has been expected in many cases."

Reynolds said his office has made drawings of various types of dormitories for the Mall and has been studying the matter for the past six weeks.

"Some of our drawings offer less facilities than the type proposed by the President," he said, "while others are more expensive, offering a bathroom for every four people."

(As first revealed in The Post, the President has planned a simple type of dormitory, with small, individual rooms separated by partitions not reaching the ceiling.)

"We're strongly of the opinion that at least half of the dormitories should be of a temporary nature, to be taken down after the war," Reynolds continued.

He said he would submit to the committee the cost of the proposed dormitories per individual person.

Representative Wilson (Republican), of Indiana, asked Reynolds why he believed dormitories necessary when it has been announced that rooms were available in areas within 30 to 40 minutes commuting distance from downtown Washington.

"We may be getting some relief at present because of decentralization," Reynolds replied, "but between 60,000 and 65,000 more workers are expected to come here during the rest of this year. There is also the problem of transportation."

Patriotic Americans Shell Out A Billion on Last Tax Day

More than 22 million Americans filed income tax returns by midnight last night. At least one billion dollars in tax payments were believed made or mailed during the day. The month's total is expected to reach two and three-quarter billions. Yesterday's total was large because many big taxpayers wait until the last day to avoid losing interest on their money.

In Washington, all previous records were broken as 13,205 persons appeared at the office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Twelfth Street and Constitution Avenue Northwest, yesterday.

Many tens of thousands of other Washingtonians paid their taxes earlier at the bureau office or sent them in by mail.

Designed to help finance the war and prevent disastrous inflation, the record high rates reached down into the lower income brackets and compelled single persons with income over $750 and married persons with $1500 a year income to file.

The democratic all-inclusiveness of the tax was dramatized here when a 13-year-old Senate page and a 93-year-old woman both made the trek downtown to pay Uncle Sam. A few others who did not earn enough money to pay any tax this year filed returns anyway and inclosed donations to pay for the war effort.

Between 8:30 a. m. and 9 p. m. yesterday, taxpayers filed into the bureau at the rate of 1900 an hour for a total of 11,521. Last year, the last day's record—an all-time high—was 10,317. Last week, 53,001 filed returns compared to 42,855 for a comparable week last year, or an increase of about 25 per cent.

Last person to pay was Mrs. Patricia Fones, a secretary at the War Production Board who lives at 5610 Colorado Avenue Northwest. She said she waited until the last minute "because it just slipped my mind." She paid taxes jointly with her husband, Donald Fones, an employe of the Office of Emergency Management.

About 25 other persons arrived at the bureau shortly after midnight, to be turned away by building guards.

One donation—a $10 bill—came from a sailor who explained that he just wanted to help. A citizen enclosed a check with the note, "I don't have to pay anything, but here is $10 anyway."

A man from Los Angeles suggested that his $10 donation be used to buy "bullets for MacArthur." A New York City businessman complained of a bad business year, but inclosed a $500 check which he termed "a self-imposed tax." An immigrant from Syria sent $500 from San Francisco "in appreciation of the freedom" he enjoyed.

Quite a few citizens came down to file returns although they did not have to, assuming that Uncle Sam wanted to check up on them.

Axis Sub Sinks First Chilean Ship

man who missed the ship at Baltimore.

Faust, suffering shock, told naval officers that the ship was struck without warning amidship and that she blew up and sank in six minutes. He is an engine room worker.

Faust said there was no time to lower boats. He said he cut a life raft loose and in some manner was blown clear of his wrecked ship. He became unconscious after climbing on the raft.

He expressed belief that the rest of the ship's crew perished in the explosion.

Although he was picked up a few hours later, Faust was in critical condition and naval officers said he told an incoherent story of the tragedy.

(The Tolten, formerly the Danish ship Lotta, was seized by Chile at Valparaiso on February 15, 1941, along with the Danish vessels Frida and Helga. They were put into the Chilean-American trade.

(Denmark protested against the seizures at the time, but Chile eventually arranged to pay for the ships after the war.

(Officers of a Chilean passenger liner which arrived in New York recently said they had been told that Axis powers had agreed not to attack Chilean ships.)

Wreckage, Bodies Found Off Jersey

Wildwood, N. J., March 16 (AP).—A large section of ship, including a portion of the deck, washed ashore here today.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Charles Wright of the North Wildwood Coast Guard station said that bodies of two more seamen had been taken from the ocean about 6 miles out. One body was recovered yesterday.

Aussies Blast Jap Invasion Base

Britain on the east, but the day's only official announcement dealing with this running counteroffensive was of a raid on the enemy-held airdrome at Dilli on Timor, a point about 450 miles northwest of Darwin, in which it appeared that great damage had been wrought.

"All bombs," said the communique of the Royal Australian Air Force, "fell in the target area."

(In a belated report of action going back to last Friday, the War Department in Washington announced that a single American four-motored Army bomber had smashed at least two grounded enemy planes in a raid on a Japanese airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, and also had inflicted considerable damage on the runways. The American craft returned undamaged to its base.)

The day was one of swift preparation on every front to meet the expected full-scale enemy invasion of this continent.

Maj. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, who commanded the Australian forces in the Malayan campaign, declared plainly that every member of the overseas imperial Australian forces was now needed at home and urged the elimination in training of those "barracks square principles" which he said had sometimes taken the initiative out of troops.

Reports published in the Australian press said that Japan was moving troops out of Central China for service in Burma and Australia.

Against the general prevailing gloom, however, there also were published reports, of an origin not stated, that the United States was taking the offensive at sea with a great fleet of submarines as the spearhead of the attack. For this there was no supporting detail.

U. S. Forces Sink 2 Jap Ships And Destroy 5 Airplanes

American P-40 and a Japanese fighter collided during the dogfight.

Both planes were lost, but the rest of American craft returned safely to their base, it was said.

This action occurred Saturday, the War Department said. Earlier in the day the Army disclosed that a lone American heavy bomber had blasted a Japanese airdrome on the island of New Britain Friday.

The plane was on a reconnaissance flight east of New Guinea, its primary mission to search out any further concentration of enemy forces directed against Australia.

Striking at the Vunkanau airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, the big four-engined craft tore up runways with several hits and put one of its bombs directly on some parked Jap planes. At least two of them were blown to bits.

The American bomber returned to its base undamaged.

Navy Communique No. 55

"Far East—A United States submarine has sunk an enemy freighter during the course of extended operations in Japanese waters.

A 3800-ton enemy gasoline tanker also has been sunk in the Philippine area.

"These sinkings are in addition to those reported in previous communiques.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

"1. Philippine theater—No activity was reported from the Philippines.

"2. New Britain: On March 13, a single American Army heavy bomber of the flying fortress type, while on reconnaissance patrol, attacked the Japanese-held Vunkanau airdrome at Rabaul, on the island of New Britain. Several bombs were dropped on the runways, inflicting considerable damage. A direct hit was scored on parked aircraft, destroying at least two enemy planes. Our plane returned to its base undamaged.

"3. There is nothing to report from other areas."

War Department Communique 147

"Australasia: While on patrol north of Australia on March 14, nine United States Army fighter planes of the P-40 type encountered a large flight of enemy bombers escorted by fighter planes. Though outnumbered, our planes attacked the enemy formation. One of our planes rammed an enemy fighter and both planes were destroyed. One other enemy fighter plane and one enemy bomber were shot down. Eight of our planes returned to their base undamaged.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Torpedoed Freighter Fights Off U-Boat

Great Lakes, Ill., March 16 (AP).—Lieut. Comdr. R. A. Brown, public relations officer of the Ninth Naval District, tonight issued the following statement concerning a recent torpedoing:

"An unnamed merchant ship was attacked by a submarine a few weeks ago somewhere in the Caribbean. She was struck in the bow by a torpedo from the submarine. After the merchant vessel was hit the submarine came to the surface and began firing. The sub also set up a flare apparently to view the damage he had done.

"Immediately, in the light of the flare, the merchant vessel's gun crew, commanded by Ensign Peter M. Wendt, swung into action. After firing return shots, the men on the merchant vessel's gun were positive they had landed shells on the sub.

"The submarine definitely retired from the battle. The merchant vessel remained afloat until the next day, when she had to be abandoned by her crew. Members of the crew were picked up the same day by an undisclosed vessel. One man was slightly injured. All hands were saved."

Troops in Australia, U. S. Reveals

United States Army forces already were on the ground for the anticipated battle for Australia, last night's communique was the first authoritative word to that effect.

The announcement followed shortly after last Friday's appeal to the American people by Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia, for help in warding off the invasion hordes. "If Australia goes, the Americas are wide open," he warned.

Only yesterday, Australian Minister Richard G. Casey, broadcasting from Washington, declared that the fight for Australia "offers the last chance of making a stand—and a comeback—in the Western Pacific."

Chest Considers Buying Blackout Materials

The Community Chest budget committee will meet at the chest conference room, 1101 M Street Northwest, at 2 p. m. today to consider the purchase of blackout material for three branches of the Washington Boys Club, nine children's institutions and three homes for the aged. Col. W. O. Tufts, chairman of the budget group, said: "Chest member agencies are fully aware of their responsibility toward the children and aged persons confided to their care and the budget committee is prepared to back them up to the fullest extent of any funds available."

A Shell-burst in the Pacific...
Echo of a Railroad Whistle in America!
AMERICA'S ANSWER to aggression roars across the world. It shouts in the boom and crash of guns... in the drone of planes... in the whirring wheels of war-geared industry... in the rumble and shriek of fast trains, carrying supplies and men onward to the fronts of war. It's one vast chorus... and its name is "VICTORY."
Whenever you hear a railroad whistle, think of this: Who takes the iron ore and other raw materials to the plants of war industry? The railroad. Who swiftly moves the finished guns and tanks, plane parts and armor plate from the assembly line? The railroad. Who makes big troop movements possible—while maintaining other vital war and civilian services? The railroad.
Chesapeake and Ohio is an important sector in this "Mainline of Freedom." Sometimes you, as passenger or shipper, may meet with some war-caused delays and inconvenience, but you will still enjoy the traditional courtesies... the thoughtful personal services... that you always find on Chessie's railroad.

Housekeeping Aides

The projected liquidation of the District Work Projects Administration brings up the question of how best to continue the community health service carried on by the Administration. Liquidation will, of course, mean that there will be no more WPA housekeeping aides. These aides have been decidedly useful in caring for the sick or aged in homes from which workers have had to be absent while at their jobs. Normally such sick persons would be sent to Gallinger Hospital. In a great many cases, however, this has not been necessary, because housekeeping aides have supplied the necessary care and supervision. Thus it has been possible to avoid still more overcrowding at the municipal hospital.

The force of housekeeping aides has already been cut from 200 to less than 60, yet applications for aides are coming in at a rate of over 50 a day. Obviously, to cut off this service is to assure an increase of hospital cases at a time when Gallinger is already dangerously overcrowded. It is questionable, to be sure, whether the service performed by housekeeping aides should ever have been a WPA function. Yet it is a necessary service and one that, in the interest of the community, should be continued. The sensible course, it would seem, would be for the District Health Department to take over the job. This would assure competent supervision in a sphere which comes clearly within the province of the department.

Hail To The Bombers

The aircraft industry has apparently won its spectacular race with the automobile industry. It was a race to be the first to apply mass production principles to the manufacture of heavy bombers. And the prize goes to the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, whose assembly line is now in actual operation. This is great news, and the correspondents who were present when the line began to move were duly impressed by the potentialities of quantity production such as now seems at hand. Consolidated deserves much credit for its accomplishment. Yet it is only fair to recall that the challenge provided by automobile production experts had a good deal to do with Consolidated's acceptance of the assembly line idea.

Not so long ago the aircraft industry was dead set against a heavy plane assembly line, believing it impractical for aircraft which required upward of 400,000-man hours of labor. Along came automotive engineers, however, who said it could and should be done.

Then when Henry Ford announced that he would turn out heavy bombers on an assembly line, the challenge to established aircraft manufacturers was reinforced. The Ford bomber line is not yet in use, and there are still aircraft producers who will have to be shown that the Consolidated line is a success before they will be willing to put in their own lines.

But others long since called in automotive engineers, as did Consolidated, to help them plan assembly lines. And some of these lines will shortly be in operation. Thus it appears that the competitive industrial spirit of this country, which the Axis has good reason to respect, has been responsible for the creation of a new aircraft production technique which should facilitate our turning out heavy bombers faster than ever.

Gas Rationing

The order issued by the War Production Board Saturday cutting by 20 per cent all deliveries of gasoline to filling stations in the Eastern seaboard and Pacific Northwest is admittedly a stop-gap arrangement pending the institution of a consumer rationing system. Conservation is primarily necessary because of the heavy losses in tanker tonnage which this Nation has sustained as a result of U-boat activities off our eastern coast. Secretary Ickes, the oil coordinator, points out that normally about 95 per cent of the approximately 1,700,000 barrels of oil used daily in the East is brought here by tankers. The flow of gasoline to this part of the country in normal volume would, therefore, impose an intolerable burden on nonmarine forms of transportation. But even if tanker destruction were eliminated altogether, the rationing of gasoline might still be necessary as a means of saving rubber by forcing a reduction in the use of automobiles.

The horizontal cut of 20 per cent in gasoline deliveries as well as the order restricting operation of filling stations to not more than 12 hours a day for not more than six days a week, should take care of the immediate situation. But, so far as the ultimate consumer is concerned, it lends itself to inequalities. Under the new system some motorists will get as much gasoline as they are accustomed to using, while others will find themselves at a disadvantage. The sooner an all-out rationing system for gasoline is put into effect, due allowances being made for special needs by certain individuals, the better for all concerned. With this view the WPB appears to be in full agreement.

Strange Surrender

The District government turned a curious somersault yesterday when Commissioner Mason gave his blessing to the Randolph bill, which, if enacted, would have the effect of extending the jurisdiction of Virginia over the Washington National Airport. Heretofore District officials have attempted to show that the airport is part of the National Capital and should remain so. Now they are apparently willing to relinquish all claims to that important segment of the Capital for the sake of avoiding the responsibility of extending their control over it.

There is, to be sure, a real temptation to accept the Virginia claim upon this area as a means of settling the troublesome boundary issue. That issue puts the operation of the airport at a great disadvantage. Both Virginia and the District insist on collecting taxes there, but neither will police the area. Thus the occasional crimes committed in that neighborhood go unpunished because neither the State nor the District wishes to raise the confused issue of jurisdiction by making arrests at the airport. This, of course, would be an intolerable predicament for any metropolitan area at any time. To inflict such a handicap upon the National Airport in wartime is utterly inexcusable. So the Commissioners have good ground for demanding that the status of the airport be clarified.

To accept the Virginia solution, however, would be a blunder that the Nation as well as the Capital would doubtless long regret. Congress has invested approximately 16 million dollars in a model airport to serve Washington. For the most part that expensive improvement covers an area that is unquestionably within the confines of the District. To draw a new line placing the finished airport in Virginia would be an utterly unreasonable price to pay for having the boundary issue disposed of promptly.

Virginia's interest in the matter is comparatively infinitesimal. Sponsors of the bill to extend the jurisdiction of that State over the airport seem to be interested largely in collecting taxes there and preventing the sale of hard liquor. Both are petty issues compared to the President's desire to retain exclusive Federal control over this National Airport. So the initiative in settling the issue clearly ought to come from Congress. If the legislators at Richmond had stopped to think the problem through, they probably would not have had the presumption to pass an act to determine the future of an airport which Congress had built almost entirely within the national seat of government.

By all means Congress ought to act on this problem. But there is no occasion to let the tail wag the dog. As we have pointed out many times in the past, the whole of Arlington County is now so closely linked with Washington that it should again become part of the Capital in law as well as in fact. The boundary issue demands early consideration of that problem and consideration on a basis of the national interest as it exists today and will exist tomorrow.

Peirse's Predictions

In an interview with newspapermen at New Delhi, India, Air Marshal Sir Richard Peirse bespoke the determination of the United Nations to turn the tide of war on the Asian mainland from the defensive to the offensive. "We are going to carry the war into the enemy's country, into Japan," he said. "We are not going to be content to put up an umbrella and sit underneath for the enemy to come to attack us."

Cheering words, these. We can only hope and pray that they belong to the category of anticipated realities rather than to that of complacent optimism. Certainly there can be no disguising the fact that in the Burma-India zone the United Nations forces are still very much on the defensive. Their strength is so limited that even such successful forays as those made by British imperial forces across the Sittang River north of Rangoon proved only a flash in the pan. For the three towns that were captured in this venture had to be abandoned.

However, so far as the air situation in the India-Burma sector is concerned, the United Nations have one advantage which they may ultimately turn to account in line with Air Marshal Peirse's predictions. Fighting planes which, in the case of Australia, have to be sent all the way by water from the manufacturing centers in the United States and Great Britain can, in the case of India, be flown from the Near and Middle East by short stages. If a sufficient number of these fighter planes plus an adequate number of bombers can reach India in time, the war in that sector is likely to follow a very different course from that of the fighting in South Burma, Malaya, Java and elsewhere in the Southwestern Pacific.

Air Marshal Peirse assumes these weapons will arrive in time for their weight to be felt. In fact, he declares that the latest models of British and American warplanes are now arriving in increasing numbers. This is welcome news. It will be even more gratifying when the offensive which the air leader predicts has become an actuality.

Northern Front

In Winston Churchill's account of the last war, called "The World Crisis," the British Premier speaks of the lost opportunity for opening up a Northern Front in Scandinavia. There may be such a front in World War II. At any rate, some very interesting reports emanate from Stockholm. The Swedish government has been under great pressure from the Nazis to allow the transit of Nazi troops and arms to northern Norway over Swedish territory. This, it is reported, Sweden has refused to do, while, at the same time, expanding her defenses as rapidly as possible. On the basis of these reports one would be led to believe that (a) the Nazis are fearful of an Allied invasion of northern Norway and (b) that in an effort to avert it they may invade Sweden. Whether such conjectures are valid it is, of course, impossible to say. But neither an Allied invasion of northern Norway nor a Nazi invasion of Sweden can be ruled out. The British have shown by their successful commando raids on the Lofoten and other islands off the Norwegian coast that they have the naval and military force necessary for a landing at one or more points in Norway.

Lacking air bases nearer to Norway than Scotland, the British have never attempted to follow up their raids by actual invasion. But such air power may be vouchsafed them from Russian territory in the vicinity of the North Cape. That is quite possible if the Russians achieve any major successes in the northern sector of the Eastern Front. And such hopes rise with every fresh report from the Russian side. The increasing pressure which they have been putting on such points as Staraya Russa, where a very large German force is said to be trapped, suggests the possibility that the entire Leningrad area may ultimately be cleared of enemy forces. That would leave the Finns isolated, and unable for long to continue a struggle which many of the Finnish people must by now find extremely distasteful.

No wonder, then, that the Nazis are thinking of increasing their garrisons in northern Norway while, as Bern reports, concentrating a large number of troops along the southern coastline of the Baltic. In any event, the North Cape area must be watched. What may happen there in the spring may be the answer to many a fervent prayer by the people of the United Nations.

Borrowing To Pay

March 15 is now past, and it has left many a taxpayer in debt. Local loan companies report a flourishing business in the field of income tax financing. Pawnshops are likewise said to have done a lively business in turning goods into cash for the ultimate benefit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This is not at all surprising. Many people could not be expected to have saved enough in advance to pay the heavily increased income taxes voted last fall. Yet, if the borrower fails hereafter to save systematically from month to month in order to pay off his indebtedness before next year's tax bill is due, he will simply be storing up trouble for the future.

Borrowing to pay taxes is not like borrowing to pay the costs of accident, illness and other nonrecurrent disasters for which the ordinary family cannot make provision. Taxes like rent and food bills are a part, and a rapidly increasing part, of the regular recurrent family outlays for which allowance must be made. The taxpayer who spends as usual, while his taxes are mounting, is certain to come to grief before long. His indebtedness will mount, his credit will be destroyed, and he will eventually find himself cited for tax delinquency.

One of the great advantages of the withholding tax is that it compels wage earners and small-salaried individuals to provide systematically for payment of their income taxes throughout the year. Furthermore, income taxes collected in this way help to cut down and at the same time stabilize consumer buying. That is a highly important consideration at a time when inflation is threatened and taxes provide a means of reducing excess purchasing power.

PATRICK THE EXILE

For so it was with you when every wind
Of spring bore voices lilting with your name—
Some staying Celtic gust to call you back
From fever-haunted lanes in stately Rome;
Met at a corner, in a market-place,
Or in the Grotto of the Silver Crib at prayer.
And when you walked in Gaul on native soil
It blew more strongly, wet with western foam;
It whistled past your ears on Alpine roads,
And drifted through the cloistered colonnades
Fragrant with memories of a greener land,
And lakes that lay more silver in the glens;
It seemed to sleep in winter, but with spring
Always the wind came blowing past the sea,
And always it was pleading, "Come again . . ."

Help For MacArthur

We have on the island of Luzon a great and gallant general with his supporting officers and a small force of American boys, who are all our own. They are defending for us distant and important strategic possessions with glorious courage and unequaled endurance against the overwhelming numbers and arms of a ruthless enemy.

They are aided by the natives of Luzon, whose treatment by us upon this colonial possession has won their faith and their helping hand.

To Luzon something besides our hearts must go out. Perhaps the longed-for help of planes and supplies is already arriving! Perhaps in the large embattled convoys, which we are advised are now crossing the Pacific, substantial aid is reaching out and will arrive in time.

The ways and means of getting help to Gen. MacArthur are properly and of necessity the secrets of our War and Navy officials. The prayers of millions of Americans must be that their efforts and action of succor for these men and the prestige of continued victory for American arms upon our own soil may have successful support—and support in time.

We must give to our fighting men sent to distant lands a confidence that the power of our great Nation is behind them, not in idle words, but with the force of immediate aid and its full power.

It will not impress favorably our young boys drafted into camp—the embryo fighters for our cause—if a gallant band fighting against all odds are left finally to utter exhaustion, death, or capture and torture by a ruthless enemy.

These men are the kind that must not perish from the earth! They have every human right to count upon our saving action. The glorious defense of Bataan and our forts in Manila Bay must not hazard an end like Custer's Last Stand!

Courageous Editorials

Your editorials for the past several months have been of such an intelligent and courageous character that I feel it is a pleasant duty to express my sincerest congratulations, not only to you, but to the city and District for having such a man in this critical hour in charge of the editorial page of The Post. Washington, regrettably being without the power of the ballot, must depend more upon the power of petition and the power of a free press to exercise the usual functions of the American citizens to take part in their local and national governmental policies. Your editorials this morning entitled "The Information Myth" and "Shocking Slums" are inspiring examples of the fine work you are doing on the national and local fronts. The need for such intelligent leadership as you have provided has been a crying one in this city for many years and I wish you Godspeed in the work you are doing.

Names Don't Help

If the changing of a name (as has been suggested recently in the case of our "defense bonds") will be of any help to our war effort, then I respectfully suggest that we no longer bestow on our war-time Commander-in-Chief the kind and gentle title, "the great humanitarian," but rather the strong and forceful title, "the great warrior."

Boys, boys, boys, what earthly good do you suppose it will do our war effort to change the name of anything, even the Japanese cherry trees? To my way of thinking, the only good that can be done our war effort is for those who are in a position to do so to work like hell and fight like hell for our side!

Atrocity Realities

Ralph Parker's story in today's newspapers about the 160 little maimed children now lying in a Moscow hospital might sound like some more atrocity propaganda. But to one who had the privilege of directing the reconstruction work in the Baltic States and Poland after the first world war, the atrocities which are now being ascribed to the German barbarians are nothing new.

I had seen hundreds of children and thousands of old men and women who had been maimed deliberately, children who had been set upon by vicious dogs belonging to officers of the German army, little children of 5 and 6 who were compelled to come to the homes of German officers in the summer to swat flies, and if a child fell asleep exhausted he would be beaten into unconsciousness.

The stories I had heard from the very lips of the victims would not have been believed by any civilized people. But they were true. Unfortunately there were no correspondents in those regions to tell the world about them. Unfortunately those instances of extreme cruelty and barbarity were so numerous that they were no longer news in those sections which were under German occupation.

And these barbarians would rule the world, would trample under foot the traditions ushered in by the truly civilized people of the Magna Carta and the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence. The sooner our people realize that they are dealing with the most cruel, inhuman power on earth the sooner will they attend to their tasks with greater zeal and determination to bring an end to a government which could never live in peace with its neighbors. There can never be peace in Europe or elsewhere as long as Germany remains a major world power.

Whatever may be the stories in the press about the cruelties of the Germans in the invaded territories, they can be only a minute fraction of the real truth. The true stories have been and will be carried away into the premature graves of the victims.

Tire Sabotage?

Sabotage of auto tires is going on every weekend at an increasing tempo that makes me suspect genuine fifth columnists are running it.

I drive a car. For some weeks now I have noted a growing number of liquor bottles thrown into the streets during Saturday nights. This looks as if drunks and hoodlums were to blame.

But are they? On Forty-ninth Street Northwest, in the four blocks between Conduit Road and Hawthorne Street, broken gin bottles were deposited in seven places on the street itself and in three turnout parking places at the side of the pavement last Saturday night.

In view of the rubber shortage, I suggest that the public be asked through the newspapers and on the radio to report the auto license numbers of anyone seen to throw a bottle out of a car. Hoodlums must be taught. Criminals must be caught.

A more drastic measure would be to post civilian riflemen on the city's darker streets with orders to shoot at the tires of cars whose occupants toss broken glass onto highways.

Jefferson Anniversary

I see in the Congressional Record of March 9 that Senator Barkley, Chairman of the Committee on the Library, has reported favorably Senate Bill 1773 for the Celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the Birth of Thomas Jefferson.

As an admirer of that great American it is very interesting that this anniversary is to be celebrated during this struggle for existence of the Nation he worked so hard to establish.

I have a few books on his life and I think most of his published speeches and correspondence. The impression I have gained of him is that he was an economical public servant. He would turn over in his grave if he knew the Congress would spend as much as one of the new "plugged" nickels unnecessarily, especially in his memory at this time. According to the Pittsburgh Press of February 22, the total cost to win the Revolutionary War was only $80,000 and this Commission asked for $150,000.

Now is the time to "clear the deck" and strip for action by throwing overboard all peacetime frills and commissions. The 3000 volumes of this book and 100,000 pictures of him will give support and comfort to every member of our scattered A. E. F.'s—especially those boys on Luzon who are contributing to buy a plane.

I would like to have a copy of this proposed book when this war is over. As a former-soldier I would feel greatly heartened if Senate Bill 1773 and the Agricultural Year Book for another, were shelved till a more appropriate time, "Apris la guerre finis."

Let's build bombs not books—

Capital Losses

It is important that all of us who want to avoid inflation and who wish to see that the taxes necessary to win the war are levied in accordance with ability to pay should insist that the income tax be modified to eliminate the provisions which now allow a taxpayer to use capital losses to reduce the amount of the tax he has to pay. If this is not done the substantial decline in the stock market due to the war will enable men of wealth to use capital losses to reduce very substantially the income tax which they will owe. I know because I personally have saved five or six thousand dollars of income taxes during the last three years in that way.

The State income tax laws in both New York and Massachusetts allow capital losses to be set off against capital gains, but not to reduce the income taxes due on other sorts of income. This is a reasonable and simple proposition and should be the Federal law as well.

We must turn over to the Federal Government for the duration of the war about one-half the total income of all our citizens either through taxation or through voluntary savings out of income. If we do not, we will certainly have inflation, and that will be a drastic, onerous and unjust form of taxation. For inflation will bear most heavily on the lowest paid group through increases in the prices of all necessities, and will destroy much of the value of insurance policies and savings. Every loophole in the income tax law, such as the existing capital loss provision, which can be stopped, will help to free us from this danger of inflation.

St. Patrick

History teaches that Patrick, apostle of Ireland, died on March 17 in the year 461 A. D., hence St. Patrick's Day commemorates the date of his death, rather than that of his birth, which is the popular belief.

Born Patricius Magonus Sucatus 395 A. D., the history of his manhood is one of constant struggle and endeavor in what might have been considered a well nigh hopeless cause. He was born, as he tells us in his "Confessions," among the Britons, and therefore among Latin-speaking people, who had long been converted to Christianity. His father, whom he calls Calphurnius, was a decurion, a landowner and town councilor in the town of Boniven Tabernae, probably on the coast of Wales.

At the early age of 16, the boy Patrick was captured by pirates and sold into slavery in Ireland where he spent several years tending sheep and mastering the Irish language as spoken in that era. After six years, inspired by a dream, he escaped to the east coast and boarded a ship which took him to some port in Gaul, perhaps Bordeaux. From here he treked to northern Italy, and spent the next few years on an island off the coast, near Cannes, in the school of Honoratus, learning to read and write Latin and delving further into religion.

At the close of this period of his life he went to Rome, where he was later made a bishop by Pope Celestine who sent him to Ireland as a missionary, there to erect, if possible, the standard of the Christian religion.

How the Bishop Patrick labored on Erin's Isle to convert her barbarous inhabitants and pagan gods to Christianity is well known, but there is an aspect of his work related to the general culture of Western Europe on which we might lay a greater stress. Following his victory over the Druids, which probably originated the tradition that he drove the serpents from Ireland, Patrick laid the foundations of a movement of scholarship and the making of beautiful books which flowed back through Britain and the continent as far as Italy, influencing the thought and art of the Western nations for centuries.

He had brought with him not only the Latin tongue and textbooks but also another great Roman art, the building of stone houses. The dwellings of the old Druid chiefs had been built of hewn oak, richly painted and fortified with earthworks. The bishop and his followers, receiving permission to travel freely throughout Ireland, built not only small stone churches but also schools, and in these little institutions of learning Latin reading and writing were taught along with the Irish language.

These schools grew and attained renown. The most famous were at Moville, Bangor, Saul, Devenish Island, Monasterboice, Glenalough, Kildare and Durrow. Kildare had the distinction of being one of the earliest schools for the higher education of women. The study of Latin was not confined to religious writings. Terence, Virgil, Ovid and the Augustan poets were also read. Other tongues were added. Cummian of Durrow quotes Origen, Cyril and Pachomius in Greek. Camin commented on the Psalms and recorded Hebrew readings on the margins. Thus the indefatigable efforts of the former slaveboy played a big part in the scholarship and learning of that era.

While Patrick was teaching in Ireland all Western Europe except the Emerald Isle had been overrun by invaders—Angles, Saxons, Lombards, Goths, Vandals and Huns. Learning and classical culture were wiped out. This terrible condition existed until the return of the missions from Ireland, bringing with them something of the learning and culture that had been developed there.

The beloved missionary, St. Patrick, passed away at the ripe old age of 74 in the town of Saball, near Downpatrick. He did not suffer the violent death of a martyr, as some writers would have us believe. He was canonized, not because of a quick death in the throes of exultant enthusiasm, but for the beauties and sacrifices of a long life spent in the interests of his God and fellowmen. The date of his canonization is unknown as it took place within a comparatively short time after his death, and the records of that period are not entirely accurate.

St. Patrick's own record of his work is preserved in his "Book of Confessions," in which he kept a journal of his life, day by day. This record has been copied and translated down through the centuries, although the original has long since been destroyed.

The legend which credits him with banishing all the snakes and reptiles from Ireland may be pure fiction but it is, nonetheless, a fact of natural history, that outside of shows and museums nary a serpent will be found on the Isle o' Green.

His biographer, Joceline, writes of this miracle: "At the approach of Lent, St. Patrick withdrew to a lofty mountain in Mayo, now known as Croagh Patrick, to mediate among its tranquil elevation, above the smoke and stir of heathen Ireland, and to this place he gathered together the several tribes of serpents and venomous creatures and drove them headlong into the Western Ocean and from thence proceeds that exemption which Ireland enjoys, from all poisonous reptiles."

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Mr. Nelson's Test

CONFIDENCE in Mr. Donald Nelson will not be impaired by the resignation of Mr. Robert W. Guthrie from the War Production Board. Everyone will understand that Mr. Nelson has been prodigiously busy with affairs that have been more immediately urgent than those which Mr. Guthrie has been dealing with, and as first things must come first he cannot in two short months be expected to have mastered every activity for which he is responsible.

LIPPMANN

Yet, now that the issue has been raised, Mr. Nelson faces for the first time and in critical form the crucial test of a high executive. It is how well he is able to discern promptly among men to whom he must delegate authority the good men and the inadequate ones. This does not mean that without inquiry he can assume that Mr. Guthrie is the right man and his opponents the wrong men. Mr. Nelson will make the inquiry before the case can be judged. The test of Mr. Nelson, which no doubt he will welcome, is how quickly he gets to the heart of the issue, and how decisively he acts. The way in which he meets the test will have a profound influence not only upon the War Production Board but upon the whole Government.

A STRIKING and important illustration of the problem is to be found in the history of the Sea Otter ships. The idea of these ships was conceived by a naval officer, and in theory at least the idea was like an answer to a prayer. Here was a ship which could be built quickly and in mass production without drawing seriously if at all upon the ordinary shipbuilding capacity of the country. It was designed to present a relatively poor target to the submarine. It was to be operated almost entirely by men with about the same basic training as a good automobile mechanic. This brilliant invention immediately captured the attention and the enthusiasm of the President, of the Secretary of the Navy, and of a group of public-spirited businessmen and ship designers. By order of the President the invention was taken in hand by the Secretary of the Navy who directed that steps be taken to test the idea with models and finally by the construction of a full-sized ship.

So far so good. But when the order had been given and the fanfare of publicity from the Navy Department had resounded all over the world, it turned out that the new invention was in the hands of ordinary shipping men who started with a strong prejudice against this unorthodox vessel. It turned out that the Maritime Commission disliked the ship before it was launched. It turned out that the inventor was not allowed to be present while his ship was being built. It turned out in short that the fate of the new ship had been entrusted to men who did not believe it could succeed. The invention had not been turned over to men, deeply aware of the need for ships, who would move heaven and earth to find ways to make it succeed.

WHEN THE SHIP was tested at sea it developed certain faults—as every new invention, indeed every new design for improving an old invention, invariably does. The ship was not perfect at the first attempt. But it was a ship which could sail the sea and could carry cargo, and could be adapted to carry oil, and might even be adapted to naval use as an escort vessel. But because it was not perfect, the men handling the invention for the Secretary of the Navy promptly came to the conclusion that no serious attempt should be made to perfect it, and the word went out that the Sea Otter was dead.

Outcries in the newspapers, a Senate investigation, and a good deal of pressure of one kind and another, have revived it; the fate of the ship has by order of the President been taken out of the hands of Secretary Knox and the men he had chosen to deal with it. And because the Maritime Commission is emotionally set against the ship, it could not be turned over to Admiral Land. So some other kind of marine agency will have to be set up, outside the Navy Department and outside the Maritime Commission, to explore and develop the full possibilities of this new invention.

IF NOTHING ever came of the Sea Otter, the case would still be extremely important as a striking example of how a high executive, in this instance the President himself, can be defeated by his subordinates down the line. When the President ordered the test of the invention, which was certainly his prerogative and no less his duty, there ought to have been no question that the test would be made with a view to finding a way to make the new idea work successfully. But the matter could not be turned over to the Maritime Commission at all, though that was the agency dealing with cargo ships, because the commission had the same kind of contempt for the new-fangled idea as the old military humanitarians of the other war felt for the original inventor of the tank.

So the ship was given to the Secretary of the Navy, who shared the President's interest in the idea. But unfortunately the Secretary of the Navy knew little about ships and, what is more important, not nearly enough about how to pick men. So he intrusted the invention to men who, to put it mildly, were not feverishly eager to have it succeed. When they told him that the ship had not succeeded in its trials, he accepted their conclusions, thus showing that he had not really known how to choose men or how to judge the work of the men he had chosen. This was a revealing test of the Secretary of the Navy. For after Pearl Harbor the supreme question in regard to the Secretary of the Navy was whether he would know enough about men to choose new men to correct the conditions in the Navy, which absolutely must be corrected.

There is here also the greatest question which the President himself has to face, namely whether in a war ranging all over the oceans, the men immediately below him to whom his authority is delegated, the Secretary of the Navy and the chairman of the Maritime Commission, are really able to pick the best men to build the ships, and sail the ships, and fight the ships. It is painful to have to raise the question. But this is a very painful war, and where everything is at stake, personalities and friendships do not count.

Because the facing of this question cannot be delayed much longer, the example which Mr. Nelson sets in dealing with the Guthrie affair is no very important. To Mr. Nelson has been delegated power over production like that which Col. Knox and Admiral Land exercise over our activity at sea. In the Guthrie affair it will be proved whether or not Mr. Nelson is able to do in his field what Col. Knox has not been able to do in the Navy Department—whether he can find the men to do what he means to do—and put aside the men who cannot or will not do what he means to do.

THIS CAPACITY to deal with men is the inner secret of the good executive. It is not necessary that the good executive should himself know all about everything that he deals with. No man could know all about everything. Admiral Mahan quotes approvingly the biographer of Nelson that he "was no seaman . . . All his energies were turned towards becoming a great commander." Admiral Richmond quotes approvingly one of the biographers of Napoleon who says that "he had no practical experience of handling troops. What he knew he had picked up from study. To the last, even as emperor, he remained inferior to many of his lieutenants in the actual practical formations and evolutions necessary for executing his design. Where he surpassed all was in his vast and profound conceptions . . . his stubborn will and inflexible resolution . . . reflection . . . the extent of his widespread knowledge . . . the fertility of his imagination and his practical common sense . . . the clearness of his thoughts . . . undeviating attention . . . the implacable energy of his will."

The great executives, like great commanders, for example Gen. MacArthur himself, are able to carry out their "vast and profound conceptions" because they are able to find the men, or to make the men, who can carry them out. No one ever conducted a government or won a war single-handed, and the critical point between success and failure, is precisely whether the chief knows how to find the right men and how to make the right men, who in their turn will find or will make the right men all the way down the line.

For in an organization efficiency travels down from the top, as indeed do all other qualities—courage and resolution and sacrifice and high purpose. For that reason it is at the top—with the President and his immediate subordinates in the Cabinet and in the great agencies like the War Production Board—that our struggle for efficiency which is our struggle for survival will be mainly lost or greatly won.

Farm Credit Abuse

By Rufus Snow

Cost Of Socialization

WHILE THE PEOPLE of the United States are being asked by the Treasury to strain every financial nerve to purchase defense bonds and savings stamps, another department of the Government is asking Congress to shift the personal debts and obligations of farmers and their credit institutions to the already overburdened shoulders of the Federal Treasury. In the stress and anxiety of total war H. R. Bill 5326, and companion Senate Bill 1797, sponsored by the governor of the Farm Credit Administration, and the Department of Agriculture, have been overlooked. The declared purpose of those bills is "To provide for the improving of the functioning of the cooperative features of the Federal Land Bank System."

This statement of purpose is as misleading as it is untrue, unless you believe that the system should be used to bring about the communization of American agriculture at the expense of the Federal Treasury. In accordance with the provisions of the bill, the Federal Government would be called upon to assume obligations or pay out in cash more than two billion dollars for the subsidization and subjugation of a financial system which at present at least is self-sustaining. The amount of these obligations will probably be more than the aggregate purchases of defense stamps and savings bonds by small investors, who have been led to believe that their money will be used to supply planes, tanks and guns for our armed forces in the gigantic struggle now ahead of this Nation.

The statement of the other purposes of the bill is equally misleading and uninformative. If any manufacturer or seller of food or drugs should make such misleading statements regarding the character of his products, the offense would be punishable by fine and imprisonment under the Pure Food and Drug Act, which is also administered by the Department of Agriculture.

THE REAL PURPOSE of the proposed legislation is to convert the Federal Land Banks into outright Government agencies operating with public funds, thereby destroying a cooperative farmer-owned mortgage credit system which has been functioning for more than 25 years. The bill, on which hearings are currently being held by the Senate Banking Committee, would in the opinion of the former governor of the Farm Credit Administration, William I. Myers, reduce farm ownership to the point of a "token investment."

Under the existing Farm Loan Act, every National Farm Loan Association is required to indorse and become liable for the payment of every mortgage taken from one of its members. The farmer is in turn required to subscribe to capital stock of the association in an amount equal to 5 per cent of the face amount of his loan. This capital investment together with the earnings of a National Farm Association is available for the payment of its obligations as indorser of the mortgages taken from its members. The effect of the proposed changes would be to wipe out the liability of these Farm Loan Associations on $1,700,000,000 of mortgages, cancel more than 200 million dollars of stock liability and make refunds to former borrowers whose stock had been used to pay the contractual obligations of their associations.

To compensate for this loss, the Government would be required to assume the payment of principal and interest on outstanding Federal Land Bank bonds amounting to $1,784,000,000. These bonds have been sold without a guarantee of either principal or interest and are primary obligations of the 12 Federal Land Banks.

In addition to this sum, which even in these days and times is a staggering amount of money, the capital stock and paid-in surplus of the Federal Land Banks, previously subscribed and paid for by the Federal Government, amounting in the aggregate to more than 200 million dollars, is to be transferred to a "guaranty fund."

FURTHER, the banks would be required to pay the proceeds of all previously retired stock to farmers who have paid their loans in full and who did not receive the amount of their capital investment, due to the fact that the association through which their loan was obtained had defaulted in the payment of its obligations to the Federal Land Bank. The amount of these individual refunds will total several million dollars.

The present requirement that every borrower must subscribe to stock in the amount of 5 per cent of his loan would be dropped. Under the proposed plan any borrower from a Federal Land Bank would be eligible for membership provided he met the requirements of the Governor of Farm Credit Administration, and in addition subscribed to the guaranty fund in an amount equal to 2 per cent of the unpaid principal of his loan. But no person, firm, or corporation may become a member of an association without the approval of the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. It is possible, by reason of this requirement, for the Governor to handpick the members of these so-called cooperatives who in the past have been voted to membership by a board of directors composed of other farmers residing in the locality.

The bill would also guarantee an interest rate of 3½ per cent on 1 billion 700 million dollars of outstanding farm mortgages, regardless of the rates at which they were actually made, until July 1, 1946. The maintenance of this guarantee is, of course, transferred to the Federal Government. In the past, the interest subsidies which have been paid from Federal appropriations to individual farmers in order to reduce their interest to 3% per cent, have amounted to many millions a year. The bill would continue these subsidies in effect until 1946. On and after that date, interest on Federal Land Bank bonds and mortgages would be computed on a basis which, it is fair to say, will never produce the revenues claimed for it by the proponents of the legislation.

ANOTHER SECTION of the bill entailing further inroads on the Federal Treasury provided that if the cost of monies to Federal Land Banks or the Federal Farm Loan Corporation exceeds 2 per cent over the period ending July 1, 1946, the difference will be paid from the Federal Treasury under annual appropriations for the purpose. It is hard to believe that the Federal Land Banks or the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation will be able to sell long term bonds which will yield 2 per cent when savings funds can be purchased yielding from 2½ to nearly 3 per cent.

It is interesting to note that this provision is an indirect means of providing the banks with operating expenses over the next four years. For example: Suppose a bank sells bonds at 4 per cent. Under this bill this money would have to be lent to farmers at 3½ per cent. The contribution from the Federal Treasury on the transaction would be 2 per cent per annum on the principal of every bond sold and the banks would realize an annual profit of 1½ per cent, at the expense of the Federal Treasury.

The farm mortgage indebtedness in the United States has been variously estimated from seven to ten billions. If one-half of the farmers should rush to get one of these new streamlined 1942 model nonpayment nonliability mortgages, the cost of subsidizing the interest rates would be tremendous. Say, for instance, the banks are fortunate enough to sell their bonds at 3 per cent, which they may do with the credit of the Government, the interest subsidy would be 1 per cent. On five billions of mortgages, Uncle Sam would have to pay out 50 million dollars a year. That's a lot of defense bonds and savings stamps, to say nothing of the potential liability of 5 billion dollars for the payment of the bonds themselves.

IN ADDITION, this "Ponzi" scheme of finance is further strengthened by a provision which would permit Federal Land Banks to borrow from the Federal Reserve system on bonds, mortgages, purchase money mortgages, sales contracts, and even sheriff's certificates. These contracts and purchase money mortgages, and sheriff's certificates are known in the mortgage business as "cats and dogs." It would be possible, therefore, for the banks to borrow on these so-called assets from the Federal Reserve Banks, which are authorized to issue a large part of our currency. The final result would be, if the law goes into effect, that a part of the security for Federal Reserve notes would be based on the "cats and dogs" of the farm mortgage business.

The bill virtually invites farmers to petition for scaling down of their indebtedness, thus weakening personal responsibility and destroying the safeguards essential to any sound credit system. To obtain a scale-down or refinancing of indebtedness the farmer need only file an application "in good faith" if he has been delinquent for three years, stating that he is unable to pay the amount of his indebtedness against his farm.

This would seem to mean that no mortgage could be foreclosed that is not delinquent for more than three years. If the committee finds that the application has been made in good faith and that the farmer cannot pay, then the committee certifies to the bank the amount of the mortgage which they believe the farmer could pay from the proceeds of production, or the committee might recommend that the farmer convey his land to the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. When this transfer of title to the corporation is completed, the farmer would become a renter of his own property. In view of the fact that the corporation is wholly owned by the Federal Government, the nominal transfer to the corporation is in fact a transfer of title to the Government itself.

UNDER THE TERMS of the rental agreement, leases would run for a period of five years. At the expiration of the lease the tenant would have the privilege of repurchasing the farm at a value to be fixed by the bank or the corporation less the value of any improvements put on the property by the farmer during the five-year period.

Let us assume the liens of the property amounted to $5000 and that at the expiration of the five-year period oil or a gold mine had been discovered on the property. Such discoveries may have enhanced its value to several hundred thousand dollars. Under the provisions of the bill, the owner could redeem his property for $5000 and resell for a handsome profit. On the other hand, if the value of the property was less than $5000 at the time of the expiration of his lease, the Government would absorb the loss.

It is fair to assume that home owners and those engaged in business throughout the United States would like to have similar privileges, so that they may either take a profit on their real estate holdings or cast the burden of their losses on the Federal Government. If the home owners in urban areas outnumber farmers, isn't it fair to assume that they will demand similar privileges if this law is enacted? And if such legislation is introduced and finally passed, where would you find taxpayers who are not farmers, home owners or businessmen to pay the bill?

THE PERSONAL responsibility of farmers for the payment of their debts would also be done away with, provided their failure to pay had resulted from "no fault of their own." With respect to these deficiency claims, the bill provides that "nothing contained in this section shall be construed as conferring upon any court jurisdiction to review any determination of fact made by the loan bank or corporation in carrying out the directions contained in this section."

In other words, the corporation headed by the government of the Farm Credit Administration would have uncontrolled determination of whether debts should be enforced against an individual farmer and that decision would not be subject to any review by any court.

In final analysis it is possible under the bill for the Federal Government to become the landlord of every farmer in the United States who needs to borrow money. It is possible, also for the governor of the Farm Credit Administration to become a virtual dictator of American agriculture and have the expenses of his dictatorship defrayed by the taxpayers and subscribers to defense and savings bonds.

The proposal should win all prizes for squandering public funds, as well as the all-time championship for "boondoggling."

Wartime Washington

By Merle Pusey

Our Own No Man's Land

A NEW boundary line must be drawn between Virginia and the District of Columbia. That is the significant fact from which all discussion of the future of Arlington County should begin. The question is in no sense academic. On the contrary, it is actively before Congress as the hearings before the House District Committee yesterday indicated. The real issue to be decided is where the new boundary line should be drawn.

PUSEY

If anyone is in doubt as to the necessity of settling the issue, let him ponder over the fact that the National Airport serving this wartime Capital lacks definite arrangements for police and fire protection. Most of the airport is in the District, having been built up from the bottom of the Potomac River. But a small strip is in Virginia, if we accept the retrocession of the Arlington area in 1846 as being constitutional. The important fact is that no one now knows where the line runs, and if it could be traced, part of the airport would be on one side and part on the other. Such division of the airport would be no improvement upon its present existence as a no man's land.

Of course, the airport management tries to maintain law and order through its guards. But these Federal guards are not policemen. They have no powers of arrest. Not long ago a man was stabbed at the airport and the perpetrator of that crime went scot free because there was no officer to arrest him or prosecutor to lay the case before a court. Should fire break out at the airport, no doubt either the District or Arlington County fire fighters would respond. Still the fact remains that neither recognizes the definite obligation of protecting this no man's land from conflagrations.

THIS CONFUSED and dangerous situation is further complicated by double taxation in the area. By some curious line of reasoning both the District and Virginia have refused to accept the obligations of sovereignty over the airport, but at the same time they are both attempting to collect revenue from it. Both collect gasoline taxes from the transport companies operating there, although all of the District tax and part of the Virginia tax are refunded. The District has granted licenses there for a restaurant and barbershop, but they are taxed by Virginia. Beer sold on the premises is taxed by both jurisdictions. Cabs in that area operate under supervision of the District Public Utilities Commission.

This chaotic division of powers must, of course, be ended. In other words, a new line between Virginia and the District must be drawn. The real question is where the new line should be placed. Virginia proposes that it be drawn so as to include within that State not only the Washington National Airport but also all other land that may be built up from the shallow water of the Potomac on its southern shore. The blunt fact is that Virginia is requesting the privilege of cutting a slice off this overcrowded Federal District at a moment when it desperately needs room for expansion on the south side of the Potomac.

It is amazing to find the District Commissioners and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission giving assent to this proposal. Presumably they are so eager to get a boundary of some sort that they are willing to accept the blunder of 1846 and go a little farther in the same direction. Actually, the Virginia portion of the District was relinquished by Congress at a time when little minds eager to minimize everything national were in control of the Government. Today there seems to be no ground whatever for further projection of that short-sighted policy. Indeed, the attitude of the Commissioners and Mr. Delano is undercut by President Roosevelt's letter to Representative Nichols, in which he favors keeping the airport in the District.

THE PRESSING NEED for settlement of the issue must be clearly recognized, but certainly that would not justify a settlement so thoroughly to the disadvantage of the Federal Government as acceptance of the Virginia proposal would be. The fact is that the section of Arlington County just across the river from Georgetown, the Lincoln Memorial and Potomac Park is an integral part of Washington. How could Congress reasonably agree to draw a boundary line that would forever exclude from the Capital City its own National Airport, the new home of the War Department, Arlington Memorial Cemetery, the Palisades of the Potomac, the southern leg of the George Washington Memorial Highway and the gateway to Washington from the South?

The real drive behind Virginia's attempt to take a slice off the District seems to be directed by the drys who are attempting to prevent the sale of liquor at the airport. In support of Virginia's case before the House subcommittee which conducted hearings on this subject yesterday, Congressman Smith, who represents Arlington County in the House, brought the liquor issue out into the open. What a farce it would be if a part of the National Capital should be ceded to Virginia to prevent the sale of hard liquor there!

THIS IS not a minor issue to be fought out by wets and dries. The future of the Nation's Capital is at stake. Should Congress consent to drawing the new boundary at the water's edge on the Virginia side of the river, it would forever lose the opportunity of controlling that important part of Washington which has been built, is being built and will be built in what is now Arlington County.

The practical step is to ignore the Virginia bill and ask the Legislature at Richmond to return this lost province to its place as part of the Capital. If Congress makes the request with the full support of the Administration, it is not to be supposed that Virginia will resist it. After all, the constitutionality of the retrocession is open to grave doubt. And the need of the Federal Government for this additional space to accommodate its expending headquarters is no longer open to question.

To be sure, such a move would require modernization of the District government and extension of the principles of the Atlantic Charter to our own Capital. But that must come anyway. Since a new boundary line must be drawn, the drawing should be guided by the requirements of the Capital now and many decades hence and not by the blindness of the past or by any petty squabbles which at present tend to divert attention from the real issue.

Showdown Near In C.I.O.

Murray, Lewis Split

By Marben Graham

Associated Press Staff Writer

PITTSBURGH, March 16.—Hometown friends and associates of Phil Murray said today the breach between the C. I. O. president and John L. Lewis has so widened that an open showdown between the two seems imminent.

Some of Murray's closest friends said they are convinced Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, has been moving some time to have that union desert the C. I. O. and become the nucleus of a third labor movement.

These sources declare Lewis has been quietly tightening his reins over his union with the idea of forcing Murray out of his $10,000-a-year job as its vice president. That is the only salary Murray draws, although he is president of the C. I. O. and of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

FOR MORE than a year, an undercover struggle has strained the decades-long relationship of the bulldog-like Lewis and the more diplomatic Scotsman, Murray's friends said.

One public act last week, they asserted, seemed to help bring the situation to a head.

Lewis appointed a commission of five to supersede the regular officers of the West Virginia district of the U. M. W. The commission is to investigate charges the officers permitted violations of the union's contracts, particularly by slowness in collecting back fines imposed for idleness in commercial mines during the "captive" steel mines strike last year.

"IT WAS just another move by Lewis to strengthen his grip on the U. M. W." commented one high union source. "He is weeding out those friendly to C. I. O. Right now he doesn't dare come into the open and try to oust Phil as vice president even though he dominates the union's executive board. But I don't doubt he will try to get a new vice president at next fall's convention."

The name of John J. O'Leary, board member from District 5 which once was headed by Murray, is being mentioned most often as Lewis' favorite to succeed Murray as vice president. Another name mentioned is that of Percy Tetlow, chairman of the West Virginia investigating committee.

Murray two weeks ago laid his position squarely before the board of District 5 and received a full vote of confidence. O'Leary did not attend that meeting.

MURRAY'S FRIENDS said he and Lewis engaged in a sharp verbal exchange recently in the lobby of the United Mine Workers Building in Washington. The clash, they said, stemmed from Lewis' proposal for a "unity" meeting between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. Some of Murray's associates believed the suggestion was made to embarrass him.

Murray curtly rejected the suggestion, terming it a "Pearl Harbor" attack. When he and Lewis met in the lobby, Lewis was quoted as asking his former henchman what he meant by "calling me a Jap." Murray was quoted as replying that Lewis and his family owed him an apology for their "undercover campaign" against him. Kathryn Lewis, daughter of John L., is secretary-treasurer of U. M. W. District 50, which recently was reported dismissing organizers favorable to C. I. O.

Marines Seeking Radio Experts

The Marine Corps yesterday opened enlistments to qualified radio specialists and announced it was seeking a number of qualified engineers for special aircraft warning duty as commissioned officers.

The radio specialists, who must be between 17 and 25, are required to have either an operator's license or at least three months' experience in radio repair or service. After training they will be assigned to air raid warning and maintenance work. Those who fail to complete their radio school work will be assigned to line duty in the corps.

Physical requirements for the engineers sought by the Marine Corps are less rigid than for general line duty. Men holding a bachelor's degree in electrical communication or radio engineering are preferred, and those selected will be trained in aircraft warning equipment at one of the service schools.

Guffey Accuses Biddle of Plot To Control Democrats in Pa.

By the Associated Press

Harrisburg, Pa., March 16.—U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey declared today that Attorney General Francis A. Biddle was the "ringleader" of "a clever scheme by a small coterie of silk-stocking quasi-Democrats and self-styled 'practical liberals' to obtain control" of the Democratic Party in Pennsylvania.

Guffey is backing Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Pittsburgh, in a wide-open fight for the Democratic nomination for Governor at the May primary.

Lined up against Smith is Luther A. Harr, consumers' counsel of the Bituminous Coal Division, who is supported by Democratic State Chairman Meredith Myers; Auditor General F. Clair Ross, who has been indorsed by the State Democratic Committee, and William N. McNair, former Mayor of Pittsburgh.

Guffey declared in a statement that Bidle, a Philadelphian, wants to be "the Democratic Party's boss," and that the move for party control was camouflaged under a "cry for harmony."

For some weeks, the Senator added, stories have emanated from Washington and Philadelphia that President Roosevelt had a choice for the Democratic nomination for Governor in Pennsylvania. He recalled that the President last week denied he was taking a hand in the Pennsylvania primary campaign.

"He (Biddle) it is who has been responsible for the rumor that the President has a candidate for Governor," Guffey said. "He it is who has been calling up and talking to State party leaders demanding that they walk out on the man they are supporting for Governor and intimating that he was acting as an emissary of the White House."

Time Has Come To Attack, Says Australian Envoy

R. G. Casey, Australian Minister to the United States, declared yesterday that the time has come for the United Nations to attack the enemy in order to defend Australia.

Casey said the powers battling the Axis in the Pacific should "meet and hit the enemy wherever he is to be found, and as opportunity offers turn this defensive attack into counter-attack and counter-attack into offensive."

The Minister's address was broadcast to Salvation Army workers in Philadelphia.

The fight for Australia, Casey said, "may well be the last chance that the United Nations have of making a stand—and a comeback—in the western Pacific."

Australia is mobilized for total war, he asserted, and is dedicated to a scorched earth policy if Japanese forces succeed in landing on the mainland.

THIS RAFT, improvised of brush and a tarpaulin, is used to ferry cable across the river

Tank Destroyers' Gun Ferry

By way of learning to overcome obstacles with the means at hand, the 629th Tank Destroyer Battalion yesterday took its guns and their crews across the Little Patuxent River at Fort George G. Meade, Md., without one item of special equipment.

Hidden in the deep wood behind the river, the crews waited with their guns and trucks while riflemen and machine gunners built a raft of brush wrapped in tarpaulin and ferried themselves across. These security patrols across, heavy rope was ferried over on the improvised raft and lashed round the trunks of two trees, well above the ground.

On the near side of the river, two other trees were prepared in the same fashion and, when blocks were hung in the rope slings, two trucks drove up and towing cable was unwound from their winches, threaded through the blocks and ferried over to the other side.

Cable ferries were then improvised from a couple of other blocks and the transportation of guns and men began. While a gun was lashed to one traveling block, its crew stepped into slings fastened to the other. Then the trucks took up the slack in their cables and men and guns rolled downhill to the other side. There its crew seized it and rolled it into action to hold off enemy tanks until the engineers can build a bridge and get the trucks and other heavy gear over.

The operation yesterday was watched by Lieut. Col. E. E. DeMuth, commanding the 629th, and Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commanding the Twenty-ninth Infantry Division, from which the tank destroyer battalion was formed last summer.

THE ANTITANK GUN, once across the river, is seized by its crew and rushed up the bank into action

Mrs. Royal E. Ingersoll Gives Sugarless Luncheon

ST. PATRICK'S DAY this year takes on new import when planning menus in keeping with the wearing o' the green. Since sugar is becoming such a priceless item, it is well to start in advance of the actual rationing day to see how easily parties may be given without menus being unenhanced.

I have learned about the St. Patrick's Day luncheon of one popular Washington hostess. Mrs. Royal E. Ingersoll, wife of Vice Admiral E. Ingersoll, in charge of the Atlantic Fleet, heralds spring in her menu which is as gay as smiling Irish eyes, yet doesn't copy a great amount of sugar from the sugar bin to make it flavorsome and attractive. Here is Mrs. Ingersoll's menu:

St. Patrick's Day Luncheon Menu

Cream of Spinach Soup
Bread Sticks Green Olives
Fish Mousse with Stuffed Tomatoes
Lamb Chops Mint Jelly
Green Buttered Peas
Avocado-Grapefruit Salad
Honey French Dressing
Shamrock Rolls
Whipped Lime Gelatin with Macedoine of Fresh Fruit
Coffee

The Honey French Dressing is one that is especially appropriate since it does not have sugar content. The recipe follows:

Honey French Dressing

Mix together thoroughly, ⅓ cup white honey, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon grated horseradish, ½ teaspoon celery seed, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons catsup. Next mix together ¼ cup vinegar, 1 cup salad oil, 1 clove garlic chopped and 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Mix the latter mixture with the first one and beat thoroughly with an electric mixer if possible, otherwise mix thoroughly with beater.

Mrs. Ingersoll uses fresh strawberries, fresh pineapple and green grapes in making the macedoine of fruit. Cut the fresh fruits into a bowl and add a bit of Kirsch or any liqueur.

New Blackout Pad Affords Raid Protection

By Elizabeth MacRae Bovkin

BLACKOUT barricade! That's the double feature of a very protective device developed for civilian defense—a new splinter-proof blackout pad. Not only does the pad completely shield inside lights from outside view, but it gives protection frof flying glass to those within the room.

This safety feature has won the approval of many Government and military executives, who know that about 80 per cent of air-raid injuries come from blast-blown glass. It looks something like a quilted comfortable in thickness and construction, being black on the window side, but white on the room side, so that when not in use it does not plunge the room into mourning, but cheerfully reflects light. Incidentally, the black dye has also been tested and approvad for color fastness, so that even if the pad should be rained on when the window is open, the color will not run.

Window draperies and curtains need not be permanently disrupted to use this pad—it has loops of material attached across the top of the pad and at the bottom corners so that, when in place, the pad fits snugly over the entire window area. With the pad comes special light gray pegs which are almost invisible. These are driven into the wall and left there "for the duration." Once the pegs are in position, the pad can be hung by its loops in less than two minutes. When not in use, it can be rolled up like a beach pad, and stored in a convenient closet. It is available in three sizes and is inexpensive . . . less than $3 for the average window size and under $5 for the largest.

Try Waltzing by Home Diagrams

"HE'S WALTZED with her all evening." That's lovely gossip any girl would like said of her. Yet the perfect dancing that makes an instant hit can be learned by anyone—at home!

You can really "walk" into it, says Lawrence Hostetler, noted dancing teacher. In fact that's the way to begin, with a dance-walk that gets your body properly poised under control. Then, with footprint diagrams you easily teach yourself popular steps.

Start your "dance-walk" with head back, chin in, hips well under body and weight on balls of feet. Move legs from hips, let fet skim the floor.

Doing this to 1-2-3 waltz time soon has you really waltzing. You then lightly glide into such smart steps as the Double Hesitation Point.

Old-Fashioned Enough to Think Happy Marriage Depends Upon Stable Home Life, Parents Disapprove Man's Intent to Wed Before Enlisting in Air Corps

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My wife and I have a problem on which we would greatly appreciate your advice. It relates to our son, Tom, who is now completing work on a Ph. D. degree in psychology in a large university. Last summer he met Jane. They fell deeply in love at sight and within two weeks were engaged to be married. She is a teacher, and wants to be married during her forthcoming Easter vacation.

So, their plan is for Tom to finish preparation of his thesis before April 12, the date set for the wedding; and for them to spend a week honeymooning in the Smokies, after which he will return for his final exams and then enlist in the Air Corps,—where he hopes to get an appointment as assistant psychologist, since psychologist friends of his with similar training have such positions. Otherwise, he probably will be drafted about May 1.

We are old fashioned enough to feel that Tom and Jane should wait until they can establish a home together before getting married, and are urging them to postpone the wedding. However, I shall not enlarge upon the reasons why we believe this would be wise, from the standpoint of their future happiness. We would rather have your frank opinion. Sincerely, CONSERVATIVE PARENTS.

Elders Are Opposing Sense With Emotion

DEAR C. P.: It is my frank opinion that you are not at all justified in trying to throw a money wrench into this young couple's wedding plans. I believe they are taking the sensible, and you the emotional, view of the situation. The nature of the study in which your son has specialized suggests that he has an introspective temperament: a thoughtful, analytical, deliberative type of mind; and that he could see, rather better than the average person, the possibilities implicit in alternative courses of action.

The fact that he is academically advanced to the point where he is about to receive his doctor's degree implies, too, that he is definitely adult, by calendar reckoning;—say, perhaps 25 years of age, at least. And the further fact that his fiancee is working in the academic field indicates that the instantaneous mutual attraction was (and is) based as much on a "meeting of minds," as upon physical magnetism or "romantic appeal." In other words, here are two adults of substantial character and background, both intelligent and well educated, who habe been deeply in love for almost a year and who seem almost providentially designed to complement each other in marriage.

So, they are proceeding with plans to be married—and you consider these plans unwise, solely because of the unsettled condition of the times. Yet, for them, marriage is to be recommended as the most stabilizing influence that could be brought to bear upon their respective lives, in view of their deep feeling for each other and the unpredictable future they are facing.

Since you are thinking in terms of your son's happiness, it should console you to know that marriage to the woman he loves is perhaps the greatest asset and protection,—of a psychic kind,—that a young man can take with him into the Army. Feeling secure on the emotional side of his life, he tends to be not only a better soldier,—more apt to run up a distinguished record for himself;—but a better man, because clothed in the strongest incentives to withstand physically and morally polluting influences.

It is not as though your son would be marrying a girl who has had no experience at being fully self-supporting; who has no means of knowing whether she could stand on her own feet, in emergency; and who would be simply transferring the burden of her dependency from parents to bridegroom in becoming a wife, at this time. On the contrary, he is casting his lot with a woman of extraordinary social competence—as witness the aura of sacrosanct dignity and leisurely grace she is contriving to bring to their wartime wedding, by planning it for the Easter season, when they can salvage a maximum amount of time from their separate responsibilities to launch their life together.

Yet, were the total picture not so encouragingly reflective of their praiseworthy disposition and sturdy ability to build something worthwhile on the basis of personal resourcefulness, in the temporary absence of external social guarantees, I still should feel that, as adults, they had the right to plan their marriage with single reference to their mutual desires and aspirations; and that their parents would be imprudently interfering, in trying to dictate another course of action to them. Belts Have New Style Acclaim

The new spring fashions highlight the waistline. This will make belts one of the season's most important accessories. The dirndl with its small, pulled-in waist demands a belt. The whole trick in the new chemise dress is its belt. The revival of the two-piece dress has that young belted look.

Many of spring's lovely, simple dresses have made the belt the most important accessory. One house, a leader in fahsion, is featuring flower-painted belts, making a very close tie-up with footwear, gloves and handbags. Very wide belts will be in your stocks. These are shaped to fit the waistline with fullness in the dress above and below the belt.

Spring Suits Will Require A Slim Waist

By Ida Jean Kain

THERE is nothing that brings out the dumpiness in a woman's figure like a waist and skirt. You catch a glimpse of your silhouette and think, "What goes on here!"

Since, by all the signs, it will be a suit spring, you had better take your waistline measure and start trimming now. According to the surveys the average woman's waist measures two and one-half inches too much. Losing weight on your diet will take care of some of that bulge, the rest takes exercise.

POSITION: Lying on the back on floor, knees flexed and feet on floor close to hips, arms stretched up on floor overhead. Pull slim through the middle and press small of back down against floor.

MOVEMENT: Keeping shoulders and back on floor, twist at the waist and touch thighs to floor first on one side, then the other. Move thighs as a unit and point the knees down hard. Done correctly, this exercise not only gets at the waistline muscles but tones the abdominal girdle.

POSITION: Sitting on floor, legs straight and spread wide apart, arms straight out at sides from shoulders.

MOVEMENT: Spin at the waist and touch left hand to right toes. Then spin in other direction and touch right hand to left toes. Try to keep your back straight and your middle pulled slim. The value of this exercise is in the fact that the hips are anchored and the twist centered smack at the waist.

POSITION: Stand on the knees, knees apart, and arms straight out at sides shoulder level.

MOVEMENT: Holding the body perfectly in line—abdominal muscles in front pulled up, hips in back pulled down and under, waist slim, arms out at sides—bend sideward until you touch the fingers to the floor. You give yourself quite a stretch. But if you let your hips jut out, you might as well be playing bridge for all the good it does your waist. Back to position and bend to other side.

Pencil Silhouette

Simple Rules Will Reduce Food Costs

SOME years ago a famous English mustard manufacturer stated that he had made his fortune not on the mustard people ate, but on the mustard they wasted. And this is no doubt true of such items as coffee, tea, soap flakes and cleansing powder. We brew a pot of tea and use so much we have to dilute it with hot water; we waste enough soap in a year to do the laundry for the Army and Navy. So ask yourself a few pertinent questions and rate yourself as a wartime housewife. At Revere's experimental kitchen the following questions were compiled as a guide to thriftiness:

Guide to Thriftiness

1. Do you telephone your daily order to the butcher or grocer? Unless you shop personally, checking weights and inspecting fresh foods, you are not getting the best value for your money.

2 Do you inspect your icebox every morning before planning the day's menu, with an eye to utilizing every left-over? That bit of beef stew with the addition of a fresh kidney would make a delicious low-cost beef and kidney pie, you know. Or do you just go ahead and order fresh meat for dinner?

3. Do you throw away the outer green lettuce leaves or celery stalks? You are wasting food and minerals, for they should be used in soups, sauces or gravy.

4. Do you heat a teakettle full of water and then use about half of it?

5. Do you immediately lower the heat as soon as things have come to a boil? If you don't you're wasting fuel.

6. Do you waste food by letting it stick or burn? This is something you have to watch very carefully, especially if you have copper-clad stainless steel kitchen ware. Copper bottoms heat much more quickly than other metals and you never need more than a low or medium flame. So blame yourself for wasting heat, not the pots and pans.

7. Do you pay an additional price just because you like the looks of white eggs better than brown? There's absolutely no difference in taste or food value, you know.

Nicaraguan Minister and Senora de DeBayle Entertain for Dr. Arguello Vargas

From its usual high-gear round of weekend parties, Washington's official and diplomatic contingent yesterday emerged into a Monday that, in contrast to most, boasted one of the largest and liveliest receptions of the season.

Like all big fetes in this wartime city, the event definitely was a party-with-a-purpose . . . and the "purpose" was none other than a gilt-edged compliment to Dr. Mariano Arguello Vargas, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Nicaragua. Hosts were the Minister of Nicaragua and Senora de DeBayle, and the Mayflower's Chinese Room, with the adjoining parlor, was the scene of the function that drew Latins in droves, along with a sizable number of other officials and diplomats.

Senora de DeBayle

In town for a brief stay, Dr. Arguello will be here for several days more. His daughter, pretty Rosita Arguello hopes something will happen to extend their stay. "I like this town," she said, with a winning smile. And you can bet your bottom dollar that, after yesterday, several hundred members of Washington society—everybody, in fact, who had a chance to meet her—can return the compliment.

The receiving line formed a colorful fringe for one side of the Chinese Room. Tall vases sprouted gay bouquets on the low tables standing at tasteful intervals here and there, and matching bouquets were in a triple arrangement on the long table that groaned and sagged beneath as lavish an outlay of teatime dainties as I've seen this year. Many a guest who dropped in for a cocktail lingered around to have his dinner before the party was finished.

Typical Washington party greetings made up most of the teatable chatter. "How are you?" . . . "So nice to see you again" . . . "By the way, could you tell me who that is, across the way, with the huge hat, and a bunch of gardenias on her shoulder?" That's the type of talk you heard if you paused to listen while you made the rounds. Now and then somebody touched on income taxes and politics; and, in passing, I heard one thickly plushed dowager decry the fact that she simply didn't know any of these newcomers that were "making a madhouse of Washington."

Wreathed in smiles was every person in the long receiving line—from the beginning of the party, until it drew to a close half an hour after the final time set for it. There was Minister DeBayle, a dapper figure in striped trousers and a cutaway, bowing low and speaking a few welcoming words by way of greeting. Next in line was Dr. Arguello, whose eyes twinkled merrily as he said his how-do-you-dos.

Minister of Nicaragua

Senora de DeBayle, who for my money could pass as one of the better-dressed women in any crowd, looked very much the fashion model yesterday in a pea-green crepe frock, fashioned with a beaded jacket and accented with a shoulder-corsage of orchids. Senorita Argeullo had chosen a taffeta frock, style with a black-fitted bodice and a billowing skirt, which featured diagonal bands of blue and purple. Also standing in the receiving line were Senor Sanchez, president of the Bank of Nicaragua, and Senora de Sanchez, who accompanied Dr. Arguello and his daughter to Washington.

Who was there? Well, if you want to know, really—you might get out your diplomatic book and go down the list of Latin-American embassies and legations. All the Ambassadors and Ministers from that contingent seemed to be on hand—from the Peruvian Ambassador, Manuel Freye y Santander, who looks frailer every time I see him, to a couple of very new envoys whose names I haven't quite got straight yet.

"You're trying to send me back to Brazil," said engaging Ambassador Carlos Martins, when I greeted him. He was referring to my report of a rumor that he will retire from the Washington scene within the next four months. I told him I hoped the report, though widely circulated, was all wrong; and that, like scores of other persons here, I was all for keeping him and his enchanting Maria around as long as possible.

Many Notables Seen in Throng

Arriving with the Ambassador and Mme. Martins was the latter's daughter, Mme. Lucia Fonseca, who recently arrived here from Rio for an extended stay, and was busily engaged yesterday in making friends right and left. She has the same charming smile that has endeared her mother to Washington, and the same twinkle in her great brown eyes—a twinkle, incidentally, that assures you she is one of those rare persons who don't take themselves too seriously. Mme. Martins, incidentally, was inviting friends in for a cocktail party tomorrow afternoon in honor of her daughter and Prince Dom Pedro Branganca, who is back in town once more.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace was among those arriving during the first half of yesterday's party. The Laurence Duggans and the Phillip Bonsals were there from the State Department group, as were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke. Latin-American envoys were all over the place, and several European diplomats were scattered through the throng. I saw the Minister of Luxembourg and Mme. Le Gallais, Mme. Hurban and Mme. Fotich—to mention but a few.

Reflections in a champagne glass: The Mexican Ambassador making his way through the throng, stopping en route to chat with Cuban Ambassador Concheso and the Peruvian envoy . . . Mrs. William S. Culbertson coming in with Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, and the two joining Mr. Culbertson a few minutes later . . . Pretty blond Jane Culbertson also among those present, also Senorita Cristina Michels, Senorita Patria Mencia, and a fascinating woman from Costa Rica (I never did get her name) who had a wide-brimmed breton sailor, set off with a wimple. "Isn't she attractive?" I asked the Portuguese

Louisa Popham Is Bride-Elect

Of wide interest in Washington was the announcement recently made by Capt. and Mrs. William Sherbrooke Popham of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louisa Cheves Popham, to Lieut. William Gaston Raoul, of Fort Sill, Okla.

Now residing in Charleston, S. C., where her father is stationed, Miss Popham and her parents formerly made their home in Washington and she made her bow to society here in 1937. She attended St. Catherine's School in Richmond, Va., and Scripps College in California. She is a member of the Junior League.

Lieut. Raoul was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1933 and is now on the staff of the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill. The wedding will take place in May.

China Embassy Is Scene of Pleasant Fete

Entertaining in the Chinese Embassy on Woodley Road yesterday afternoon, Mme. Yu, wife of the Second Secretary of the Embassy, was hostess at a 4 to 6 o'clock gathering.

A large part of the conversation had to do with plans for the Spring benefit of the Chinese Women's Club, which is scheduled to go on the boards in several weeks. Mme. Yu, wearing a picturesque Chinese gown of pastel print, was assisted in receiving by the ladies of the Embassy. Her sister, Miss Augusta Chang, an attache, poured tea at the table which was centered with a low bouquet of spring flowers and loaded with oriental delicacies.

Also assisting were Mme. Liu, wife of the Counselor of the Embassy; Mme. Chu, wife of Maj. Gen. Chu, the Military Attache of the Embassy, and Mme. Dezon Sze.

Mrs. Stanley K. Hornbeck and Mrs. Mason Gulick reviewed the success of the last Chinese benefit of Mrs. Anne Archbold, and exchanged suggestions for the coming one. Center of attention during the latter part of the party was the hostess' young son, aged one and a half, who was the only man in the gathering, and enjoying such popularity as would be the envy of any Washington bachelor. His father, Kien-wen Yu, is now in Trinidad en route back from Chungking, where he has been since last summer, and is expected here shortly.

Mrs. Robert Sherrod told Mrs. Bruce Smith that she had just received a cable from her husband in Australia. The message read "Safe, well, love." Others in the gathering were Miss Pauletta Guffey; Senora de Scilingo, wife of the First Secretary of the Argentine Embassy, who came in with Senora de Pardo; Mrs. J. R. Jordaan, Mrs. Walter Wyatt, who had with her Miss Frances Shillinger, of New York; Mrs. Barnet Nover and many more.

Wartime Pares Annual Fetes From White House Calendar

By Carolyn Bell

Spring and war just don't mix. With the official arrival of the crocus only four days off, Mrs. Roosevelt has announced that there will be no egg rolling at the White House this year . . . no garden parties on the lush South lawn . . . and the Secret Service ruled the annual White House reception for the D. A. R.'s out.

With the cherry blossoms in ill repute and the Daughters of the American Revolution off to Chicago, it looks as if the Nation's Capital will have to stick to this grisly business of war. Even the White House greenhouses, where for 40 years William Reeves has plotted artistic bouquets for the Executive Mansion, will soon be razed. And from now on the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will have to depend on cut flowers from the various beds surrounding the house on 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. However, the famous Easter lilies that usually adorn the Red Room, state dining room or foyer during the Easter season will be in their accustomed place—for the last time.

A road, it seems, will replace the famed greenhouses situated in the rear of the Bureau of Engraving. Some of the more valuable plants, such as the potted trees that often decorate the foyer and portico, will be placed in other greenhouses, it is hoped. A few of the gardeners will be kept on at the White House to attend the grounds and others will go with the Park Service.

Today Mrs. Roosevelt will entertain several of the Cabinet ladies at luncheon and tonight she will attend the conference. Yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt went to Annapolis, where she was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. John R. Beardall, wife of the Commandant of the Naval Academy, preceding a talk she gave before the Naval Academy Women's Club. Tomorrow she will go to New York, where, at the Y. W. C. A., she will receive several Chinese scrolls.

On Thursday Mrs. Roosevelt will leave for the West on a "purely personal" trip. She plans to go first to San Diego, Calif., to see her son, and to Seattle to see her daughter.

Dr. Harwig Weds Miss von Doenhoff In Evening Rites

St. John's Episcopal Church in Hampton, Va., last evening was the scene of a wedding ceremony at which Miss Helen Aldrich von Doenhoff became the bride of Dr. Goetz Harwig. The Rev. Carter H. Harrison officiated.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Albert von Doenhoff and the late Mr. von Doenhoff, was given in marriage by her grandfather, Judge A. A. Aldrich, of Crockett, Texas. Her gown of white net was trimmed with lace and she carried a prayerbook with gardenias. A coronet of pearlized orange blossoms held her fingertip veil.

Matron of honor was Mrs. A. E. von Doenhoff and Herman Pieck of Green Meadows, N. Y., was best man. Robert von Doenhoff, of Crockett, Tex., and Carl von Doenhoff, of Niagara Falls, were ushers. Following the wedding, there was a reception at the Colony Inn.

Mrs. Harwig, who is widely known in Washington, has been a member of the faculty at Francis Asbury School in Fox Hill, Va. She received her master's degree at Columbia University. Dr. Harwig who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Harwig, of Danbury, Conn., received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Basle, Switzerland. He and his bride will make their home in Danbury.

Mrs. Alger, On Brief Visit, Feted Twice

With no more than an overnight stop in Washington, Mrs. Frederick Alger had a chance to greet old friends here who were rallied round to cheer her up at two small parties—a cocktail fete yesterday afternoon and a "family" dinner last night.

Coming from the West Coast where she said goodby to her husband, who is now with the Navy somewhere in the Pacific, Mrs. Alger arrived here yesterday and will continue her travels today with Palm Beach for her destination.

The daughter of Representative and Mrs. Charles Dewey, she made her debut here while her father was Undersecretary of the Treasury, and she has a number of friends here still. During the afternoon hours Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Boyer invited a few of them to their apartment at 2100 Connecticut Avenue.

Later the Deweys gave a dinner for their daughter, "just a family dinner, really," and had among their guests the Boyers and Lieut. (j. g.) Dagett Harvey and Mrs. Harvey, who hail from the Dewey home town, Chicago. They are living in Washington for a few weeks while Lieut. Harvey, who is on duty with the Navy, attends some special classes.

Mrs. Blaisdell Honors Visitor At Luncheon

In her home on Connecticut Avenue yesterday Mrs. Donald Blaisdell entertained at a small luncheon in honor of Mrs. Harold N. Rogers, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Mrs. Rogers is spending a week here with her sister, Mrs. Robert F. Leonard, in her Kenwood home. Yesterday's party numbered eight, and Mrs. Blaisdell's other guests were Mrs. Harold Krogh, Miss Minnie Mae Fleming, Mrs. Edmund Pendleton, Mrs. Alger Hiss and Mrs. Harold Stein.

Miss Brenneman Arriving Tomorrow For Spring Vacation

The arrival of their younger daughter for spring vacation from studies is being eagerly awaited by Mr. and Mrs. David Emery Brenneman. Since last weekend they have had with them another daughter, Miss Marjorie Brenneman, who was guest of honor at a small luncheon given by her mother shortly after she arrived.

Tomorrow's addition to the household will be Miss Verna Brenneman, who is attending The Masters School at Dobbs Ferry. She will return to her studies after her vacation, but Miss Marjorie Brenneman plans to spend her time in some sort of war work here. She made her debut in New York last year at the family home there.

Mrs. Brenneman accompanied her husband here from New York when he took a position with the War Production Board. Recently they moved into a house on Thirty-sixth Street.

Minister. Apparently, he hadn't taken notice of her up to that point; for he glanced in her direction briefly and then smilingly made his pronouncement. "She looks like a Portuguese fishwife," he said, "bearing her basket on her head." I must say that was exactly what she did look like.

Mme. Bianchi, meanwhile, was standing nearby in one of the smartest spring outfits I've seen. A high-crowned, narrow-brimmed black hat, and a postillion coat, trim and black. Who else was there? Well, if you'd like a few more names—I saw Mr. and Mrs. Burks Summers, the M. Robert Guggenheims, Dr. and Mrs. Nelson Darton, Mrs. Charles L. McNary, Senator and Mrs. Denis Chavez, Warren Lee Pierson, and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, who said she had come "straight from the office."

Ambassador Boal

Pleasant Party on Weekend Calendar

Mention of Mrs. Robbins reminds me of one of the most pleasant cocktail parties I attended over the past weekend. One of a series she is giving in her new home on Woodland Drive—called "the biggest little house in Washington" because it has large rooms but very few of them—the event drew a small gathering from 5 to 7 p. m. Saturday . . . Everybody who came in wanted to make a tour of the house and Mrs. Robbins found the easiest methods of procedure was to greet her guests and then start them directly on a trip that finally ended up in the handsomely furnished drawing room . . . One look at the attractive layout would be proof enough that the woman who plans the decorations for United States embassies and legations knows her business—oh definitely, and delightfully.

Among those present were Pierre de L. Boal, newly appointed United States Envoy to Bolivia, who formerly served as our Minister to Nicaragua and recently returned from there. Mrs. Boal and their daughter, Mathilde, are still in Managua and will remain there until Mr. Boal takes over duties in his new post early next month. Wearing his new uniform was Lieut. Comdr. Carroll Morgan, U. S. N., who said he had just received it that morning. Accompanying him was Mrs. Morgan and they came in shortly before Capt. and Mrs. Cortlandt Parker arrived. Still others there were the "Hutch" Robbinses; Julian F. Harrington, who will be off soon to join the staff of our embassy in Madrid; Mrs. Harrington, who plans to stay on in Washington for the duration; Mr. and Mrs. Monnette Davis, of the State Department; Mrs. Loring Christie, and Mrs. Armistead Peter, who said that she and her husband had recently moved from the Shoreham to the Sherman Miles house on N Street.

Society-go-round: "Why, there goes Mrs. Jock Whitney!" someone at the 1925 F Street Club exclaimed at luncheon time yesterday when the attractive woman Washington society used to know as "Betsey Roosevelt" came into the dining room with a couple of guests . . . The Whitneys returned to Washington yesterday morning after a honeymoon trip to the South. They are making their home at "the Cary Grayson house" on Wisconsin Avenue . . . In another luncheon group at the F Street Club yesterday were the former Rumanian Minister, Charles Davila, who had as his guests, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mme. Fotich, and Harold Hoskins of the State Department; while Donna Julia Brambilla was hostess at still another small luncheon party.

Boys Join Homemakers' Unit of D.A.R.

HERETOFORE, the Homemaker groups, a project sponsored by the State committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, had only girl members. This year, however, the groups boast a few boy members, according to a report made by Mrs. Ruth M. Franklin, State chairman of the Girl Homemakers of the District.

Yesterday afternoon, when girl representatives from the Homemaker groups marched on the stage at Continental Memorial Hall to receive prizes and to participate in the program at the forty-first annual meeting of the State conference of the District of Columbia, Daughters of the American Revolution, the boy members received their prizes in the basement, where they awaited the return of the girl representatives.

"In addition to learning how to remodel clothes given to them, members of Homemaker groups from Northwest, Southwest and Southeast sections of the city," said Mrs. Franklin, "have just completed courses in first aid and home hygiene, and expect to start courses in nutrition."

"Children Homemakers," she explained, "are our first line of defense."

Winners of Group Prizes Announced

Those from the Homemaker groups who received prizes were: For the best all-round homemaker award, based on perfect attendance and excellent work, Miss Nettie McConchie received first prize for the Southwest section, Miss Theresa Santaiti for the Southeast section, and Miss Patricia McMahn, for the Northwest section.

Miss Eva Belle de Atley received first prize and Miss Mildred Berry, second prize, for the best embroidery. Rhoda Rubin won first prize and Harriet Lopatin, second, for the best essay on the flag. The resolutions committee introduced two resolutions—one for the appropriation of $35 for flowers when needed by the various chapters and the other to present a gift of $125 to Kate Duncan Smith School, Grant, Ala.

With one or two exceptions, the officers of the 60 local D. A. R. chapters, regents and national officers were bedecked in corsages last night when they marched down the aisle and took their places on the stage at Memorial Continental Hall. This was the usual colorful ceremony which marks "regents night." The United States Marine Band played at intervals throughout the evening.

Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke Unopposed for Regent

Officers also were nominated at the final night's meeting of the three-day conference which opened Sunday with memorial services. Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke, retiring State vice regent, was unopposed as candidate for the office of State regent of the District, to succeed Mrs. Harry C. Oberholser. Other candidates nominated were: Vice State regent, Mrs. Roy C. Bowker and Mrs. Catherine B. Strong; chaplain, Mrs. W. H. O. McGehee and Miss Viola Reece; recording secretary, Mrs. Russell B. Stine and Mrs. Ethel Martin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Edwin Lawton and Mrs. John M. Stafford; treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Lyle Seaton; assistant treasurer, Miss Margaret Smith; registrar, Mrs. David L. Wells and Mrs. Wilbur V. Leech; historian, Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman and Mrs. Angus A. Lamond; librarian, Mrs. Lois M. Hicks and Mrs. Thomas Seay.

Election of officers will be held tomorrow and announced at the meeting tomorrow night.

Frances Benjamin Johnston to Present Lecture on 'Tales Old Houses Tell'

IF YOU have an architectural yen—especially for houses flavored with romance and tradition—you'll want to hear Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston's lecture, "Tales Old Houses Tell." Scheduled for tomorrow night at the Arts Club "home dinner meeting," 6:30 p. m. at the Arts Club, the lecture will be illustrated by 100 slides. These slides are selected from the photographic surveys made in nine Southern States in the last decade for the Pictorial Archives of Early American Architecture in the Division of Fine Arts at the Library of Congress.

Under successive grants from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, Miss Johnston has explored the highways and byways of the South from seacoast to mountains, missing little of the charm, atmosphere, romance, tragedy or humor which still survives the annals of these early houses. Although the illustrated talk is not new—she's given it several times before to individual club groups—it's the first time the public has been invited for the price of admission.

THE AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY, Department of D. C., begins new 2-hour first-aid class, 7:30 p. m. Miss Doris M. Gaumont is the instructor . . . WASHINGTON READERS CLUB presents two one-act plays, "For Distinguished Service" and "Aunt Betsey" (in pantomime), following business meeting at 8 p. m.; Mrs. James F. Harnett, president, presides . . . WOMEN'S NATIONAL PRESS CLUB features sugar rationing program at luncheon meeting, 1 o'clock, Willard Hotel. John E. Hamm, deputy OPA director, is guest speaker . . .

Did You Know . . .?

DID YOU know that—in a campaign still under way, the Washington chapter, Women's Auxiliary, B'NAI B'RITH, of which Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., is honorary president, has sold more than $100,000 of United States Defense Savings Bonds, according to an announcement of Mrs. Nathan Hurwitz, defense chairman of the chapter. The chapter will continue to sell bonds for the "duration."

That a group of out-of-towners, who apparently have learned upon their arrival here that the District has no vote, is so incensed that plans are underfoot for a special study of the conditions and reasons at the Y. W. C. A. Members of the BLUE TRIANGLE CLUB, composed of a group of business girls, will devote several meetings to the "Voteless State of the District of Columbia," beginning with a meeting Thursday at 8 p. m.

St. Patrick's Tea

St. Patrick's green and white was the motif at a tea given yesterday in honor of Mrs. Henry S. Oberholzer by Mrs. Catherine Birney Strong. In the receiving line with Mrs. Birney and her guest of honor were Miss Lillian Chenoweth and Mrs. Joseph S. Foney.

The hostess, who is president of the State Officers' Club, had chosen a group of women from the officers' lists, past and present, to help her. At the tea table, which was centered with white roses and smaller white flowers, were Mrs. Edwin J. Ryan, Mrs. John M. Beavers, Mrs. Lyman B. Swormstedt, Mrs. Gaius M. Brumbaugh, Mrs. Richard E. Claughton and Mrs. D. C. Caldwell.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Donald Earll, Mrs. Samuel Woodbridge, Mrs. John Massey, Mrs. Russell Stine, Mrs. Richard Carrigan, Miss Agnes Randolph, Mrs. Tonnis Holzberg, Mrs. F. H. Creech, Mrs. Barton Embry, Mrs. E. E. Curry, Mrs. William F. Pearson.

Alumnae Plan Annual Mass

The Washington Chapter of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae is making plans for its annual communion mass and breakfast on Sunday, April 19.

The victory mass will be celebrated in the Cathedal of St. Matthew the Apostle at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a breakfast at the Mayflower Hotel, at which the members of the graduating classes of the affiliated academies, high schools and colleges will be guests of honor.

Miss Christabel Hill, governor of the District chapter, has appointed Miss Mae Manogue of St. Cecilia's Alumnae, and past governor of the District chapter, as the general chairman, with Miss Eloise Haley of Notre Dame de Namur Alumnae as vice chairman. Other committee chairmen include: Mrs. Paul Hurney of St. Cecilia's Alumnae, reservations; Miss Regina Hartnett of Holy Cross Alumnae, entertainment; Mrs. Edward Keating of Georgetown Visitation Alumnae, reception; Mrs. C. Francis Scalessa of Immaculate Conception Alumnae, tickets, and Miss Kathryn Creveling of Notre Dame de Namur Alumnae, publicity.

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Lord Halifax will return from New York City today, where he has been for the past few days.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Oliver P. Echols will entertain at a dance on Saturday evening at the Officers Club, Army War College, in honor of their daughter, Miss Mary Echols, and her house guest, Miss Mary Owen, of St. Joseph, Mo.

The Military Attache of the Swedish Legation and Mme. Wessel were hosts at a luncheon yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chambline, jr., will entertain at cocktails tomorrow from 5 until 7 o'clock in honor of Elliott Nugent, who is costarred with Katharine Hepburn in "Without Love," now at the National.

Lady Bradford Leslie stopped briefly in Washington this past weekend en route to New York City from Palm Beach, where she has been spending the winter months. She was only here briefly but expects to return for a longer visit later.

Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin has returned to Abremont, her home here, after a visit of ten days in Cincinnati with Mrs. Laurence C. Witten.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ney will entertain at dinner this evening in their apartment at Woodley Park Towers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Doyle announce the marriage of their daughter, Florence, to Horace E. Williams, on Saturday, March 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Oppenheimer have returned to Washington after spending the winter in Miami Beach, Fla.

First Lady to Attend Concert

Although the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will not have a formal celebration of their wedding anniversary today, the First Lady will attend the concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra in Constitution Hall tonight. "Oh, yes, so it is," said Mrs. Roosevelt at her conference yesterday when reminded of the anniversary, but when asked what number, she didn't remember—but in short order it was figured to be the thirty-seventh.

Mrs. Roosevelt will have a group of friends with her tonight, remembering that St. Patrick's Day of 1905 in New York when President Theodore Roosevelt "stole the show" when he gave his niece in marriage to the man who was to be three times elected to the office he then held.

Efrem Zimbalist, whose stepdaughter, Marcia Davenport, is a frequent Washington visitor, will be guest artist for the concert, programming the Brahms "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra." Conductor Eugene Ormandy has programmed an American work, Aaron Copland's "El Salon Mexico," to begin the second half of the concert, a composition which will draw a group from the Mexican Embassy to hear this musical impression of a dance hall in their colorful capital city.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Caspar Miller will be in their usual place adjoining the White House box, entertaining a party of friends. Other Capital notables who will brighten the tier of boxes surrounding the First Lady include the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. A. A. Berle, jr., Mrs. William R. Castle, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mrs. F. A. Keep, Mrs. Edwin M. Watson, Mrs. Stanley Woodward, Mrs. James Clement Dunn, Mrs. George Garrett, Ord Preston and Miss Alice Clapp.

Bid Goodby To Washington

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William Bryden left last night for Atlanta, Ga., where Gen. Bryden will assume a new command. The Brydens hae been an extremely popular couple here during their tour of duty at Fort Myer.

Their daughter, Mrs. Melvin W. Schoephoester, widow of Capt. Schoephoester, U. S. A., left early yesterday with her 4-month-old son for Atlanta. Last Sunday the chapel at Fort Myer was the scene of the christening of Mrs. Schoephoester's son, William Bryden Schoephoester. Officiating at the christening was Chaplain R. A. Fraser and the godparents by proxy were Capt. and Mrs. Downs Ingram, of New Orleans, La.

Chapter G Of P.E.O. Elects

Mrs. T. Bruce King, president; Mrs. Walter J. Greenleaf, vice president; Mrs. Homer L. Shantz, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard E. Claughton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles W. Bolgiano, treasurer; Mrs. Dudley S. Bright, chaplain; Mrs. Harry O. Hine, guard.

The following members were elected, as delegates to the P. E. O. State convention, to be held here in May:

Mrs. Dudley S. Bright, delegate; Mrs. Walter J. Greenleaf, first alternate; Mrs. Charles W. Bolgiano, second alternate.

The members also voted to buy a $100 defense bond.

Mrs. Martin Vogel Heads Defense Hospitality Group

Although she has no official sounding title yet, Mrs. Martin Vogel, sr., is going full speed ahead into the problems of opening Washington homes to service men—to give them a "homey" place to spend their day or several days stay here whether their tastes run to a comfortable chair and a book or being royally wined and dined.

She has enlisted her friends in the cause, too, and yesterday at 4 o'clock some twenty of them gathered to discuss the matter thoroughly and iron out many details. Technically, the group might be called the hospitality committee of the Metropolitan Civilian Defense Recreation Service, and by logical deduction, that would make Mrs. Vogel chairman of the Hospitality Committee of . . . etc.

But the name is the most unimportant part of the project, the real point being to provide a bit of homelike welcome for soldiers in Washington. Such things are not new to Mrs. Vogel, who did her bit for the soldiers in War I also.

Quite apart from her newly assumed duties, Mrs. Vogel was hostess earlier in the day yesterday at a small luncheon at her home on Woodland Drive.

Shawens to Make Home in Arlington

Following their wedding on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Taylor Shawen left on a honeymoon tour of the Southern States, after which they will make their home at 1810 Wilson Boulevard, Colonial Village, Arlington, Va.

The 8 o'clock ceremony, performed by the Rev. Walter Lockett, jr., took place in the Arlington home of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. M. Plake. Mrs. Shawen is the former Miss Mary Edith Cosdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Comegys Cosdon, of Arlington, Va.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a corsage of gardenias with her navy blue ensemble and her only attendant, Miss Marjorie M. Reynolds, set off her black frock with a corsage of sweetheart roses. Edgar C. Shawen served his brother as best man.

Following the ceremony, there was a reception, and later the newlyweds left on their Southern motor tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhine at Home in Takoma Park

Making their home in Takoma Park, Md., following a short wedding trip, are Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis Rhine, who were married here March 12. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Porter in Washington.

Mrs. Rhine is the former Mrs. Vera B. Henry and was attended by her daughter, Miss Meriele Henry. The other attendant was the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Mae Rhine Porter. A reception followed the ceremony. On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Rhine visited his mother, Mrs. Charles M. Wilhide, in Walkersville, Md., and Mrs. Ella R. Schmidt, of Howard County, Md.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Klutz

New Agency Will Keep Tabs on Enemy Aliens

A new Federal agency will be set up within the office of Emergency Management to keep tab on enemy aliens evacuated from coastal areas. Chief of the new agency, it's reported, will be Milton Eisenhower, land use coordinator of the Agriculture Department and one of the ablest young men in the Federal service. Eisenhower's appointment, if it comes, will be another recognition of the work of career men . . . War Production Board is operating a shuttle service between Federal buildings for its employes. Station wagons are used.

Two Interior officials were sent to Chicago yesterday to look over space tentatively selected for the National Park Service, the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Fish and Wildlife Service. These three agencies will definitely go to Chicago. The President and the Budget Bureau turned down an appeal by Secretary Ickes to keep them here. However, the move to Chicago can be largely blamed on Interior officials. The proposed transfer was announced three months ago which gave Interior bosses plenty of time to make other arrangements if they disliked the Chicago move as much as is reported.

The Budget Bureau also ordered Ickes to send half of his reclamation staff here to Denver, which is headquarters of the Reclamation Bureau. The office here has 130 employes. Between 60 and 70 will be moved. The four Interior agencies are expected to be transferred by May 1 . . . It would happen yesterday, the last day to pay income taxes. The pay checks of thousands of Federal workers were short. Retirement deductions were made from the checks of employes brought in under the Ramspeck-Mead Act that went into effect January 24. The 3½ per cent deductions were made retroactive to that date, which took a big bite out of the pay checks. Many employes had planned to use the checks to cover income taxes.

WPB to Get Strauses

The Straus brothers — Mike and Bob, two of the best information men in the business—will soon be working together at the War Production Board. Mike will be loaned from Interior to be chief of WPB's new War Production drive . . . John H. Schaefer, office manager of Public Buildings Administration, will be retired today. He entered Federal service in 1904 . . . Byron Price is chief of censorship but the Army and the Navy have refused to okay releases that censorship has approved.

Milo Perkins, the ambitious executive director of War Economic Board, has his eye on Lend-Lease Administration. Lend-Lease probably won't remain a separate agency for long, now that the Allied commissions are being set up, and Perkins would like to take it over. The board is making a strenuous drive for the agency. The board also has been angling for Export-Import Bank, one of Jesse Jones' favorites. Jones is fighting the move and many believe he has it stopped, at least temporarily.

A building has been found in Baltimore that could be used for the 1900 employes here of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, but Public Building Administation officials believe adequate housing isn't available in Baltimore. That's why FBA is considering moving the employes here and 4700 in the Baltimore office to Chicago. Federal Security officials admit that office space in Chicago is excellent but they argue that Chicago, too, is pressed for housing. The 6800 BOASI employes are in the low salary brackets. Most of them do clerical work and large numbers have been recruited from the Washington-Baltimore area as people won't come here to take the low-paid jobs. If the Chicago move goes through it's generally believed that the bulk of the employes would quit.

"Efficient conversion" of National Youth Administration to a war footing has won praise from 239 war production industries reports Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt. NYA is training young people for work in war plants . . . Why is it that James McEntee, director of Civilian Conservation Corps, never attends staff meetings at Federal Security? . . . Marmalade, a favorite in the British diet, is being shipped to England under the Lend-Lease program. Grapefruit and orange pulp are being sent to England, where processors add sugar and water.

Man Against the Regiment

Fort George G. Meade, Md., March 16 (AP).—The whole 104th Quartermaster Regiment is down on one soldier. He caught the measles. His company was quarantined, and the whole regiment was quarantined today because men of that company had been scattered through the regiment. But the private with the measules was dismissed from hospital several days ago.

Two Escape in Unusual Mishap

Two cars collided in front of the Lincoln Memorial at 4:30 p. m. yesterday and one rolled down the steps within 40 feet of the reflecting pool and no one was hurt. The cars were driven by James D. Mitchell, 47, of 231 D Street Northeast, and Louis Henry Bell, of 2831 Twenty-eighth Street Northwest. The cars were damaged but slightly. Mitchell's car rolled down the steps.

Miss Browne, OCD's Tennis Star, Addresses 75 Maryland U. Coeds at 'Charm School'

"CHARM SCHOOL" IN SESSION—Mary K. Browne (holding poster), former woman's tennis champion now with the Office of Civilian Defense, talked to coeds yesterday in Maryland University's "Charm School." Miss Browne spoke on health. Her appearance was sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association at the university. Coeds are (from left) Gertrude Amoss, Mildred Beck, Mildred Whitlow, Marie Beall, Betty Julian, Margaret Meiser, Mary Greenfield and Joan Jans

About 75 coeds and a dozen Hyattsville High School girls attending a "charm school" at the University of Maryland yesterday heard a talk on health by Miss Mary K. Browne, former national women's tennis champion now affiliated with the division of physical fitness of the Office of Civilian Defense.

To keep healthy, Miss Browne advised correct diet, at least eight hours sleep a night, physical activity, frequent medical examinations, and a "workable philosophy." The latter, she explained, meant "to avoid worry and keep the blues away."

Miss Browne was three times national champion. She joined the professional tennis ranks in 1926 and later toured the country with the team that played against the famous French team headed by Suzanne Lenglen.

The subject of tennis did not enter into Miss Browne's discussion yesterday, however, except when newspaper photographers asked her to pose holding a tennis raquet. She politely refused the request, explaining that she was afraid such a picture might stir up another OCD controversy. She apparently was referring to the Congressional uproar caused by the appointment of Mayris Chaney, dancer, to the staff of the division of physical fitness, at a salary of $4600.

Miss Browne refused to disclose what her salary is, simply stating that she was making a "living wage" in her OCD job.

Victory Sidelights

Over 900 Members of C.I.O. in Washington Donate Blood to Red Cross During Month

More than 900 Washington C. I. O. members have donated blood to the Red Cross during the past month, a special committee reported to the Washington Industrial Union Council last night.

The donations were made as part of a C. I. O. drive to make 1000 blood donations in this area. Following the report, the council ordered the campaign extended until 2000 blood donations are made by local C. I. O. members.

A civilian defense committee reported that 100 volunteer stretcher bearers have been supplied to Col. Lemuel Bolles, District civilian defense director, as a partial response to his request for 200 stretcher bearers from the C. I. O. group.

A resolution demanding the opening of an immediate Western Front in Europe to aid Soviet Russia was unanimously adopted. Jack Zucker, representative of the United Shoe Workers, suggested that a joint conference of American, British, and Soviet labor leaders be called to devise plans to speed the war effort.

Other speakers suggested that a "domestic offensive" against appeasers also was needed.

Rabbis to Hear Talk by Bolles

Rabbis of the city will meet at the Jewish Community Center, Sixteenth and Q Streets Northwest, at 10 a. m. Thursday to listen to a talk by Col. Lemuel Bolles, director of District defense.

Col. Bolles will advise the rabbis on care of their congregation during air raids. All Protestant ministers unable to attend the March 5 meeting on the same subject are invited to sit in on the Thursday conference.

Stores Will Display Civil Defense Art

Contributions of leading Washington artists to civilian defense will be exhibited at Garfinckel's and Woodward & Lothrop's department stores this week, Civilian Defense Executive Lemuel Bolles announced last night.

Originals of paintings, prints, posters and ceramics will be shown at the stores, then sent as traveling exhibits to schools, libraries, and other places where volunteers may see them. Four or five thousand reproductions will be made of the posters for general distributions.

The art division of the Civilian Defense Council is also having its best artists make lithographs, which will be sent to newspapers and other publications for reproduction.

Blackout Violators Escape Prosecution

Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward Thomas yesterday declined to issue a warrant against an alleged blackout violator, contending there was insufficient legal evidence to support such an action.

Police sought the warrant for the manager of a filling station in the Northeast section, charging that he flatly refused to extinguish lights at the station during last Friday night's blackout.

Efforts to secure a warrant against another alleged violator, a woman residing in the Southeast, also were abandoned when it was learned she had left her maid in her apartment the night of the blackout. The maid, in turn, later left the apartment with the lighs burning and the occupant of the apartment did not return until after the blackout's end.

20 Georgetown U. Men Join Marines

The Defense Committee of Georgetown University announced yesterday that 17 college and three foreign service students have been accepted for enlistment in the Marine Corps Reserve as candidates for commissions when they complete their schooling. Among them are four prominent athletes.

Lieut. Thomas F. Mullahey, U. S. M. C., who graduated from the college last June, conducted the enlistment campaign and selected the 20 men to fill Georgetown's quota from a large number of applicants. Those who successfully complete the Candidates' School at Quantico, Va., will be given commissions as second lieutenants.

The foreign service students accepted were John L. Quigley, of Chelsea, Mass.; Henry W. Davis, of Youngstown, Ohio, and George Perpich, of Hibbing, Minn., who is a football player and a member of the undefeated hockey team.

Other footballers in the group include John Lascari, of Lodi, N. J., and Thomas G. Tonsalle, of Bridgeport, Conn. Another, John R. Smith, of Ozone Park, N. Y., is center fielder on the baseball team.

Others accepted for enlistment from the college are William F. Razan, of Hartford, Conn.; John F. Barrett, of River Forest, Ill.; John L. Kohl, of Detroit, Mich.; William E. O'Connor, of Lynbrook, N. Y.; Benjamin J. Zintak, of Chicago; Oscar D. Harte, jr., of Bennington, Vt.; John F. Uniacke, of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Edward L. Ryan, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; William H. Cassidy 3d, of Webster, Mass.; John R. Smith, of Ozone Park, N. Y.; John M. Greeley, of Jamaica Plain, Mass.; James A. Hamill, of Jersey City, N. J., and Stanley W. Erickson, of Pompton Lake, N. J., and John W. Dies, of Garden City, N. J.

Chillum Heights Hears Bomb Talk

Miss Elizabeth N. Fielding, instructor in civilian protection for the American Women's Volunteer Services, last night addressed members of the Chillum Hights civilian defense organization on the handling of fire bombs and the detection of gases.

It is part of a two-week course she is conducting in that area. The concluding meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire Avenue Northeast, when two movies, "The London Fire" and "Fighting Incendiary Bombs," will be shown.

Feeder Bus Line Placed in Operation

A feeder bus line to Temporary Buildings A, B and C, to be known as Buzzards' Point line, has been ordered by the Public Utilities Commission.

Buses will begin their route at Fourth Street Southwest, operating along P Street to Second Street, thence to V, where they will make a loop and return via the same route. Connections may be made with the Seventh Street car line.

The order was put into effect Sunday.

Two Scout Cars Begin Service As Emergency Ambulances

Two combination scout car ambulances, first of their kind in the Police Department, will be put into service this morning and assigned to the Sixth and Seventh Precincts, where they will be available for emergency service only.

Designed to provide prompt transfer of accident victims to the hopsital when regular ambulance service is not available, the new cars will be assigned to regular beats, following ceremonies at the District Building at 10 a. m., in which the Commissioners and Police Superintendent Edward J. Kelly will take part.

The cars are equipped with a small folding emergency stretcher, auxiliary stretcher, pad and pillow, arm and leg splints; and a small first aid kit. Although assigned to the Sixth and Seventh Precincts, they may be enlisted by adjoining areas when emergency ambulance service is requird.

Maj. Kelly, in an order issued yesterday, advised that the cars "should not be used for the regular ambulance service, such as removing persons from homes, buildings or other places where they are protected from the elements and where usual ambulance services are available."

Major Kelly's order, issued through through Assistant Superintendent Harvey G. Callahan, sharply warned drivers of the cars against taking unnecessary risks.

"There have been entirely too many instances, not only in this city but in numerous others where police cars or ambulances, responding to calls or conveying persons to hospitals, have been in collisions and have caused more serious injuries and even death. With less speed and more care the calls could have been answered and services rendered," Kelly said.

Officers assigned to the cars, Kelly ordered, should be men with first-aid training, and where a shortage of such men exists, at least one man assigned to each car must have had first-aid instruction.

It was recalled yesterday that the need of such semiambulances was forcibly illustrated Saturday night when a hit-run victim lay in the street for 15 minutes awaiting an ambulance which suffered motor trouble en route to the scene. On many occasions, rescue squads have been called to the District when local ambulances were not available.

1 Dead, 3 Hurt As Auto Hits Heavy Trailer

Charles M. Phair, 45, of Laurel, Md., was killed and three other persons were seriously injured when their automobile collided with a heavy trailer-truck on the Baltimore Boulevard near Laurel early yesterday.

Phair's son, Thomas S. Phair, 23; Andrew E. Stanton, 33, and Floyd M. Lilly, jr., 24, all of Laurel, are in Casualty Hospital, where their condition was reported last night as fair. Donald E. Deal, 30, of Cherryville, N. C., driver of the truck, was uninjured, police said.

Mr. Phair is a cousin of Ormond W. Phair, president of the Prince Georges County board of education.

A car which police said was driven by Harry E. Daniels, 59, of 334 Rhode Island Avenue Northwest, struck 16-year-old Olive Lucille Cole, 2721 Knox Terrace, last night while she was crossing the street in the 2300 block of Alabama Avenue Southeast. Miss Cole was taken to Casualty Hospital where doctors said she was suffering from a fractured right leg and a brain concussion.

Committee Orders D. C. Slum Probe

House Group Told To Investigate Sanitary Conditions, Suggest Measures

The House District Committee yesterday declared war on Washington's slums, directing a subcommittee to begin an immediate investigation of local sanitary conditions with a view to reporting out legislation to correct them.

The subcommittee under the chairmanship of Representative Schulte (Democrat), of Indiana, is expected to begin its study later this week, with the District health officer, Dr. George C. Ruhland, on the witness stand.

Immediate quest of the committee is to find a means for enforcing a 2-year-old law abolishing outdoor toilets not connected with water or sewer facilities.

Chairman Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, suggested the investigation at a committee meeting yesterday. He pointed out that slum conditions in Southwest Washington were brought to Congressional attention last week by Arthur Goodwillie, of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, when he testified before the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee on the Senate-approved 70-million-dollar District area war housing bill.

"Lack of Policy" Blamed

Commissioner Guy Mason told the committee that slum conditions here are traceable to "a lack of policy" existing since Civil War days.

"The real trouble now is that we are trying to run a city of a million on a budget for 400,000," he declared. "We've got slum sections due to economic conditions. No one in particular is to blame. We're all to blame."

Admitting that the Health Department is now understaffed, he said there would soon be sent to Congress a deficiency appropriation estimate to provide for 200 additional Health Department employes.

Dr. Ruhland, leaving a sick bed to attend the meeting, said enforcement has been retarded because:

The District government faces the sanitary problem with a "cumbersome" setup of seven separate housing agencies, with a resulting tendency toward "buck-passing."

Some Steps Taken

Although he has persistently requested $66,000 annually for the local sanitary inspection staff, the amount has been cut to $14,000.

Under urging by Representative Hebert (Democrat), of Louisiana, that he "get tough," Dr. Ruhland replied that steps already have been taken to improve health regulations in restaurants and boarding houses and to control venereal disease.

The fiscal affairs subcommittee was directed to begin hearings Friday on a provision of the District corporate income tax law requiring out-of-town manufacturers conducting business in Washington to pay a tax on net profits from local transactions in addition to an annual $10 license fee.

Representative Hunter (Democrat), of Ohio, is chairman of the subcommittee, which will begin its investigation of the matter Friday at 10 a. m.

Police Promotion Approved

The committee reported favorably a bill authorizing the Commissioners to promote the assistance chief of detectives to head of the detective bureau even though he does not have the rank of captain as existing law provides he should have.

Later in the day the House passed by unanimous consent a bill permitting two elderly women to spend the rest of their lives on 32 acres of land two miles above Chain Bridge on the Virginia shore of the Potomac which will be used by the Public Roads Administration as a testing ground.

The present headquarters and testing ground of the bureau now at the Washington National Airport eventually will be moved to the new site.

FIRST DIP THIS YEAR—Recreation association of the Department of Justice last night staged their first splash party this year. Two shapely workers among those attending the big dip in the Ambassador Hotel's pool were Eleanor Harilee (left) and Theodora Belland

Citizens Urge City Collection Of Salvage

The Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens Association last night urged use of the District's present trash collection system for the salvaging of waste material needed in defense.

Members of the civic group expressed the opinion that the setting up of a special District committee to handle salvage work, as proposed by the OCD office was unnecessary.

Another resolution urging Federal legislation to curb commercial vice and liquor sales in the vicinity of Army camps was held over for action at the association's next meeting, April 20, after considerable discussion.

The association met at the Shepherd School, Fourteenth and Kalmia Streets Northwest, with K. B. Gardner presiding.

Pleasant Plains

Mrs. Nell Hunter, of the Treasury Department, will speak on the purchase of defense bonds at a meeting of the Pleasant Plains Citizens Association tonight at 8, in the Monroe School. Members of the association are urged to bring donations of books, sheet music and records for men in the service.

Lincoln Civic

The Alley Dwelling Authority was assailed last night by members of the Lincoln Civic Association, who said that it has "miserably failed in the discharge of its duties."

The group concurred in a resolution condemning the agency, adopted recently by the Southwest Civic Association. This read, in part: "The ADA has completely shattered the faith and confidence colored citizens should have in such a vitally important agency."

The motion recommended that the ADA be abolished and that in its place be established a Housing Board under the authority of the District Commissioners. The meeting was held in the Francis Junior High School, Twent-fourth and N Streets Northwest. Dr. E. F. Harris, Negro, presided.

Two Holdup Men Rob Woman Grocer of $120

District police last night sought two men who held up Mrs. Jean Pincus, 28, proprietor of a grocery store at 1415 Tenth Street Northwest, and forced her to surrender $120 from the cash register.

Mrs. Pincus told police one of the men, both were Negroes, drew a gun when she turned to get him a package of cigarettes.

Bolles Denies Defense Office Museum Plan

There will be no museum in the District Civilian Defense Office's new headquarters in the Toner School, a spokesman for Col. Lemuel Bolles, defense chief, said, with some indignation last night.

"Even if there were any sense in having a museum, this office has too much work to do," he said. "We have no time for boondoggling."

The report of a museum to exhibit incendiary bombs, blackout materials and other exhibits of interest to volunteer workers was given by an official of the District WPA, which is vacating the school house at 2324 F Street Northwest to make room for the civilian defense workers.

The Central Volunteer Bureau, headed by Mrs. Harry S. Bernton, will share the quarters with Col. Bolles' corps of assistants. The Volunteer Bureau is at present located in the old Armory Building at 501 Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest.

The Civilian Defense staff now occupies five rooms on the fifth floor of the District Building, which will be turned over to the Highway Department, it is reported. WPA workers will vacate the school property by next Monday, when the defense office plans to move into it.

Traffic Chief Lays 65 Deaths to Walking Habits

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said yesterday he had talked until he was "out of breath" and still 65 persons have "committed suicide" on the streets of Washington in a little more than 14 months.

Their deaths were the result of careless walking habits, he said.

In each of the accidents the drivers who struck the victims were absolved of blame after official investigations, the traffic chief stated. Words of warning are useless unless the people wake up and realize the seriousnes of the situation, he said.

In view of the evident disregard for their own lives on the part of an increasing number of pedestrains, Van Duzer admonished motorists to be ever on the alert and prepared for any emergency.

Young Says He'll Fight For WPA

Vital Projects Must Be Furnished, Poor Protected, Asserts D. C. Commissioner

The District will fight any movement to liquidate its WPA program on June 30, Commissioner John Russell Young announced last night.

The order for the entire program to go out of existence at the end of the present fiscal year "unless something extraordinary intervenes" was announced by District WPA Director Ross Haworth yesterday. The termination was decided by the regional office at Baltimore.

No provision to continue the national WPA program has been submitted to Congress yet, but in some quarters it is felt that the necessary bill will be brought up to Congress before the expiration date. But even if that occurs, Washington's participation seems doomed because of the opportunity for jobs here.

Young asserted that if the 48 States continue to participate in the WPA, there is no reason why Washington should be denied it. He pointed out that the termination order had not yet been considered by Congress, but had only been promulgated by the Baltimore WPA office.

"Many a member of Congress will not be fooled and will come to our support," Young said. "They will see to it that we are given fair treatment and will back me up in my earnest resistance to any such attempts as this."

Haworth said, "If it is the determination of Congress to continue the WPA elsewhere, it would be wholly inequitable to close down the District WPA arbitrarily, when it has such important work to do."

Admitting there is a rapid absorption of WPA labor into private industry—1300 out of 4500 having been so placed in the past 60 days—Haworth said there is an irreducible minimum which can never go into private enterprise, but which is dong valuable defense work in its present status.

A schedule for progressive terminations of the various projects has already been worked out by the local officials.

Of the present 1449 employes in the construction section, all but 336 will be off the rolls by May 1, and those remaining will be "dissipated" by the June 30 deadline.

By April 30, 361 white-collar workers, including the art and music, research and records, and Home for the Aged and Incurables helpers will be released.

Of the projects which will be maintained until the very last minute, there are 253 persons in the school lunch program, 52 in Gallinger, 98 in the sewing rooms, 98 in surplus commodities, 59 in census, 47 in playground recreation, 22 in defense recreation, 71 in housekeeping aid, 96 in the Health Department and 22 in the Housing Registry.

Rookies Shine as Nats Belt Brooklyn, 10-1

Fifth in Row Recorded In Exhibition

Zinser, McCullough And Kennedy Hurl 5-Hitter; 1st Inning Uprising Is Telling

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 16.—The Nats came to town and went to town against the Brooklyn Dodgers today. Manager Bucky Harris unveiled three of his Class B League rookie pitchers against the National League champions and saw them get away with it very nicely by holding the Dodgers to five hits. The final score added up to 10 to 1, Washington's fifth straight in the exhibition league.

It was a large afternoon for the Nats' rookies of all descriptions. Bill Zinser, Bill Kennedy and Phil McCullough held the Dodgers in the grip of their five-hit pitching, and Rookies Bob Repass and Stan Galle belted the Eastern Wartime daylight out of the Brooklyn throwers.

Repass swatted a triple and a pair of singles that moved four runs across the plate and little Galle checked in with four singles which fetched three runs home. The bulk of the damage was done in the first inning when the Nats boarded Tom Drake, former Cleveland pitcher, for five big runs.

Zinser Unscathed

Brooklyn got nothing more than single from Washington's rookie pitching batch. Zinser, up from Greenville in the South Atlantic League, pitched the first three innings and, after a shaky start, emerged unscored-on. The only hit he allowed was a freak-hopping grounder over Galle's head at third base.

Bill Kennedy, late of Charlotte, the stringy lefthander whose delivery is a carbon copy of Lefty Gomez's, minus Gomez's fast ball, yielded the only Brooklyn run. He walked the first two batters in the fourth and Mickey Owen's single averted a shut-out for Brooklyn.

Big Phil McCullough, who couldn't pitch .500 ball for Greenville last season, held the Dodgers in check for the last three innings. The big righthander allowed two hits, but the Dodgers couldn't get to second base against him.

The Nats won the ball game in the first inning when, the first thing Drake knew, he had filled the bases with none out by walking Case, pitching a single to Spence and hitting Bruce Campbell on the shin bone. Notions of a big inning for the Nats faded when Vernon grounded to Drake who started a double play with a throw to the plate, but Early walked and with the bases full again, Galle lined a single to center for two runs.

Strategy Fails

Kelly Wins A. L. Hockey Point Crown

By the Associated Press

New Haven, Conn., March 16.—Pete Kelly, sandy-haired Springfield star, captured the American Hockey League's scoring honors this season, according to the final statistics released today by President Maurice Podoloff.

Kelly unleashed a closing season drive to draw away from the field winding up with 78 points, 11 more than Lou Trudel, of Washington. Les Cunningham, Cleveland ace, finished third, with 65 points, to lead the Western division's goal bombarders.

Pete Bessone, of Pittsburgh, was the loop's "bad man," his penalties totaling 92 minutes and a misconduct. Lofvendahl, of Philadelphia, trailed with 69 minutes, one minute more than Myles, of New Haven, who also incurred a match foul.

$9000 Pay, Plus Bonus, Is Offered

Detroit Slugger Ends Long Holdout; 3 Hurlers Remain Dissatisfied, Unsigned

By the Associated Press

Lakeland, Fla., March 16. Rudy York, Detroit Tiger first baseman, ended his long holdout siege today by signing his 1942 contract.

The big first baseman, who batted only .259 last season, came to terms with General Manager Jack Zeller after being told to "sign up or go home."

York's salary was not disclosed, but it was reported his contract called for slightly more than $9000 and a $5000 bonus if he bats in more than 100 runs. Last year he batted in 111 runs.

His signing left the Tigers with Pitchers Louis (Buck) Newsom, Johnny Gorsica and Luther (Bud) Thomas as the only holdouts. Newsome was reported to be en route to Lakeland from his home in Hartsville, S. C. Gorsica has taken his salary squabble to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis and nothing has been heard from Thomas. Zeller, in serving his ultimatum on York, revealed that, in five seasons with Detroit, the first baseman had been paid more than $80,000. He and Newsom, said to have been baseball's highest paid flinger last year, were the Tigers' top salaried players after the induction of Hank Greenberg into the Army.

Dodgers May Lose Padget to Army

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 16 (AP). Don Padgett, Brooklyn Dodgers' outfielder purchased from the St. Louis Cards last December, today was ordered to appear before his draft board in Forest City, N. C., for his Army physical examination.

Under the terms of the deal with the Cards if Padgett is inducted into military service before the season opens April 14, the Cards will refund the Dodgers their purchase price of $25,000. Padgett, classified in 1-A, is 28 years old, unmarried and without dependents.

Later in the day Padgett received an order from his draft board to submit to a blood test here and to remain with the Dodgers until further notice.

Barons Bolster Team; Battle Lions Tonight

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, March 16.—Cleveland's battered Barons got an answer today to their S O S for outside help in the American Hockey League playoffs.

Cleveland and Washington—third-place winners of the league's Western and Eastern divisions respectively—open the series C playoffs here tomorrow night.

To aid the injury-riddled 1941 champions, the league granted Cleveland permission to use Kilby MacDonald of Buffalo and Johnny Sherf or Normie Mann of Pittsburgh, whose teams are out of the competition. All three are left wingers. Mann also has been used at center.

With six men in bandages—five of them veterans—the Barons also would like to get a defense man, but Coach Bill Cook regarded the prospect as dim. On their injured list are Defense Man Freddie Robertson, Wings Norm Locking, Jake Milford, and Art Giroux, Center Don Deacon and rookie Watler Melnyk.

Sammy Snead, Wehrle Top Pro-Am Teams

By the Associated Press

St. Augustine, Fla., March 16.—While the vanguard of entrants in the National Amateur Professional Tournament hit practice shots today, locker room critics singled out at least half a dozen teams with enough golf polish to bag top money in the $3000 event.

At the top of the favorites is Slammin' Sam Snead who teamed with Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis., to win the 1941 championship. Snead likes the long course and will again team with Wehrle to shoot at the top prize of $1000.

Four other previous winning professionals will be back. Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, N. Y., who teamed with T. Suffern Tailer, Locust Valley, N. Y., to cop the first National Amateur Pro in 1935, will play with Arnold Minkley, Chicago. Gene Sarzen, winner of 1936, is teamed with Gene Dahlbender, Atlanta, and Henry Picard, who won top money in 1937, has Earl Christiansen, Miami policeman, as his partner.

The other former winner in the field is Denny Shute, victor in 1939. He will again team with Bill Stark, of Jacksonville, one of Florida's ace shotmakers.

The 36-hole qualifying round starts on Wednesday with a number of top teams not required to qualify. Competition on a best ball match play basis begins on Thursday with the 36-hole championship finals on Sunday.

Rochester, N. Y., March 16 (AP).—Billy Sheldon, Pittsburgh welterweight, knocked out Joey Paul, Rochester, in the third round of the scheduled five-round main event of the amateur fights here tonight. Other five-round results: Phil Muscato, Buffalo middleweight, decisioned Ben Franklin, Pittsburgh, and Walter Boone, Pittsburgh middleweight, won over Emmett Donnelly, Rochester.

$1,200,000 Turf Gift To Defense Suggested

Illinois Track Operators Make Proposal; Nation's Plants Would Contribute to Fund

By the Associated Press

Chicago, March 16.—A suggestion that the Nation's race tracks make an outright gift of $1,200,000 to defense organizations, with each track donating its proportionate share to agencies in its own locality, was advanced today at a meeting of Illinois track operators.

The Illinois operators met in advance of a national conference of the racing industry to discuss such steps which the tracks may take as their part in the war effort. Operators, State racing commissioners and representatives of trainers, breeders, jockeys and horsemen will attend the meeting here Thursday through Saturday.

No action was taken on the proposal by Charles Krutckoff, of Hawthorne Park, that the Illinois operators go on record as favoring a $1,200,000 national contribution, of which Illinois tracks would make up $200,000. Under Krutckoff's plan, each track would contribute on the basis of last year's daily average mutuel handle.

The group deferred action after Walter Gregory, president of Washington Park, urged the operators to wait until the national meeting so they could take advantage of any other plans which might be submitted.

Mrs. Page Is Medalist At Pinehurst

By the Associated Press

Pinehurst, N. C., March 16.—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Chapel Hill, won the medal again today in the annual North and South women's golf tournament with a round of 40, 34—74 on the No. 1 course.

The tournament drew a field of more than 50, including a number of nationally known golfers who will try during the match play rounds, starting tomorrow, to stop Mrs. Page in her effort to win the title for the sixth time.

Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, finished in a tie for second with Mrs. Thomas E. Nolan, of Newcastle, Pa. Each had a 77. Helen Siegel, of Philadelphia, with a 78, was the only other player to crack 80.

Miss Jeanne Cline, of Bloomington, Ill., Western junior champion, after taking an eight at the fourth hole, recovered to finish in 83.

Conn Changes Mind, Decides To Join Army

By the Associated Press

New York, March 16.—Billy Conn, leading contender for Heavyweight Chompion Joe Louis' crown, was inducted into the Army as a private today and immediately was sent to Fort Wadsworth on Staten Island.

Conn, who went 13 rounds with Louis last summer, quietly enlisted a week ago Saturday, five days after passing his physical examination for the Naval Reserve with much fanfare.

"I just changed my mind," said Conn, who was 24 in October. He married shortly after losing to Louis last June.

Conn, whose home is Pittsburgh, was assigned to the 1205 Corps Area Service Unit as was his friend and bodyguard during training for important fights, Joe Becker, a Pittsburgh detective.

Special Dispatch to The Post

New York, March 16.—Washington's Golden Gloves team qualified six men for the quarter-final round to trail Syracuse and tie Buffalo, Philadelphia and New York in the Eastern team championship in the annual tournament here tonight before 5000 fans in the Bronx Coliseum.

Syracuse placed seven men in the round of eight and New York, Buffalo and Philadelphia six each. Pairings for the quarter-finals in the eight classes will be made tomorrow morning.

Five of the Washingtonians won decisively, Frank Cady drew a bye in the heavyweight class and two lost in the preliminary sessions. Dick Mullen, 112-point District candidate, dropped a roundly booed decision to Linwood Wiltshire, of Richmond, and Charley Maimone lost in the 160-round class to Jack Rowsey, of Huntington, W. Va.

Pete Celinski scored the first D. C. triumph in the 118-pound class over Tony Barcelona, of Hudson County, N. Y., winning the decision by a wide margin. Lew Hanbury followed in the 126-pound class by knocking out Irving Hill, of Buffalo in 1:32 of the third round.

Charley Petro followed with a rousing triumph over Junior Kee, of Huntingdon, W. Va., in the lightweight class, and the D. C. team made it four in a row as Red Vernon decisioned Marine Carl Steele, formerly of Alexandria and representing Charlotte.

Reno Workman scored over Horatious Greene, of New Jersey, in the light-heavy class.

The fastest knockout in the early walloping was chalked up by Dedi Mathews, a Savannah, Ga., youngster on the Jacksonvile team, when he put Harry Bonar, Moundsville, W. Va., steel worker, away in a minute and 15 seconds in the featherweight preliminaries.

Mike Constestible, New York youngster, stopped Hugh Ruger, Kingston, Pa., now a Fort Benning soldier, in three heats.

Joe Kaminski Takes Singles Lead in A.B.C.

By the Associated Press

Columbus, Ohio, March 16.—Joe Kaminski, cigar-chewing leather worker from Youngstown, Ohio, took over first place in the singles of the American Bowling Congress tournament today with 692 and moved into a tie for first in the all-events with 1889.

A few alleys away Russell Shuster, a fellow townsman, hit 673 for fifth in the singles.

The T. and N. Tavern team of Dayton, Ky., scored 2861 to roll into second place in the five-man squad standings.

The scores followed the 1807 posted earlier by Chester Lewski, of Milwaukee, for tenth in all-events and 1223 by John Wurth and Henry Brune, both of St. Louis, for fifth in the doubles.

Kaminski poured in strikes for games of 234, 212, 246 in his singles effort, and his 595 in the team event and 602 in the doubles earned him his first-place tie in the nine-game all-events test with Frankie Schnaitman, of Chester, Pa.

The former singles leader was Vincent Gries, of Elizabeth, N. J., whose 690 series was posted nine days ago.

Whirly May Race Rhymer April 18

Lexington, Ky., March 16 (AP).—The Rhymer, surprise winner of the Widener Handicap, and Whirlaway, aiming at a new money-earning record, may clash in the $2500 added Ben Ali Handicap at Keeneland, April 18, it was announced today.

Both have been nominated for the mile and a sixteenth test along with 29 others.

In addition to Whirly, Owner Warren Wright named eight other Calumet horses for the race, including Kentucky Derby eligibles Some Chance, Sun Again, Wishbone, Yukon, Early N Smart and Col. Teddy.

Cubs' Lou Stringer To Marry Stenographer

Ventura, Calif., March 16 (AP).—Lou Stringer, second baseman for the Chicago Cubs baseball club, took out an application today to wed Helen Susanne Wereb, of Inglewood, Calif.

Stringer gave his age as 24 and his address as Los Angeles. Miss Wereb listed her age also as 24, and her occupation as stenographer.

GORSICA MAKES BASEBALL HISTORY

Orlando, Fla., March 16.—Johnny Gorsica, Detroit pitcher, is making history. He has dropped his salary argument with the Tigers into the lap of Baseball Commissioner Landis. That is Gorsica's privilege but he is the first big leaguer to carry a pay argument to Landis in the 20 years of the latter's baseball czardom.

POVICH

At whatever sum Landis values Gorsica's services to the Tigers, his decision is binding on the club owner. That authority is written into Landis' contract with the big leagues. Landis insisted upon that clause as fair play to the ball player, but until Gorsica came along no man was disposed to carry a wage case to the commissioner.

Gorsica is in the doghouse with the Detroit general management not only because he turned down a slight pay raise. It seems that the young pitcher has acquired a manager who has conducted all negotiations with the Detroit club. The club's salary offers to Gorsica have met with long, formal replies that smacked of a legal office and the Tiger front office resents their nature. Baseball resents outsiders mingling in its business anyway, and the club is now prepared to be very tough with Gorsica.

The fact is that Gorsica hasn't got a ghost of a chance of getting any satisfaction from Landis, because the commissioner will judge the case strictly on its merits. Landis will probably want to know first why a pitcher who won only nine games and lost 11 last season is entitled to pay raise anyway. Also the fact that Gorsica is a member of the Detroit club may well mitigate against him, because if the fellow has been on the Tigers' payroll it is evident he was well paid, if not overpaid to start with. The Tigers have been more generous with their athletes than any club.

Tigers, Perhaps, Were Too Generous in the Past

The Tigers' generosity in recent seasons accounts, in fact, for all of their salary troubles this year. Detroit salaries were far above scale under the regime of the Walter O. Briggs', father and son, and when they retired from their baseball office to devote their time to defense work in their big tank factories, they put Jack Zeller, a starkly realistic baseball man, in charge. Zeller is determined to pay the Tigers only what they are worth, which accounts for the fact that Buck Newsom, Rudy York and Gorsica are holdouts.

Under Zeller, the Tiger front office has awakened to the fact that Detroit athletes were riding the gravy train. Rudy York, for example, drew down $27,000 last year for hitting .254 and not fielding so well, either. Buck Newsom lost 20 ball games for the Tigers in 1941 while being paid a $32,000 salary. Both Newsom and York are being offered only $11,000 this year.

Newsom now finds that his angels, the Briggs', have deserted him. Buck scarcely paused to say how-do-you-do to such men as Manager Del Baker and General Manager Zeller on his way to the Briggs' office where he was welcome as a big shot of the club. Newsom and young Spike Briggs were hunting companions and thick pals, and Buck was virtually naming his own salary terms when he talked to the Briggs'. Now, to his sorrow, he must deal with Zeller.

Newsom and York Didn't Fare Badly

Only on the Detroit club could a first baseman like York command as much as $27,000 or a pitcher like Newsom earn $32,000. The Tigers were paying Hank Greenberg $55,000 before he went into the Army, and such high wages made it tough on the other club owners in the league. It was a factor, unquestionably, in Joe DiMaggio's ability to command $42,000 from the Yankees.

If the Tigers were unaware before, of a baseball athlete's ingratitude, they woke up this spring when Dick Wakefield, the young outfielder from the University of Michigan, held out on them. Last summer the Detroit front office gave Wakefield the record sum of $55,000 as a bonus for signing a contract. The boy drew more money for the year than anybody in baseball, not excepting Commissioner Landis. But this winter he demanded $200 more salary per month than was offered him.

The other owners in the league are entirely unsympathetic with the Tiger management in its salary troubles. They knew it was a ball player's ambition to be traded to Detroit and thus hop the gravy train. Detroit threw the salary scale so far out of line that such club owners as Griffith found it difficult to sign Dutch Leonard to a $13,000 contract. Every front office in the league is now chuckling at the Tigers' wage troubles.

Abe Simon Likes the Idea Of Meeting Joe Louis Again

Former Victim Has New Confidence; Bride And Lost Appendix; He's Faster, Too

By the Associated Press

Summit, N. J., March 16.—You'd think that after a fellow got slapped in the face by a meat cleaver for the better part of an evening, he'd be slighly less than hilarious about taking a second whirl at it. But "Our Abraham" Simon is quite pleased at the prospect.

The dainty dreadnaught from Long Island isn't pooh-poohing Joe Louis as he rounds into shape for his second session with the bomber in Madison Square Garden a week from Friday. But he figures he took Joe's Sunday shots for 13 rounds a year ago in Detroit and lived, so then, what is there to worry about?

In fact, he can't think of a nicer thing that could happen to him right now than to get a crack at the heavyweight championship and help build up a pot for the Army Emergency Relief Fund at the same time. It may be that he's happy about it because (a) he's a bridegroom and (b) he recently lost his appendix, which, he says made him faster and put him in better condition than for the first go-round with the head man.

Has Confidence

"I'll say this," he pointed out after polishing off ten rounds of sparring and calisthenics today. "I'm more confident now than I was then and that doesn't mean I'm trying to bolster my courage, and I know Joe's not the murderer he's cracked up to be. Just look at our last fight. He met me with everything. Sure, I was on the floor four times, but I was on my feet when the referee stopped it. And look at most of the last half-dozen fights Joe's had. He hasn't knocked anybody out. The referees have stopped them.

"I realize that he's the fastest puncher there is. No one ever had the speed throwing a blow. And of course if I get in the way, there's a chance the roof might fall in. But I'm faster myself now, and my left hand is working swell."

He wasn't kidding about that left. It's a neat little weapon which resembles the working end of a steam shovel and when Abe lets go of it, the chances are it will clear a path of everything in the way.

Shkor Took It

He used it for three rounds against Johnny Shkor, a Boston belter who's better than a green hand at the game, and when they finished Johnny said, "that left is like another guy's right."

Another thing about ample Abe, he works like a longshoreman getting himself into condition, and when a fellow expects to be led to the chopping block he doesn't go through all that self-denial and tough training grind. At least, you'd expect a guy to have as much fun as possible if he's training to get his head cuffed off.

Tigers Held to Three Hits by Youthful Cardinal Hurlers; Rowe Is Pounded

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16.—The St. Louis Cardinals won their seventh straight exhibition baseball game today, defeating the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 1.

The Tigers made only three hits, all singles. Two were off Rookie Right Hander Al Jurisich in five innings; one off Left Hander Howard Pollet in four. The two blows off Jurisich were bunched with a passed ball to produce Detroit's run in the fourth.

Four Cardinal runs in the second sewed on the contest. Three consecutive singles off Schoolboy Rowe scored one, an error brought in the second and Coaker Triplett's double accounts for two more.

Bosox Win in 12th

Sarasota, Fla., March 16 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox and New York Giants toiled 12 innings today before the American Leaguers won, 2 to 1.

Ace Adams, New York's sophomore relief hurler, opened the final frame by issuing a pass to Tony Lupien, Jimmy Foxx's successor at first base. A sacrifice and an infield out advanced him to third and he scored easily on Bill Conroy's single.

Boston scored its first tally in the ninth when, with the bases loaded, Paul Campbell's bounder got tangled in the webbing of Nick Witek's glove and Dominic DiMaggio scampered home.

Bad News for A's

Anaheim, Calif., March 16 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics dropped another exhibition game today, this time to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League 4-1, but the big news in training camp was the latest involving holdout Dick Siebert.

In the first communication since rejecting Manager Connie Mack's bonus contract offer, Siebert requested that his spiked shoes be sent to him at St. Paul. Since ball players furnish their own shoes, it was generally believed that the first baseman either intends to stay out this year, or wants to work out at home preparatory to reporting.

Mack forwarded the shoes and let it be known he is interested in Jim Wasdell, of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs, both of whom have played first base.

Three errors by Crash Davis at second base helped the Coasters to three runs in the first two innings, and the A's couldn't make up the ground.

Weary Braves Bow

Sanford, Fla., March 16 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians shelled three of the Boston Braves' travel weary pitchers for a 9-to-1 triumph today before a slim crowd of 176 cash customers. The Braves ended a 263-mile bus ride from Miami just before game time.

Although Lefty Al Milnar kept the Tribesmen under control, the latter were very much in the game until the sixth inning, when George Washburn gave the Indians four runs by passing four batters, giving another a single and then uncorking a costly wild pitch.

Chisox Aces Win

Pasadena, Calif., March 16.—Perhaps upset by losing the first two exhibition games of the season, Manager Jimmy Dykes called on three of his best Chicago White Sox pitchers today, and came up with a 5-to-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Bobby Sturgeon, sophomore shortstop, got both the Cubs' hits and then was taken out for a pinch hitter with two on and none out in the ninth inning. Thornton Lee held the Cubs to a scratch single in three innings he worked, but a run, which followed a base on balls, was charged against him. Johnny Humphries set the Cubs down with a double, and gave only one base on balls. Edgar Smith finished, pitching hitless ball for two innings, but gave up five bases on balls and a run.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 16 (AP).—Bill Burich, Allentown rookie, will be given a trial at shortstop for the Phils, Manager Hans Lobert decided today.

Burich is a second baseman, but because Lobert has five other second sackers on hand, he decided to make the change. He likes the way Burich handles ground balls.

Frisch Mad

San Bernardino, Calif., March 16 (AP).—Irked by the Sunday performance of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Manager Frankie Frisch had the boys race through a tough morning schedule today, then plan an afternoon camp game. The hitting in the double-header with San Diego in which the Bucs lost the first one, 8-1 and took the second, 3-1, was the subject

Long Island Meets W. Va., Creighton Faces Texans

By the United Press

New York, March 16.—The fifth annual National Invitation Basketball Tournament, boasting the greatest collection of high-scoring cage stars ever assembled on one program, gets under way tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden when the champion Long Island Blackbirds begin defense of their title against West Virginia University.

In the other opening round contest, West Texas State College, border conference titleholder and tallest team in the country, clashes with Creighton University, co-champions of the Missouri Valley conference.

City College, metropolitan champions by virtue of a one-point victory over New York University last week, plays Western Kentucky State College, Kentucky conference leader for ten successive years, and Rhode Island State, New England conference titleholder, meets Toledo University, the Midwest's leading quintet, in the second round Thursday night.

Survivors of these two evenings play in the semi-finals on Monday with the final scheduled for Wednesday.

Long Island University, winner of the title last year and in 1939, has won 25 of 27 games and is playing in this tournament for the fifth time. West Virginia has been victorious in 18 of its 22 games and lists substantial victories over Penn State, Pittsburgh, Army, Navy and Duquesne. It defeated three of the four teams to which it lost, and three of the four losses were during a stretch of eight days in which five games were played.

The Mountaineers have tallied 1174 points this season for a 53-point average, which is almost on a par with Long Islan's offensive percentage, 1496 points, for a 54-point average. West Virginia is paced by Capt. Rudy Baris, a 6-foot-3 200 pounder, who has tallied nearly 300 points this season for a new school record.

L. I. U has two players over the 200 mark in scoring this season. Dick Holub led the metropolitan district and established a school record with 341 points, and Capt. Hank Beenders tallied 219 points. Four others are over the century mark.

West Texas State's club has become the glamour boy outfit of the

Vic Claggett Paces Mates To Pin Victory

Vic Claggett didn't miss high individual set by far with his 372 in the Odd Fellows League at Brookland, but his effort paced his Eastern boys to team highs after pinfalls of 582 and 1728. Sam Gimbel, Covenant, had 148-382 to lead in a two game win over Golden Rule despite Harold Hodges' 381 for the losers, while a 142 single and 394 set by Wally Donaldson helped win a pair from opponents and put his Amity No. 1 boys out in front by virtue of a five-game margin.

ICE PALACE

The J. C. Flood team in the Commercial League at the Ice Palace won a pair from Essex Construction despite the fact that Santos had individual highs of 137-385 for the losers, Bob O'Neill contributed 133-382 to the winners. Fred Murphy's 136-378 for American Valet sparked an odd game win over the Ice Palace and also led to high team set of 1743. The Hot Shoppers also won a pair, taking them from National Beer.

SILVER SPRING

Joe Erdman, of Takoma Engineers, and Frank Mueller, of Valdenar Landscapers, topped the Georgia Avenue League at Silver Spring while the team highs were shared by Coffman Realty and Corr's Sport Shop with respective totals of 635 and 1751. The only sweep was posted by Carter-Lanhardt when they won all three from Hiller Motors.

TAKOMA

The Bureau of Standards boys at Takoma found the individual highs split between Jim Thomas, Engineers, and W. Heuer, Chemists, with respective totals of 145 and 345 with Thomas' team winning honors after a 588 game and 1610 set.

ARCADIA

It was all Herb Aldridge and his Hydrographic boys in the Navy Department meet at Arcadia, the team counting 656-1745 when Aldridge came through with a 154 single and 395 set, the team also winning three from opponents.

Nassau, Bahamas, March 16 (AP).—Bert Kelly's Gem and Harry Knowles' Sandy Mac won the eliminations today and will represent Nassau in the star class International Sailing Regatta March 24 to 30. Iowa U. Names Cage Co-Captains

Iowa City, Iowa, March 16 (AP).—Tom Chapman, of Storm Lake, Iowa, and Ben Trickey, of Marshalltown, Iowa, high-scoring forwards, today were named cocaptains of the University of Iowa 1942-43 basketball team. Chapman recently was named the team's "most valuable" player in the season just finished.

Robinson Loses 8-Round Decision

New York, March 16 (AP).—Aldo Spoldi, 138¼, New York, won six of the eight rounds tonight from Ernie (Cat) Robinson, 143¼, Jamaica, N. Y., and easily took the decision with a heavy body attack. A smashing right to the head cut Robinson's ear in the fifth.

Eagles Battle Olympic Six Here Tonight

Boston's fighting Irish, the Olympics, are to celebrate St. Patrick's night at Riverside Stadium tonight when they oppose their Eastern Hockey League nemesis, the Washington Eagles, in a United States Amateur Hockey Association championship playoff series game at 8:30 o'clock.

The Eagles will be shooting for their seventh consecutive victory on home ice, and will be favored to edge out a team they have beaten six times and tied once in ten starts this season.

Tonight marks the final 1941-42 appearance of the Olympics here, and will find them strengthened by the acquisition of several players brought in especially for the playoffs. Numbered among these is Gerry Bauer, youthful center and a brother of Bobby Bauer, formerly of the famous "kraut line" of the Boston Bruins.

That the Eagles and Olympics shape up as ideal St. Patrick's night opponents was evidenced last Saturday night as the Olympics turned back the Eagles in the locals' final 1941-42 Eastern League test in Boston, 4-2. No fewer than 14 penalties, three of them majors, were called in that game, which resolved itself into a rough-and-ready contest despite the efforts of Referee Herb Gallagher to keep the game under control.

Wingers Paul Courteau and Freddy Weaver, pet peeves of the Bostonians, will be on the firing line for the Eagles tonight. Al Baranowski, the Olympics' 215-pound defenseman who was badly injured his last time out locally when struck by a fan after crashing into the boards with Weaver, will return to the ice for Boston.

The Eagles hopped away to a flying start in the playoffs last Friday night when they shut out Johnstown, 3 to 0, and will be installed a championship favorite in the event they defeat Boston tonight.

The Eagles are to play Johnstown, Pa., a final visit to meet the Blue Birds in a playoff game tomorrow night, and on Friday night they return to Riverside for a United States championship series game with the newly crowned Eastern League titleholders, the New York Rovers.

Ahearn Announces Himself As New Uline Matchmaker

By Tony Neri

Goldie Ahearn succeeds Johnny Attell as boxing matchmaker at Uline Arena, it was announced last night. This startling piece of news was reported by none other than the great Goldie himself.

Ahearn, Washington's oldest boxing promoter and newest wrestling impresario, was named yesterday after the Uline management had stalled for three months on the naming of a successor to Attell, who was fired after staging only three shows.

Ahearn will now incorporate his duties as promoter de luxe of Uline's weekly rassling enterprises and as head of the boxing business, which Ahearn says will be staged every

Morris, G. W. Baseball Coach, Resigns Post

Edward K. Morris, who was instrumental in making baseball a fixture on George Washington University's athletic program, announced his resignation as head coach yesterday in a letter to Max Farrington, director of athletics.

Morris, president of the Federal Storage Co., a director of the Liberty National Bank, a board member of several corporations and a leader in the Red Cross War Fund Drive, resigned "due to commitments relative to the war program and the increased pressure of my own business."

The varsity squad has been working for a week under Vinnie DeAngelis and Arthur Zahn. Morris' successor will probably be named within a week.

A Williams College graduate, where he was a standout varsity diamonder, Morris has been a G. W. athletic booster for many years and mainly through his efforts the school added baseball to its program in 1933 when he took over as coach.

G. W.'s nine teams under Morris won 64 games and lost 39 and last year had their first losing season, winning nine and losing ten. His first team played all home games at night in Griffith Stadium.

Morris regretted he was unable to make the decision earlier, but was prevented from doing so by conditions beyond his control.

Master Key Scores Easily in Feature Purse at Tropical

Thompson's Smart Ride Pays $24.80

Present Arms Takes Place Money, With Silver Tower Third; Small Crowd Attends

By the Associated Press

Tropical Park, Fla., March 16.—Master Key, a New England campaigner flying the silks of B. A. Dario, scored his initial success of the winter in the Miami Springs Purse here this afternoon. Under a particularly energetic ride by Billie Thompson, one of the boys who figured in the four-horse spill here Friday, Master Key easily defeated nine other $4000-$3500 platers over the mile and a sixteenth distance and paid $24.80 for $2. He was timed in 1:44 2-5.

Charles S. Howard's Present Arms finished second, thus handing favorite players their sixth setback in as many races decided. The colt beat B. F. Lister's Silver Tower by a length and a half for the place. A crowd of 7012 was present as the new week of the sport got under way.

Master Key was slow reaching the first turn and had only the sluggish Rodin beaten at that point. When the field started the backstretch run, most of the ten horses were bunched and Thompson, making a daring move, shot the eventual victor through a narrow opening on the inside. Full of run, the Dario 5-year-old pounded to the front at the far turn and drew away steadily the remainder of the trip. Present Arms closed ground gamely through the last quarter mile, as did Silver Tower.

Big Tom Hanley Grapples Luttrall

A pair of seasoned grapplers—Cowboy Luttrall, the wild man from Texas, and Sheriff Tom Hanley, the 320-pound Oklahoman—yesterday were matched for a semiwindup bout on Thursday night's wrestling show at Turner's Arena.

They will tussle in support of the main attraction in which "Dynamite Gus" Sonnenberg, the former world's heavyweight champion, will seek his fourth straight of the season in a one-hour time limit bout against Ernie Dusek, the Nebraska Wildcat.

Hanley, one of the heaviest wrestlers to appear at the Arena in many a season, sprang a surprise last Thursday when he battled Pat Fraley, the popular West Coast Irishman, to a 30-minute draw. On the same card Luttrall lost to Dusek in the feature bout with one of his rough-house performances.

Alsab Gains Weight, 'Grows Up' for Derby

By the Associated Press

Miami, Fla., March 16.—Alsab, the streamlined race horse, is picking up weight for his supreme effort in the Kentucky Derby.

"He'll weigh 50 or 75 pounds more in the Derby than he did when he ran in the Widener March 7," Owner Al Sabath said today.

"He's filling out, and he's getting taller, too."

There was a lot of head-shaking among turfmen when the 2-year-old champion of 1941 reported for the winter campaign with only a few added pounds.

"I told you so," was the general comment after the colt was beaten in his first four starts as a 3-year-old at Hialeah Park.

But Sabath said that he was "not altogether disappointed" in Alsab's performance.

Alsab "Growing Up"

"You don't have any way of knowing when a horse will start growing," he explained. "After all, Alsab was foaled April 28, which is pretty late, and he's just late in filling out."

Sabath revealed that Jockey Basil James, one of the ablest in the business, will ride the horse in the Derby.

"He signed a contract the night of the Widener," Sabath said.

Alsab had failed previously under Wendell Eads; R. L. Vedder, who piloted him to his most notable 2-year-old triumphs, and Eddie Arcaro, leading stake rider of the year.

Alsab has been resting since the Widener. He will be shipped soon to Churchill Downs to begin active preparation for the Derby.

No plan of campaign has been mapped yet, Sabath said.

Hialeah Park Shows Half Of '41 Profit

By the Associated Press

Miami, Fla., March 16.—Directors of the Miami Jockey Club were told that profits from the 46-day horse race meeting at Hialeah Park were approximately half those of the 1941 season. Complete figures have not been compiled.

They voted a dividend of $1 a share on about 60,000 shares of common stock, and declared the regular $7 dividend on preferred stock.

The dividend on common shares was one-third that previously paid.

The reduction in profits was blamed on the loss to the State of the odd-cent breakage, decreased mutuel play and increased taxes.

$80,000 in Gifts

Directors approved contributions of more than $80,000 to be distributed in equal amounts among national relief organizations, such as the American Red Cross and Army and Navy charities, and local organizations, such as the Community Chest, the Crippled Children's Home and the blood bank.

Officers and directors all were reelected.

Joseph E. Widener, of Philadelphia, remains chairman of the board; John C. Clark, of Binghamton, N. Y., president, and Sam H. McCormick, of Coral Gables, secretary-treasurer.

Directors are Schofield Andrews, James H. Bright, George H. Bull, Clark, Russell A. Firestone, McCormick, Royce G. Martin, Edward C. Romph, Charles F. Shelden, B. L. Whitten, Warren Wright, Joseph E. Widener and P. A. B. Widener.

Brewers, Bears Play at Arena

The Washington Brewers, of the American League, and the Litchman Bears, unbeaten local colored five, will play their Saturday night and Sunday afternoon games for the District Pro Basketball championship before record crowds for consecutive contests at Turner's Arena.

Saturday night's game will start at 9 o'clock, with the Sunday battle set for 3:30 p. m.

Stanley Cup Series To Open March 22

New York, March 16 (AP).—The New York Rangers' management today announced the four-out-of-seven series of the Stanley Cup playoffs will open Sunday, March 22, at Madison Square Garden with the Toronto Maple Leafs opposing the Rangers. The New York club finished first and the Leafs second in the regular season competition.

The second game will be played in the Garden March 24, and the third and fourth at Toronto March 26 and 28.

Selections at Tropical Park.

Civil Code, a 2-year-old scheduled to start in today's first race, is one of three by Fair Trail in this country. Mrs. Charles (Seabiscuit) Howard owns Civil Code. The others are the property of Louis Mayer and Lou Rowan. The colt owned by Rowan has the odd name of "Maybe Monday." This colt got his name this way: Rowan was calling off possible names for the registration of his 1940 foals when he was interrupted by a phone call. After a brief period of listening, Rowan said, "Maybe Monday." His secretary, thinking that was another of the names, jotted it down on the list which she later mailed to the Jockey Club. Imagine Rowan's surprise when the Jockey Club returned the "registered names and there was the O. K. on "Maybe Monday." Jockey Eddie Arcaro is recuperating from that arm injury suffered in a spill last Friday. However, he will be out of action until late this month. Arcaro was lucky to escape more serious injury. Having taken first money in the Flamingo and the Widener, Eddie has plenty of fresh greens. John S. Weaver, the young photographer who sent those fine pictures out of Charles Town and Tropical Park, is now a second lieutenant in the United States Army Signal Corps and is stationed at Fort Bennings, Ga. He is a Martinsburg (W. Va.) boy. I had a letter from Florida and they tell me the wise boys down Miami way still bat their heads against a wall every time somebody mentions the finish of the $50,000 race. I'm looking for Jockey Noboy Jacobs to put in appearance any day now. He generally leaves Florida after Hialeah closes just as he leaves New York after Saratoga's meeting ends. I'm betting even money his first words will be "Ain't doing no good." Just 14 days to Bowie and only 59 days to Charles Town. See you on the rail.

BILL.

First race—Maiden juveniles occupy the opening position on the card and I believe CIVIL CODE will be first home. Leon Haas will do the booting and I see no reason for mistakes. The entry of THROUGH TRAIN and COCKAIGNE is formidable. HALCYON ROCK may be close.

Second race—CRIMSON LANCER may steal an early lead and stay on top of these. COMMIXON gets a good figure and deserves attention. TOAST for the minor money.

Third race—SON O'HAL has speed and turned in a good effort last out. PUTITTHERE belongs with this kind and is a dangerous contender. LAYAWAY should take down a portion of the purse money.

Fourth race—ARMY SONG likes this sprint route and has speed enough to make the most of the inside post position. VOTUM had poor racing luck last out and may make amends. ZACHARIAS for the show end.

Fifth race—CAL'S PET and A ONE did about everthing asked recently and figure to battle it out for the top money in this field. I prefer them in the order listed. SHIP'S RUN to take care of the others.

Sixth race—BEST SELLER needs only to run back to that excellent last to take care of these. YAWL is sharp as the proverbial tack. DISPLAYER belongs in the cash circle.

Seventh race—COFFEEMAN is better than generally rated and a victory in this field would not surprise me. STAR OF PADULA likes this track and will be in the thick of contention. WAUGH POP is long overdue.

Eighth race—KNIGHTFORS belongs on the top of this heap and needs only the right ride. CIRCUS WINGS and BUSY MAN to fill out the other money positions.

Best bet—ARMY SONG.

Walton Group Discusses Pollution, Fees

Special Dispatch to The Post

Frederick, Md., March 16.—Pollution of the Potomac River and cheaper fishing licenses for nonresident Potomac anglers were the chief topics discussed at the meeting of the regional council of the Izak Walton League of America at Brunswick yesterday. A committee was named to seek legislation in Maryland to set a minimum nonresident angler's license fee for Potomac fishing. It was suggested that the State establish Potomac River fishing on the same basis as that in force at Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County.

The purpose, it was explained, is to permit District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia anglers to fish the river without purchasing a regular Maryland nonresident license.

While pollution of the Potomac through Virginia tributaries was roundly denounced, the group agreed it would be unwise to bring pressure at this time on industries charged with fouling the streams. Many of the plants, it was explained, are engaged in war industry. It was agreed, however, that a thorough survey of conditions be made with a view to putting a halt to pollution immediately after the war emergency.

About 60 Izaak Walton League members from Frederick, Brunswick, Washington, Chevy Chase, Bethesda, Alexandria, Martinsburg, Hagerstown and Front Royal attended. Jack Stowell, Washington, presided, and talks were made by Dr. Lewis Radcliffe, a national councilman, and Jack Evans, regional secretary, both of Washington.

Whirly Gets Top Impost In Dixie 'Cap

By the Associated Press

Baltimore, March 16.—Whirlaway, the 1941 "horse of the year," was assigned top impost of 128 pounds in weights announced today for the 72 horses nominated for the $20,000 added, mile and three-sixteenths Dixie Handicap at Pimlico, May 6.

The Dixie, first important Eastern stake for older horses, is expected to provide Whirly his first shot of the year at the big money. The "Calumet Comet" remained idle in California after Santa Anita's meeting was canceled because of the war.

Belair Stud's Fenelon, also resting all winter, and C. S. Howard's Mioland, an also-ran in the Widener, were rated next to Whirlaway with burdens of 126 pounds.

W. L. Brann's Challedon, top-weighted in the Widener, drops 2 pounds for the Dixie and is bracketed with Lou Tufano's Market Wise and Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention at 124 pounds.

Pictor, Challedon's stablemate, is ranked next in line with 122 pounds, one more than Woodvale Farm's Our Boots and two more than the imported Australian horse, Reading.

Mrs. Albert Sabath's Alsab, 1941 juvenile champion, will carry 107 pounds if he goes in the Dixie, which is unlikely, as he has a date to run in the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes three days later.

The Rhymer, Mrs. Payne Whitney's surprise winner of the Widener, was not nominated for the Dixie, but Col. E. R. Bradley's Best Seller, but Col. E. H. Bradley's Best named and assigned 114 pounds.

A penalty of 3 pounds will be imposed on winners of $5000 after the weights are announced.

New Business Of Gen. Electric Tops 1.3 Billion

The General Electric Co. yesterday reported new business booked in 1941 totaled $1,132,837,258, a 73 per cent increase over the previous record total booked in 1940.

The shipments billed to customers, the company said, amounted to $679,333,760, a 65 increase over 1940 and 64 per cent over the previous record billing year of 1929.

Provision for all taxes last year, according to the company, was $144,978,000 as compared with $54,943,000 in 1940.

The apparatus and the radio and the television departments, the company said, scored the highest percentage of new business "because they were most affected by the tremendously expanded requirements for war equipment."

The net income for the year, as previously reported, was $57,200,000, equal to $1.98 a share on common stock, compared with 1940 net income of $56,200,000, or $1.95 a share.

Texas Co. Earns $51,874,681 in Year

New York, March 16 (AP).—Crude oil production of the Texas Co., President W. S. S. Rodgers said today, exceeded in 1941 the output of any previous year except the peak year of 1940.

Rodgers in his annual report to stockholders said the company had increased its facilities for producing high octane aviation gasoline and was making further additions for this purpose.

The company's consolidated net profit for 1941 was $51,874,681, equal to $4.77 a share of stock, compared with $31,547,662 in 1940, or $2.90 a share.

Rodgers said that during 1941 income was charged $7,000,000 for reserves for possible losses on foreign investments.

International Nickel Net Declines in 1941

New York, March 16 (AP).—The head of the International Nickel Co. of Canada today said his company, which has underway a $35,000,000 expansion program, would increase its 1942 production by 50,000,000 pounds of nickel over that of 1940.

Robert C. Stanley, chairman and president of the concern, said in a report to stockholders that although the supply of nickel available to the United States in 1941 had reached an all-time high it fell short of total demands.

The corporation reported 1941 net profit of $34,356,401, equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.22 a common share, compared with 1940 net profit of $35,544,772, or $2.30 a share.

Business Highlights

No Great Pinch in View

All estimates of the curtailment in consumer goods output this year point to a harsh prospect—much harsher than will actually prevail. True, any number of products will disappear entirely from dealers' shelves, and others will be in only scant supply. But there will be no widespread privation. The more urgent demands for most types of consumers' durable goods—automobiles, electric refrigerators, other home appliances and furnishings—have already been satisfied. Considering the long life of these products, consumers can "live on their inventories" for a long time ahead without much discomfort. It is not as if the blow had come after years of depression and on top of great unsatisfied demand. Instead, it comes after a veritable spending orgy. The very things slated to disappear are the very things we have been buying most freely.

Store Sales Gains to Narrow

Gains in department store sales will narrow in coming months, following the recent sharp rise. This extraordinary wave of buying is gradually tapering off, and with heavy temporary unemployment in plants converting to arms work and with income tax payment dates approaching, a further check on new buying is to be expected. Under the circumstances, department store sales for March may be little above those of March, 1941. Prospects for later months are not clearly defined, as much will depend on Government efforts to siphon off the increase in national income arising from war-stimulated prosperity. However, dollar sales of department stores for the first half of 1942 promise to run moderately above corresponding 1941 business.

Defense Bond Purchases

Although the Treasury is actively pushing the sale of Defense Savings Bonds, one trend has developed in connection with the campaign which is not entirely to the liking of the authorities—namely, the withdrawal of funds from savings accounts with which to purchase the bonds. This procedure, in effect, work at cross-purposes with the Treasury's financing program. Savings banks are beginning to feel the strain of these withdrawals, and continuation of the trend might impair the ability of these institutions to purchase open market offerings of new Government securities. The purchase of bonds from accumulated savings also runs counter to the Treasury's objectives in that it does not tap current earnings, which constitutes one of the most effective means of checking inflation.

Bituminous Coal Sales

Despite the reduced demand from civilian manufacturers and the fact that many defense industries have been operating at capacity for some time, lengthening hours and additions to plant facilities will probably keep the trend of coal consumption upward as long as the war lasts. Competition from other fuels has declined, while export demand is the best since 1926. Soft coal output in the March quarter may equal the 134,000,000 tons produced in the comparable year-earlier period, even though operations rose to capacity in March, 1941, as industrial consumers stocked in anticipation of the April strike. Although stocks are now near the record highs of 1927 and serious labor trouble appears unlikely, the threat of transportation difficulties or an oil shortage on the Atlantic Seaboard suggests that some further stocking may develop.

The Outlook

Treasury's Proposal Would Mean 16% Tax In 1942 on Incomes in the First Bracket

If the proposals made by the Treasury were to be enacted into law, here is briefly what the 1942 tax picture would look like. The normal income tax continues at 4 per cent. Exemptions for individuals likewise continue without change at $750 for a single person, $1500 for married persons and $400 for each dependent. The real bump is in surtax rates. On the first bracket of income about the personal exemption the combined normal and surtax rates will be 16 per cent, as compared with 10 per cent under the present law.

The rates then rise very sharply and reach 90 per cent on all incomes over $100,000. In other words, a person with an income of more than $100,000 will retain only 10 per cent of the excess, whereas under the existing law the maximum rate is 81 per cent and does not apply until income exceeds 5 million dollars.

The new program also provides for a withholding tax. This would simply be a means of collecting the income tax in advance. The way this would work is that a 10 per cent deduction would be made at the source upon wages, salaries, corporation dividends and interest. At the end of the year an individual would compute his tax and file his return in the usual manner. However, he would receive a credit against the tax due, for the amount withheld at the source.

In addition to this withholding, and in order to speed up tax collections still further, the suggested plan provides that all taxpayers must pay one-half of their 1942 tax on March 15, 1943, and the remaining half in installments thereafter. Under the present law only one-quarter of the tax is payable on March 15.

The Treasury renews its 1941 proposal of forcing husband and wife to file joint returns. Under the law, as it now stands, husband and wife can make joint returns or separate returns, whichever they think will give them the best tax results. Under the proposal, the filing of joint returns would be mandatory. However, if the wife has earned income, the joint tax will be so figured as to in effect tax that income separately.

The program also calls for a drastic increase in corporation taxes. The present corporate normal tax of 15 to 19 per cent on incomes under $25,000, and of 24 per cent for companies earning more than $25,000, is left unchanged. However, "something new has been added"—a "war surtax" of 16 per cent on corporations earning less than $25,000 and 31 per cent on all others, as against the present top surtax of 7 per cent. This means that corporations with incomes over $25,000 will pay a minimum tax of 55 per cent.

Excess profits taxes also go up. At present these tax rates range from 35 to 60 per cent. They will now be 50 to 75 per cent. On the other hand, the capital stock tax and the related declared value excess profits tax are dropped.

At present a corporation's maximum tax rate could reach 72.4 per cent. Under the proposed plan the rate would be 88.7 per cent. However, a corporation taxed over 80 per cent on any portion of its income may have the excess refunded after the war, if the refund is spent for new equipment or for additional employment of labor.

The new proposals also call for a complete change in the taxing of capital gains. Instead of the present double holding period of 18 months and 24 months, a single 18 months' holding period is substituted and the tax rate would be increased from the present 15 and 20 per cent to a rate of 30 per cent. Net capital losses will not be allowed as a deduction beyond $1000. However, a five-year carryover for the excess of capital losses over capital gains would be allowed.

Increased estate and gift taxes are proposed through a sharp rise in tax rates and a readjustment of exemptions. Today an exemption of $40,000 on life insurance is allowed and another general exemption of $40,000, or a total of $80,000. The new plan would allow only a single exemption of $60,000.

The $40,000 exemption on gifts would be reduced to $30,000 and the $4000 exclusion for each donee a year would be changed to a total of $5000 a donor a year.

New and increased special excise taxes on distilled spirits, gasoline, cigarettes, soft drinks, candy and other items are included in the program.

Suit Is Filed To Halt Sale Of Otis Steel

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, March 16.—A stockholder sued today to halt the scheduled April 24 vote on sale of Otis Steel Co. to Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation.

The Common Pleas Court suit was brought by Mrs. Jeanne P. Daus, of Shaker Heights in behalf of preferred stockholders. She claimed that under the plan to be submitted for approval, these stockholders would receive less than $105 a share which they agreed to accept when sale was first proposed.

The plan, as announced last week by President E. J. Kulas, of Otis, provides that preferred stockholders would receive for each of their shares: One quarter share each of lative preferred, Series A and B, Jones & Laughlin 5 per cent cumu- $100 par value; one share of Jones & Laughlin common, no par, and accrued dividends on Otis preferred.

In announcing the proposed sale of Otis to the Pittsburgh company, fourth largest in the industry, Kulas said the Cleveland concern had experienced "certain disadvantages" in competition with larger units.

Price Ceiling Planned On Rubber Drug Items

By the Associated Press

Manufacturers of rubber drug sundries, including essential hospital and medical items, were requested yesterday not to let prices rise above those in effect March 1.

The request by the Office of Price Administration was intended to keep prices stable pending an investigation preliminary to the establishment of a price ceiling.

OPA said that it was "essential that prices at all manufacturing and distributing levels reflect only increases which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of production."

Manufacturers contemplating any changes in quality standards were asked to consult with OPA before establishing prices on the altered articles.

Week's Bank Loans Increase $57,000,000

By the Associated Press

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks in 101 leading cities increased 57 million dollars in the week ended March 11.

In the cities this type of loan totaled 6959 million dollars and were 1585 million dollars larger than a year ago.

Expanded Demand Seen for Baked Goods

By Standard & Poor's Corporation.

Consumer demand for baked goods—particularly sweet goods—will expand this year, in reflection of the high level of purchasing power. However, while supplies of most raw materials are ample, production will be limited by restrictions on sugar consumption. Bread and staple cracker lines, of course, will be virtually unaffected by the shortage of sugar. And the adverse effects on the cake and pastry division can be alleviated by utilizing such substitutes as corn sugar, honey, and maple syrup, although available supplies of these commodities will be sufficient to provide only a partial offset. Some further relief can be obtained by eliminating unprofitable lines and those using large quantities of sugar.

Court Defers Electric Bulb Antitrust Case

By the Associated Press

Trenton, N. J., March 16.—Opening of the Government's antitrust suit against 12 leading firms in the electric light bulb industry was postponed today until Wednesday amid circumstances which led to speculation that the case might be settled, or at least deferred, until after the war.

Federal District Judge Phillip Forman announced the postponement from the bench after a conference in chambers with counsel for some of the defendant companies. He said the nature of the conference precluded any public announcement of the reason for the postponement.

The Government charged the companies with monopolistic practices in manufacture and sale of light bulbs, and asked cancellation of patent licensing agreements through which it alleged the companies fixed prices.

Defendant concerns included the General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., Corning Glass Works; American Blank Co., Corning, N. Y.; International General Electric Co., Inc., New York; Empire Machine Co., Portland, Me.; N. V. Philips' Gloeilampenfabrieken, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, and New York; Consolidated Electric Lamp Co., Danvers, Mass.; Hygrade Sylvania Corporation, Salem, Mass.; Ken-Rad Tube and Lamp Corporation, Owensboro, Ky.; Chicago Miniature Lamp Works and Tung-Sol Lamp Works, Newark.

Late Earnings Statements

Cooper-Bessemer, makers of Diesel engines, reported net profit of $1,050,457 for 1941. This amounted to $3.15 a share on common stock. In 1940, earnings were equal to $1.49 on a profit of $618,686.

Crosley Corporation reported net profit of $1,493,134 for 1941 after deduction for all charges and taxes. In 1940, the corporation reported a net loss of $1,589,288. President Powel Crosley, jr., said in a statement to stockholders that net sales during the year were more than ten million dollars above 1940, reaching $27,171,880.

Kennecott Copper Corporation and subsidiaries operated at record levels in 1941 and earnings attained the best figures ince 1937, E. T. Stannard, president, reported to the stockholders. Net income of $49,251,857 was equal to $4.55 a share on the capital stock, compared with $43,837,330, or $4.05 a share in 1940. Domestic production totaled 819,648,759 pounds of copper, an increase of 13.5 per cent over 1940 and highest in the company's history.

Columbian Carbon Co. reported for 1941 net income of $13,529,159, equal to $6.57 a capital share, compared with $3,068,799, or $5.71 a share, in 1940.

United Engineering & Foundry Co. is operating on a continuous, seven-day week schedule, in an all-out effort to meet demands for its products in the present emergency, George T. Ladd, president, told stockholders. Although many records were established in 1941, Ladd said an increase in taxes accounted for a drop in earnings from the preceding year. Net amounted to $3,309,297, equal to $3.96 a common share, against $3,726,460, or $4.47 a common share, in 1940. The company's total tax bill in 1941 was $4,667,000, nearly double the preceding year.

General American Transportation Corporation reported 1941 net profit of $3,905,635, equal to $3.75 a share on the common stock, against $4,242,405, or $4.11 a share, in 1940.

Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. reported for 1941 net profit of $1,261,502, equal to $10.97 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,677,794, or $14.47 a share, in 1940.

Food Prices Up 21.6%

Living Costs of Wage-Earners Show 10.6% Gain in Year

By the Associated Press

New York, March 16.—Living costs for wage earners and lower-salaried workers in the United States in February were 10.6 per cent higher than in the same month a year ago, the National Industrial Conference Board said today.

The board said living costs last February, however, were generally about 4.5 per cent below the boom-year levels of 1923 and 1929, but were the highest since 1930.

In the year between February, 1942 and February, 1941, the board said, food prices showed the greatest increase, 21.6 per cent, with clothing in second place, 15.6 per cent, while other percentages rises in the 12 months were:

Sundries, 4.8; fuel and light, 4.6; and housing 3.1.

Comparing February, 1942, with February, 1941, the board said:

Clothing showed the largest increase for the month, 2.5 per cent. The cost of gas and electricity remained unchanged. All the other items of the budget advanced less than 1 per cent, as follows: "Food, 0.6; sundries, 0.4; housing, 0.3 ;and coal, 0.1."

The board, using 100 in 1923 as a basis for its general index, showed the rise in living in the year between February this year and February a year ago as follows:

February (1941), 86.1; September, 90.8; October 92.0; November, 92.9; December 93.2; January (1942), 94.5; and February (1942), 95.2.

For the year 1929 the index was 100.1. It reached a peak of 118.2 in 1920, and held above the current level until 1930.

United Nations Get $417,000,000 Of U. S. Staples

By the Associated Press

Agricultural commodities costing $417,000,000 were delivered to United Nations representatives for lend-lease shipment during the nine months ended February 1, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

January deliveries were 435 million pounds at a cost of 50 million dollars.

Major commodities in the nine-month deliveries included:

Dairy products and eggs, 131 million dollars; meat, fish and fowls, 106 million dollars; lard, fat and oils, 30 million dollars; fruits and vegetables, 43 million dollars.

The deliveries also included grain and cereal products, concentrated fruit juices, vitamin concentrates, miscellaneous foodstuffs, and non-food agricultural commodities such as cotton, tobacco and naval stores.

Indianapolis Plans Gas Firm Purchase

Indianapolis, March 16 (AP).—City officials announced today the negotiation of an agreement for the purchase by the city of the property of the old Indianapolis Gas Co. at an approximate net cost of seven million dollars.

The transaction, if completed, would bring about complete municipal ownership of the gas utility and end prolonged litigation which started in 1935 when the city took over a part of the property under provisions of a public charitable trust.

Utility Rate Rise Seen if U. S. Taxes Go Still Higher

New York, March 16 (AP).—The Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, one of the largest utility operating companies in the country, will ask the Public Service Commission to increase service rates to offset any sharp boost in Federal income taxes that might prohibit a reasonable return on the company's investment, Lloyd L. Carlisle, chairman, said today.

Speaking at the annual stockholders' meeting, Carlisle said any such proposal as that recently advanced by Secretary Morgenthau for a 55 per cent normal tax would cost the company between ten million and 12 million additional taxes yearly.

Air Lines Find Rise in Revenue Offset by Costs

Huge increases in traffic volume and operating revenues on the nation's air lines in 1941 were offset by higher taxes and increased operating costs, leaving the industry with a lower net income than in 1940, according to almost complete figures now available.

Aggregate net income of 14 major lines in 1941 was $3,734,000, after taxes, against net income of $4,572,000 in the preceding year, a decrease of 18.3 per cent. For the same companies a compilation by Brooks Earnings Indicator shows a rise of 18.6 per cent in gross last year to a total of $86,689,000.

In spite of the aggregate decrease in net, three of the lines showed gains over the preceding year. American Air Lines reported net income of $2,473,000 against $1,859,000; Eastern Air Lines showed net of $1,610,000 against net of $1,575,000, and Northwest Airlines showed net of $359,000 against $202,000. Three other companies showed net income for the year but less than 1940, while the other lines had increased deficits for the year.

For the industry as a whole operations showed numerous gains. Revenue plane miles totaled 126,205,000, a rise of 20.4 per cent; revenue passenger miles at 1,309,343,000 were up 30.6 per cent; seat miles operated reached 2,186,542,000, a gain of 26.8 per cent, and the load factor was 59.9 per cent, against 58.2 per cent in 1940.

Steel Production Sets Another Peak

New York, March 16 (AP).—For the third week in succession steel output of American mills will be at a new peak totaling 1,663,000 tons and operating at 97.9 per cent of capacity, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

This was an increase of .5 of 1 per cent over preceding week when production amounted to 1,654,500 tons.

Army Boxer Threatens Kenner Streak

A 200-pound Army lad who served in Hawaii and at present is stationed at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., will attempt to stop the winning streak of Jabbo Kenner, the 220-pound Washington heavyweight, in next Monday night's eight-round feature bout at Turner's Arena.

He is Marty Clark, who is known as Fort Hamilton's heavyweight champion and whose record shows he has beaten Henry Cooper and Jack Marshall, two fair-to-middlin' fighters.

Clark was signed up to replace "Big Joe" Carilli, who pulled out of the show after the death of his mother in Hartford.

Gabe Menendez, Joe's matchmaker, returned with Clark's signature yesterday after a three-day trip to New York for the express purpose of signing up talent for the Monday and future boxing shows. Menendez states that Clark has been recommended by bouts by Mike Jacobs, Madison Square Garden promoter, and Jimmy Johnston, manager of Bob Pastor, and Bill McCarney, well-known boxing figure.

At the same time it was announced that Bill Duffy, a former Villanova welterweight and Golden Gloves fighter now with Gene Tunney's vast army of "physical ed" Navy lads, had been booked for a special match. Duffy was introduced recently at the Arena. He has an impressive college and amateur record.

The supporting eight between Carl (Red) Guggino, of Hartford, and Abbie Kaufman, of Philadelphia, and the six between Gus Mirman, local light-heavyweight, and Otis Harris, of Washington, will stand up as previously scheduled.

tournament. This tallest team averages 6 feet 6 inches and lost a thrilling overtime game to L. I. U., 58 to 56, in their Garden debut earlier this season. The Buffs' only other loss was by three points to Bradley Tech and left their record at 28 out of 30 games.

Nineteen of their 30 games were played on the road and their point total has reached 2127 for a 70-point average, second highest in the country. Three times this season the team has piled up 100 or more points in a single game. All members of the starting quintet have tallied over 200 points, topped by Price Brookfield's 507.

Creighton University shared the Missouri Valley Conference crown for the second straight year, winning 17 games and losing four. Their game with the Texans pits the second best offensive team in the country against the best defensive unit. Creighton has held opponents to an average of only 31 points per game and 13 of its 21 foes were held to 30 points or less. The Bluejays are paced by Ralpn Langer, with 232 points. He broke the ten-year conference mark for one game with 31 points against Drake.

Repass off third. The ball went past Third Baseman Vaughan, and Repass ambled home with the fifth run of the inning.

They picked up a gift run in the fourth after Croucher led off with a single, Drake attempted a double play at first after catching Zinser's bunt, and threw wild, Croucher moving to third whence Case scored him with a fly to deep left.

Big Hugh Casey pitched the last five innings for the Dodgers and the Nats tagged him for their last four runs. They came up with two in the fifth after Early drew a walk, Galle, Croucher and Kennedy moved the runs home with singles. In the ninth, big Roberto Ortiz doubled to the left-field wall and, with two out, Early, Galle and Repass bashed out singles to get two runs home.

Pitcher Jack Wilson suffered a painful spike wound on his left heel before the game today when he collided with Pitcher Arnold Anderson in practice. . . . The long gash bled freely and may keep Wilson out of action for perhaps a week. . . . It is a blow to the training routine of the big pitcher who gains weight easily. . . . Rookies Bob Repass and Stan Galle played their positions today in a manner that left nothing to be desired by Manager Bucky Harris. . . . Repass contributed his daily super play when he grabbed a carom shot off Kennedy's glove and turned it into a force play. . . . Manager Harris made overtures to Larry McPhail in an attempt to buy Catcher Angelo Giuliani from the Dodgers only to learn the catcher is now the property of Minneapolis. . . . So the Nats will talk terms with the latter club. . . . Big Roberto Ortiz rationed himself to two bases on his long drive against the left-field wall in the ninth inning. . . . For no reason at all he stood at the plate and watched the ball hit the fence before deciding to run. . . . One ex-Detroit infielder robbed another ex-Detroit infielder of a hit when Frank Croucher drifted into centerfield for Charley Gelbert's Texas leaguer in the seventh inning. . . . Tomorrow the Nats move back to Tinke. Field for another game with the Dodgers in an attempt to make it six straight wins.

Camp Lee Nine Prepares for Service Play

By the Associated Press

Richmond, Va., March 16.—The nine-team Inter-Service Baseball League, of which Camp Lee is a charter member, will open its round-robin system of competition on Sunday, May 31. Each team will meet every other contender on home-and-home basis during the season.

Camp Pendleton, Fort Story, Norfolk Naval Hospital, Naval Air Station, Norfolk Navy Yard, Marine Barracks and Camp Lee will battle for the baseball championship trophy.

Regular scheduled games will be played on Sundays at 2 p. m., and on Wednesdays and Saturdays at 5 o'clock. In case of a tie in the final standings a playoff will be arranged to settle the championship.

Candidates for the Camp Lee team will report to Sergt. Preston Beaver, manager, today. Work on the spacious athletic field at Camp Lee is now in progress and was expected to be completed shortly. Before entering the service, Manager Beaver, an alumnus of West Chester (Pa.) State Teachers' College, coached at Kenwood High in Baltimore.

Camp Lee also plans an elaborate nonleague schedule with colleges, professional and strong semipro clubs. The Yellow Jackets will be played at Randolph-Macon on March 25 and at Camp Lee on April 23. Naval Training Station is booked at Norfolk on May 20 and at the nearby camp on May 24 in pro-league contests.

Ahearn Becomes Uline Matchmaker

The new matchmaker, a former boxer in the A. E. F. of World War I, claims to have promoted the first boxing show in Washington.

Others Considered

In the last month the Uline management has examined the applications of many would-be matchmakers, prominently among which were Eddie Mead, former manager of Henry Armstrong, triple crown holder, and Paul Damski, manager of the sensational light-heavyweight fighter Johnny Colan.

Ahearn has been considered the first choice of Mike Uline, arena owner, and of Lee Perrin, general manager, but the pair were not anxious to name Ahearn because the Uline Arena would have to finance the boxing setup. In their arrangement with Attell and Ray Alvis, who promoted last spring, the arena was rented on a percentage basis.

With Ahearn in control, the Uline management will back his shows and be responsible for the profits and losses.

When Ahearn made the modest announcement yesterday of his new post, he said: "I plan to put boxing where it was before. When Turner and I (Joe Turner, now a rival promoter) were staging fights before, we made a lot of money and we gave the public good shows. I am going to continue that policy at Uline. All the fights will be good, and I plan to develop some local talent. There's still some good fighters here and I'm going to give them the best break possible."

No definite date has been set for his first show, but Goldie said he would try to stage it in two weeks or three at the latest.

With Ahearn back in the boxing game, Washington will have two active promoters, Joe Turner being the other one. It is improbable that the two former partners will shower any of their love to each other, but it should make for some good, clean competition, which will undoubtedly make for better shows.

Ahearn announced that he planned to promote throughout the summer at Uline. He said the arena is air-cooled, and that it would be ideal for summer fights. Turner stages his summer shows in the ball park.

Brownies Hurt

Deland, Fla., March 16 (AP).—Minor injuries to their feet are keeping Walt Judnich and Roy Cullenbine, St. Louis Browns' outfielders, on the shelf temporarily.

They didn't take part in today's strenuous drill, which kept Conrad Field swarming with players as the Brownies had an open date but no rest. Judnich and Cullenbine are the only players casualties thus far.

Pointers to Levy

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16 (AP).—The New York Yankees had an open date today and Joe McCarthy took the opportunity of showing big Ed Levy, rookie first baseman from Kansas City, some of the finer points of the game.

Levy, not even signed to a Yankee contract, was a mere understudy to Buddy Hassett when the training began and saw little service. Then the former Bostonian suffered a leg injury and Levy took over and batted .393. Before he was hurt, Hassett was hitting .083. Both are trying for the spot vacated by Johnny Sturm's enlistment.

2d Brother, F. I. duPont, Dies in Week

By the Associated Press

New York, March 16.—Francis Irenee duPont, 68, senior partner in the New York brokerage house of Francis I. duPont & Co. and Chisholm & Chapman and one of the Nation's outstanding research chemists, died tonight.

He was a former vice president and director of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., chemical manufacturers.

His brother, Archibald M. L. duPont, died last Thursday at Montchann, Del.

The holder of more than 100 patents, Francis I. duPont was best known for his researches in the field of smokeless powder and for his development of the minerals separation process, popularly known as the "sink-and-float" process. Patents on the latter were bought by E. I. duPont de Nemours in 1936.

Entered Wall Street

DuPont entered the financial field in 1931, founding the firm of Francis I. du Pont & Co. By so doing he became the first member of the duPont family to go into business under his own name in Wall Street.

He began working as a chemist for the E. I. du Pont Co. upon his graduation from Yale in 1895, entering the company's Carneys Point smokeless powder works. Later he became superintendent of the plant.

In 1903 he established and became the first director of the E. I. du Pont Co.'s research and experimental station. In 1917 he built his own experimental laboratory, incorporated as the Delaware Chemical Engineering Co.

His Firm Made Fuses

There he developed processes leading to the organization of the Ball Grain Explosives Co., which made fuses in the First World War.

Du Pont organized the investment firm during the depression and became a member of the New York Stock Exchange and of numerous other exchanges. Subsequently he relinquished some of those memberships.

He leaves his wife, the former Marianna Rhett, of Charleston, S. C.; seven children, a sister and three other brothers.

300 Enemy Aliens Are Interned At Fort Meade

More than 300 enemy civilians and seamen were interned yesterday in the big 3-acre stockade at Fort Meade, Md., The Post learned.

A score of the prisoners were Italians, the balance being divided about equally between Germans and Japanese. Most of those interned were civilians, though the total included German and Italian merchant officers and sailors believed to have been taken when their ships were seized last summer.

First enemy aliens to be installed in the stockade built last December, they will occupy but a small part of the tent and messhall accommodations for 2000. They will be kept under heavy guard behind a high double-wire fence which is floodlighted at night. Many similar camps were in use in the United States during World War I.

Marines to Accept Married College Men as Officers

Married men now will be accepted by the Marine Corps for training to be officers, the Navy Department announced yesterday.

College graduates who are over 20 and under 26 may be accepted for three months' training courses leading to commissions at second lieutenants. Previously, applicants had to be under 25, single and just completing their college work.

Men accepted are sent to school at Quantico, Va., for three months as privates, first class.

Man Found Dead In Lincoln Park

Robert E. Weaver, 46, of 426 Kentucky Avenue Southeast, was found dead in Lincoln Park, Eleventh and East Capitol Streets, last night by a passerby. The body was identified at the city morgue by Mrs. Margaret B. Collins, 1000 Massachusetts Avenue Northeast, a sister of the dead man.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, coroner, was to perform an autopsy to determine the cause of death. Police said no marks of violence were found on the body.

Airport Bill Gets Approval Of D. C. Heads

Hearings on the Randolph bill to place the Washington National Airport within Virginia will continue tomorrow before a House District subcommittee, with the indorsement of the District Commissioners written over the measure.

Commissioner Guy Mason told the subcommittee yesterday that the bill has been favored because it is desired to conclude the boundary controversy. The District realizes little revenue from the airport and under the existing controversy policing of the terminal is a problem, he said.

A bill, identical in intent, has been passed by the Virginia House of Delegates.

Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, also indorsed the Randolph bill before the subcommittee yesterday.

Under consideration by the fiscal affairs subcommittee, besides the Randolph bill, is a measure sponsored by Representative Nichols (Democrat), of Oklahoma, which would draw the District line entirely around the airport.

Representative Nichols declared yesterday that the air terminus should be included within the territory of the National Capital because 14 million dollars in Federal funds has been invested in it and at present two-thirds of the field is within the District proper.

Representative Smith (Democrat), of Virginia, and Charles R. Fenwick, member of the Virginia House of Delegates from Arlington County, appeared in behalf of the Randolph bill.

Representative Smith declared Virginia would never consent to the sale of liquor at the airport. He declared that while the State might be willing to reach a "compromise" with the District over airport tax revenues, it would never permit the District government to "get a foothold in Virginia."

Representatives of airlines using the airport will testify when the subcommittee convenes at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Housewives Dance to Keep Fit for Victory

Nearly 25 women in the Southeast section of the city are bending every effort to streamline themselves for the Nation's war effort. They exercise twice a week and besides bending do a little folk dancing on the side.

The group, who have dubbed themselves the "Women's Keeping Fit with Fun Class," meet on Monday and Thursday evenings in the Friendship Settlement House, 619 D Street Southeast. Despite their name they are really serious about it. Everyone should be in the best physical shape possible these days, they say.

To such tunes as "The Cuckoo Waltz" and "The Tinker Polka" these housewives gyrate in fancy square dances and Virginia Reels. Mrs. Lorean Wiltrout, a settlement worker, is in charge of dancing. Instructing in exercises are Miss Bea Bassin and Mrs. Mary Lary. The idea, they say, is to establish a basic set of exercises so the women may do them at home daily.

Since the course was begun several months ago the women have lost many excess pounds. Besides exercise they study diet and health charts. This summer the group will go on hikes and swimming parties.

A Great Day: Irish To Launch Doyle

Seattle, March 16 (AP).—The destroyer Doyle will be launched five weeks ahead of schedule tomorrow because Irish shipyard workers wanted it dunked in the green on St. Patrick's Day.

The fighting craft was named for a fighting son of Erin who served as a gunner with Lieut. Stephen Decatur at Tripoli in 1804.

And Mrs. Clarence Maloney, wife of a gunner, will bust a bottle on the Doyle.

Destroyer Hits Water

Orange, Tex., March 16 (INS).—Another destroyer was added to the U. S. fleet today when the Charles L. Ausburne slid down the ways following its formal christening by Mrs. W. H. Cotten, of Baton Rouge, La. The destroyer was the second to be launched from among 12 under construction in Orange.

State Domicile Upheld in D. C. Tax Dispute

Persons who work here but "adequately" maintain their domicile in one of the States were declared yesterday to be immune from District taxes.

The United States Court of Appeals here sustained the position of former Representative Carroll L. Beedy, now a Washington attorney, who refused to pay a District income tax and was then ordered to do so by the Board of Tax Appeals.

Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner wrote the opinion, in which he and Justices Fred Vinson and Henry W. Edgerton extended to private citizens the protection of "State domicile" which the court previously granted Government employes.

88-Cent Tax Involved

The prior decision upheld James J. Sweeney, a Department of Justice lawyer, who refused to pay a District tax of 88 cents on intangible personal property. Sweeney said that although he had been in Washington a number of years, he lived here only because he was in the Federal service. Sweeney considered himself a resident of Boston, where he had a home and was a qualified voter.

Chief Justice Groner referred to the Sweeney decision in discussing the similar facts set up by Beedy, who said he has a room in Portland, Me.; owned a farm nearby, where he lived in summer, paid all Maine taxes and voted in the Maine elections. Mr. Beedy recalled that when he retired from Congress he announced that he planned to practice in Washington for several years because he would be able, in the Capital, to earn larger fees and lay up something for his old age.

Under such circumstances, said the Court, the Board of Tax Appeals ought to hold a citizen a resident of the State where he votes exempt from paying taxes here.

Keech Studies Decision

The chief justice found no conflict between this view and the recent Supreme Court decision in the Murphy case. Henry C. Murphy, a Treasury employe, lost a fight against paying the District income tax, claiming he was domiciled in Detroit. The Supreme Court ruled, in that case, that the Board of Tax Appeals had power to decide domicillary questions.

However, said Chief Justice Groner, such a decision of the board must be according to the law and the evidence, and the evidence in the Beedy case required a ruling in his favor.

Beedy presented his own appeal, in collaboration with Attorney Warren R. Magee.

Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech said last night that he was studying the decision to determine whether there ought to be an appeal to the Supreme Court.

3 D. C. Banks Must Pay Bill For Ghost CCC

Three Washington banks yesterday were ordered to pay more than $100,000 of the cost of the CCC ghost camp which was operated for four years by Reno E. Stiteley, former Interior Department voucher clerk.

Stitley has been in the penitentiary four years, serving a 6-to-12 year term for forgery.

When the first CCC camps were being set up, Stiteley was a young clerk, barely out of his 'teens. He conceived the design of establishing a paper camp.

Choosing an attractive locale in Virginia, Stiteley proceeded to commission the place, with a full complement of enrollees, foremen and others, whose records he kept in perfect order—with promotions, sick leaves, disciplinary orders and other details.

Although the camp existed only in Stiteley's records, its payroll vouchers were honored for several years. Stiteley took the checks himself, and cashed them. With the proceeds he bought a house, gave costly parties, played the stock market and took luxurious trips. He told his envious colleagues he had a rich aunt.

Sued by the Government were three banks which presented the forged checks to the Treasury, as follows: Washington Loan & Trust Co., $29,334; Columbia National Bank, $48,602 and Riggs National Bank, $3964. They were ordered by the District Court yesterday to repay this money, with interest.

The banks have a right to sue Stiteley—but when he was sent to jail he claimed he was broke.

McNutt Asks 3 Millions For Nurseries

Three million dollars to establish nursery centers for children of mothers working in war industries has been asked of the Budget Bureau by Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, he yesterday told the Children's Bureau Commission holding a three-day conference on child wartime needs.

Reports from the field reveal that that war already has made changes in the lives of America's children and many more upheavals are to be expected this year, when the Nation's birthrate will be one of the highest in history, he declared.

"Everybody is 'for' children," Administrator McNutt said. "The only trouble is to get people to realize now is the time for action, if we are to serve their best interests during the war period."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will address the session this morning on "Importance of Meeting Children's Needs."

Dr. Martha Eliot, associate chief of the Children's Bureau, said funds for construction of child centers and nursery schools are available under the Lanham Act and that the $3,000,000 asked by Administrator McNutt for the most part would go into servicing them.

"We hope to assist in training some of the workers for these centers," Dr. Eliot declared, pointing out the bureau felt it important to keep control of the centers in community or State hands "rather than in those of factories employing the mothers" and that the groups of children should be kept to not more than 25 "to insure better care."

"Probably the term 'center' is misleading," she said, "for we certainly do not wish thousands of children brought together like this nor do we wish mothers to have to travel long distances to deliver the children."

The bureau will endeavor to prevent States from ordering children into agricultural work to take the places of older persons drained to industrial centers, she said, expressing hope that youngsters under 15 will not be used on the farms.

"We might eventually have to visualize children working at 13 and 14, but conditions now do not justify this," she said.

From many regions, the bureau said in a statement given out at the conference, are coming in reports of wartime increases in juvenile delinquency both among boys and girls. Schoolboys are working at night in many a local poolroom, and adolescent girls are holding jobs in cheap honky-tonks, where they are subjected to grave moral risks, it was declared.

Consideration will be given at the conference to suggestions for allotments and allowances for soldiers' families, according to the statement, which said the Nation "is facing a situation in which it is to our interest more than ever that the population be maintained and enlarged."

825 Millions For Navy Asked By Roosevelt

President Roosevelt late yesterday asked Congress for another $825,924,000 for the Navy, more than half of which would go to expand Navy aviation.

The request was made in a letter to House Speaker Rayburn. Without disclosing any details, it asked that $700,924,000 of the fund be in cash and the rest in contract authorization.

Large items included were:

Expansion of naval aviation and expediting production of naval aircraft, 470 million dollars; naval ordnance and ordnance stores, $183,692,000; construction of vessels and shore facilities for the Coast Guard, 21 million dollars; naval repair facilities, 25 million dollars; naval emergency fund, 10 million dollars; pay for the Marine Corps, $4,756,000; and provisions and transportation, Marine Corps, $9,395,000.

Defeated twice in the House in efforts to get millions of dollars to distribute among workers temporarily dislocated due to conversion of plants to war purposes, President Roosevelt also asked Congress yesterday for nine million dollars for the Federal Security Administration.

The money, he said in a letter to Speaker Rayburn, would be used to train 200,000 workers for war industry jobs.

Several weeks ago, the President asked for 300 million dollars for that purpose. It was rejected by the House Ways and Means Committee on the ground that a clause in the proposal would permit the Federal Security Administration to take over the State unemployment compensation agencies and the $2,500,000,000 they have in reserve funds.

Again the President asked 100 million dollars, this time for the WPA to use to distribute among the dislocated workers. It was defeated by the House Appropriations Committee.

Yesterday's request was referred to the House Appropriations Committee.

Little Girl Dies Of Burns; Dress Fired by Heater

Katherine Lorrain Baggett, 9, died yesterday in Casualty Hospital of burns suffered Saturday when her dress caught fire as she stood in front of a gas heater at her home, 1236 K Street Southeast.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baggett, who were out of the house looking for work at the time, Katherine is survived by them and nine brothers and sisters, two of whom heroically tried to save the girl from the flames.

Woman Seeks Survivors of Boat Tragedy

MRS. LEONORA ROWLES

Did You Go to Sunday School With Her?

A 79-year-old Washington woman who believes she would have died at the age of 10 but for a strange dream her mother had, yesterday asked The Post to help her locate—if they still live—any members of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Sunday School of 1873, the year of the tragedy she escaped.

What Mrs. Leonora Fowler Rowles, of 3104 Mount Pleasant Street, escaped as a child of 10 was—more than probably—death on the fire-swept riverboat Wawaset, one of this region's renowned tragedies which took 85 lives.

Mrs. Bowles, member of the Sunday school, had prepared the night of August 7 for the boat ride down the river with her Sunday school class on the following day. The class picnic, she remembered, was to have been held at Marshall Hall. The next day her mother forbade her going, on the strength of a dream she'd had about the boat, it was recalled.

Mrs. Bowles said yesterday that the strangeness and narrowness of her escape from the tragedy had bothered her the remaining 69 years. She believed she is the last survivor of the ill-fated Sunday school class.

God's Work Stands Firm, Cleric Says

Some things are crumbling in the world today because they ought to crumble, the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, widely-known radio preacher, said yesterday at a special Lenten service in Epiphany Episcopal Church, 1317 G Street Northwest.

"When you try to build a twentieth century science on the ethics of a cave man," he declared, "something sooner or later is bound to give way." But, he said, let it never be forgotten that the things which are tumbling apart are only the things men have made and not what God has made.

Dr. Sizoo will speak at 12 noon daily through Friday at Epiphany.

In other special services held yesterday in celebration of the opening of the fifth week of Lent, Dr. Grace L. Patch addressed Lenten Southeast churches in the Penn Theater, 650 Pennsylvania Avenue Southeast. Dr. Paul Douglass, American University president, will speak there at 12 noon today.

City-wide Lutheran Lenten services were held last night in Grace Lutheran Church, Sixteenth and Varnum Streets Northwest, with Dr. P. O. Bersell, of Minneapolis, as guest preacher.

The Rev. Dr. Peter Marshall, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will address the Federation of Churches' Lenten services tomorrow at 5 p. m. at Epiphany Church, and Lenten vespers at George Washington University the same day at 8 p. m.

Assembly Line To Produce 200 Freighters

By the Associated Press

A tremendous new contract calling for the construction of 200 Liberty cargo ships by means of a secret adaptation of the automobile industry's assembly line technique was announced last night by the Maritime Commission.

A new shipyard, equivalent to 28 conventional shipways, will be built near New Orleans and the 200 ships, each of 10,500 deadweight tons, are all to be completed before the end of 1943. The contract was signed with Higgins Industries, Inc., of New Orleans.

At the same time the Commission announced the award of a contract to the W. A. Bechtel Co. of San Francisco for a six-way shipyard at Sausalito, in the San Francisco Bay area, and the construction of 34 Liberty ships in it.

Officials said that the two contracts involved an expendtiure of over 400 million dollars, but were unable to break down the total as between the two contracts. They said the Maritime Commission would buy all the materials, and pay the labor, and that the companies would receive a fee for their work.

The exact way in which the assembly line method of mass production will be adapted to the New Orleans plant was a military secret, officials said. They added, however, that ships would be turned out at a much faster clip than at the famous Hog Island shipyards near Philadelphia during World War No. .

The shipyard near New Orleans is being built in pursuance of a policy to scatter yards all along the Nation's coasts, they said. This, it was explained, reduces congestion in transportation and housing, taps widely separated sources of labor and materials and avoids placing "all our eggs in one basket" in case of enemy raids.

The contracts bring the total of Liberty vessels thus far ordered by the Maritime Commission since February, 1941, to 1456. The ships are equipped with reciprocating engines are are of simplified design.

All of the contracts awarded tonight are to be completed before December 31, 1943.

St. Patrick To Be Honored Here Today

St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland, will be remembered in wartime Washington today and thousands will pay him homage with a round of parties, dinners and dances.

The Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore and Washington, will pontificate at a solemn high mass at 10:30 a. m. in St. Patrick's Church, Tenth and G Streets Northwest.

This will be the first time the prelate has officiated here at a St. Patrick's Day mass. The Rev. John J. Reilly, director of the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, will preach at the ceremony. At 10 a. m., before the service, the Rev. Timothy MacCarthy, chaplain, will lead a possession of Hibernians from Carroll Hall, adjoining the church.

On the less serious side will be a round of parties, dinners and dances celebrating the holiday. Biggest "green" affair of the day will be the draft lottery starting at 6 p. m. in the Interdepartmental Auditorium.

Representative Luther Patrick will speak at the Roger Smith Hotel before a dinner of the American Irish Defense Association. A program of Irish music has been arranged.

Other events scheduled for tonight are:

The Massachusetts State Society of Washington's annual St. Patrick's Day dance at the Wardman Park Hotel at 10 p. m.

An Iowa State Society dance at Hotel Shoreham.

The United Irish Club's annual ball at the Kennedy-Warren Hotel at 9 p. m.

The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick dinner at Hotel Mayflower at 7:15 p. m.

Board of Trade Approves Mall Dormitories Plan

The executive committee of the Washington Board of Trade yesterday voted approval of President Roosevelt's plan to erect temporary dormitories on the Mall, and also indorsed its traffic committee's recommendation that the parking authority not be placed under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission.

In seconding the dormitory plan, the committee pointed out that the lodging problem demands prompt attention; that a large part of the increased population is temporary; that location of Government workers close to their offices would ease the transportation crisis, and that in the interests of speed and economy the utilization of park area for housing is justified.

In speaking for the independent control of the parking agency, the committee felt this would effectuate uniformity in Governmental policy with respect to motor-parking problems.

Contract Bridge

This question concerns the play of today's hand. You hold the North cards at a four-heart contract and East opens the spade jack. West cashes three top spades and then shifts to a small trump. Declarer plays the jack, which wins, and then leads a small trump to dummy's king. East shows out on the second trump lead. Carry on from this point so as to take the rest of the tricks; the solution is presented below:

Today's Hand

Both Sides Vulnerable

SOUTH DEALER

NORTH: ♠764 ♡AJ10752 ◇QJ ♣KJ

WEST: ♠AKQ ♡Q986 ◇863 ♣752

EAST: ♠J1093 ♡3 ◇7542 ♣8643

SOUTH: ♠852 ♡K4 ◇AK109 ♣AQ109

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: J ♠.

The Solution

Declarer wins his game by executing a grand coup, capturing West's otherwise winning trump honor by forcing him to under-ruff. After the second trump lead, declarer had four hearts remaining; West still held two. Declarer saw that he could set up the coup situation if he could eliminate two trumps so as to hold the same amount as the adversary.

He cashed dummy's two top diamonds and then ruffed the winning diamond ten in the closed hand. Dummy was reentered with a club and another high diamond was trumped, leaving West and North with two hearts each. A second club was led from North and overtaken on the board. Dummy's last club was then played through West's queen, small of trumps toward declarer's ace, ten tenace and West was forced to forfeit both trumps. North made his four-heart contract, giving up only three top spades.

ODD BODKINS — BY FRED FOX and CHASE CRAIG

I'M THE ONLY LIVIN' MAN WHO KNEW SIR ECHO! HE WAS A DANGED SMART FELLER! TOLD ME ONCE NOT TO GO NEAR JIMTOWN. I LAUGHED AT HIM!
CRACKER
I WENT TO JIMTOWN, GOT RUN OVER BY A MULE TEAM, FELL IN A WELL, LOST MY WALLET AND TORE MY BEST SUIT — ALL IN ONE DAY!
WHEN HE TOLD FOLKS TO DO THINGS AND THEY DIDN'T DO 'EM, THINGS HAPPENED! AFTER HE DIED, WE PUT HIM IN A WOODEN BOX, TO BURY HIM IN BLIZZARD GULLY!
THEN WHAT HAPPENED?
WE HEARD HIS VOICE SAY: "TAKE THE LID OFF," AND WHEN WE DID — HE WASN'T IN THE BOX!

Columbia network's hilarious version of night life under the Ninth Avenue Elevated—"Duffy's Tavern"—celebrates St. Patrick's Day by moving to a new time and day. You will be hearing it over WJSV and the Columbia network Tuesday nights from now on from 9 to 9:30 p. m. Eastern War Time.

The Tuesday spot taken by "Duffy's Tavern" has been occupied by "We, the People," for which new plans are to be announced soon.

"Duffy's Tavern," with Ed Gardner as the harassed counterman who is always answering the phone with "Archie speaking, Duffy ain't here," has been acclaimed as one of the radio's most successful new comedy shows. The series was created by Gardner, who writes and produces the program as well as playing the leading role, "Archie."

One of the most important characters in the cast has never spoken a single audible word since the inception of the series. He is "Duffy," the tavern's owner, who always phones Archie to make complaints about everything in general.

Miss Duffy will be none other than Shirley Booth, Mrs. Gardner in real life and star of the Broadway hit, "My Sister Eileen." Harry von Zell will continue to play himself as announcer—unless he acquires some of that "dese and dose" talk from Archie.

Music for the program will be supplied by Teddy Wilson and his band, now being featured at the popular club, Downtown Cafe Society, in New York City.

The Post Radio Highlights

5:30, WINX—What's Cooking? This refers not to culinary delights, but to what's going on in Washington for service men and newly arrived Government employes.

6, WRC, WOL, WJSV, WWDC—Another Selective Service Drawing—our first at war. Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey makes the brief talk before the drawing of the first numbers. WINX takes over at 6:15.

8, WMAL—St. Patrick with a dash of Rhumba! Xaviar Cugat gives out with "The Irish Washerwoman"—giving her a swivel-hipped Conga.

8:30, WJSV—Amos 'n' Andy don't often make calls on people, but they allow as how as their fourteenth radio anniversary is nearing, they might look in on Bob Burns.

9, WJSV—Duffy's Tavern, appropriately enough, chooses St. Patrick's Day to move to its new spot, taking over that held by the late We, the People.

9, WWDC—And the Hillbilly Band from E. R. T. C., Fort Belvoir, also have notions on how to spend St. Pat's Night.

9:30, WOL—Donald M. Nelson.

9:30, WMAL—Saul Caston leads the N. B. C. Symphony: Symphony No. 7, Beethoven; Polovetskian Dances from "Prince Igor," Borodin.

9:30, WRC—Fibber McGee and Molly won't be on tonight, but their show will keep rolling just the same.

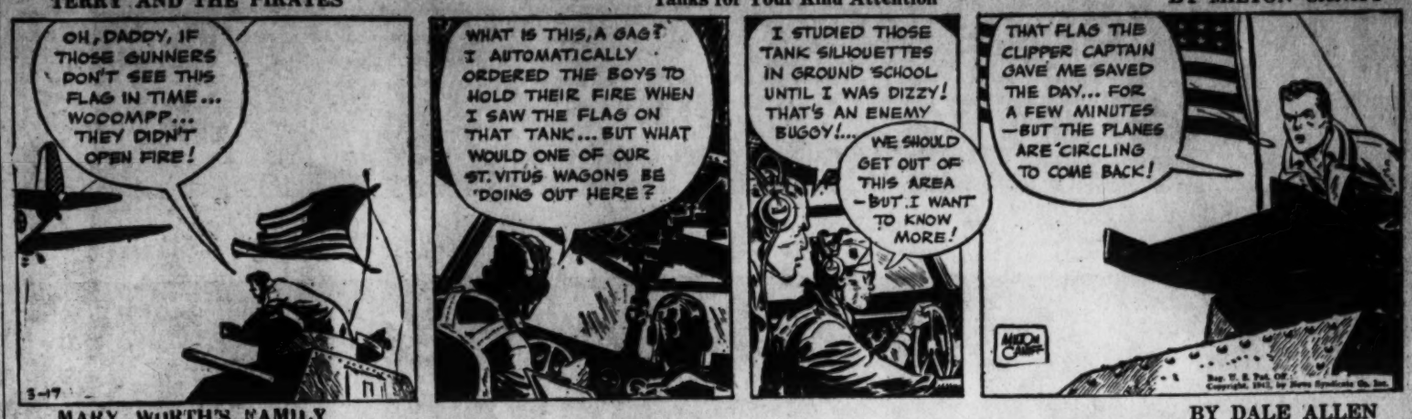
TERRY AND THE PIRATES



OH, DADDY, IF THOSE GUNNERS DON'T SEE THIS FLAG IN TIME... WOOOMPP... THEY DIDN'T OPEN FIRE!
WHAT IS THIS, A GAG? I AUTOMATICALLY ORDERED THE BOYS TO HOLD THEIR FIRE WHEN I SAW THE FLAG ON THAT TANK... BUT WHAT WOULD ONE OF OUR ST. VITUS WAGONS BE DOING OUT HERE?
I STUDIED THOSE TANK SILHOUETTES IN GROUND SCHOOL UNTIL I WAS DIZZY! THAT'S AN ENEMY BUGGY!...
WE SHOULD GET OUT OF THIS AREA—BUT I WANT TO KNOW MORE!
THAT FLAG THE CLIPPER CAPTAIN GAVE ME SAVED THE DAY... FOR A FEW MINUTES—BUT THE PLANES ARE CIRCLING TO COME BACK!

WHAT?
I SAID—WHAT—DID—YOU—SAY?
I ASKED YOU WHEREABOUTS ARE THE UMSPELSINGLE APPLE ARABY FOR TAR?
WHAT'S THAT?
OH, MY STARS! IF THE WORD WHAT WAS TAKEN OUT OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, YOU COULDN'T SPEAK
GOSH, I CAN'T HELP IT IF I DON'T UNDERSTAND YOU, I CAN!?

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Filling Station — BY FRANK MARTINEK

WHAT'S GOING ON OUT HERE?
YOU MUST'VE COME FROM A LONG LINE OF GOLD RUSHERS
HEY! WHASSA BIG IDEA? THAT'S ONE O'MY SCREEN DOORS!
I'M SORRY, PA, WE HAVE TO—
WE'VE GOT TO FIND THAT RING—
HERE IT IS, DIXIE!!
